EWU Provost Top Post For A Woman

By Cyndee Walter

Dr. Katherine Sherman became the first person at Eastern to hold the title of Provost of Academic Affairs this year.

A Search Committee composed of 13 people, including one student, had conducted interviews nation wide in search of a person qualified to become Eastern's first Provost. Out of hundreds of applications, 10 were chosen to be interviewed by EWU's President, H.G. Fredrickson, and he appointed Dr. Sherman.

Sherman said this title called for a vice-provost and a couple of assistant provosts but none have been selected for the positions yet. "I have no idea why the name 'Provost' was chosen,'' said Sherman, "But I like the idea and it's fun being the first to bear a new title."

The Provost has eight deans working under her and she makes all final decisions, although she works with Committees of the Faculty Senate when making important policies. "We try to operate in the collegial form of government," said Sherman. The faculty participates in making up policies that are guidelines the administration follows in making day-to-day decision.

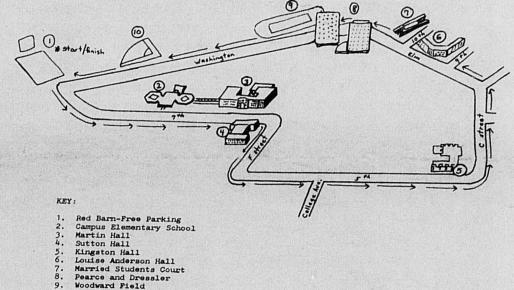

"We have a very good facult that is not at all apathetic, and this is really important for the vitality of an institution," said Sherman. Sherman says she has really been impressed with the quality of the faculty. "We ought to be bragging more about all the outside recognition they have received through awards, grants, and degrees. We also have a student body to match them. Both have put in the same amount to keep up the level of educational excitement."

"I have an appointment with the Philosophy Department here to teach if I ever get out from under all this paper work," explained Sherman, "I'd like to find the time, because I don't want to get away from Philosophy completely.

Dr. Sherman most recently moved from Olympia where she was coorinator of Academic Affairs for one and a half years. She taught a philosophy class at Evergreen State College and had previously taught at Bowdoin College.

The Provost lived in Canada for 10 years and was part of the administration and faculty at York University in Toronto. Later, she worked for the Association of Universities and Colleges in Canada.

Up With People Visits Spokane

The all-new 'Up With People' show will be brought to the Spokane Opera House at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 29, for a two hour musical.

'Up With People' is an entertaining blend of music and dancing which includes a broad range of contemporary and traditional material backed by a complete instrumental section of guitars, percussion, piano, and brass.

Many Spokane residents saw an abridged version of 'Up With People' at Expo 74, although this is their first visit back in over two years.

'Up With People' casts are out on the road 11 months out of the year and have been seen in live performances in all 50 states and in 42 countries on six continents as well as on national television across the world.

This cast, one of four on world tour, is made up of nearly 100 students, aged 18-25, representing eight different countries and 35 states. The acceptance of applicants is based on personal interviews conducted throughout the year. About 500 people apply monthly and only one in 20 finally participates.

During its 10-year history, 4,500 young women and men have lived in approximately 40,000 homes, with each cast member, during a one year tour, traveling an average of 36,000 miles.

The performers do their own stage work, promotion, day-today logistics and may work for college credits from the University of Arizona or through a program of independent study projects.

'Up With People' is an independent, non-profit, educational corporation headquartered in Tucson, Arizona. The organization endeavors to establish a creative format for communication and interaction between people of different cultures, nationalities, ages and points of view.

Tickets are $4.50, $5.50, $6.50, reserved seating and are now on sale at The Bon Marche, Valley Record Rack and the Opera House and Coliseum box offices.

Letter to the Editor

The Easterner

Dear Editor:

This letter is in regard to the new point grading system that shall be used at EWU starting this quarter. To begin with, I don't want to sound totally against it as I am not. I feel that it has many good qualities, and if used properly could be a vastly superior system to the previously used letter grades system.

I do have doubts about the point system. This is mainly with regard to the effect on the returning students who already have put in time with the old system. If the grades that these people had before the new system are averaged in with the grades earned after, then what validity will they have? These systems are radically different and shall have an effect on all students that attend EWU from now on.

I feel that the EASTERN-ER and the administration of the school have done a very poor job of informing the students about the new system. Many questions have not been asked or answered. The students have a right to know the story about the new system.

One main point is, what studies have been done on the point system? By this question I don't think that you should simply state that "It's in use at the U of W." I want to know where else this system was used. Also not just a statement that "the overall effects on the grade points of the student body was minimal." I want to know the effects of each class during the transition period.

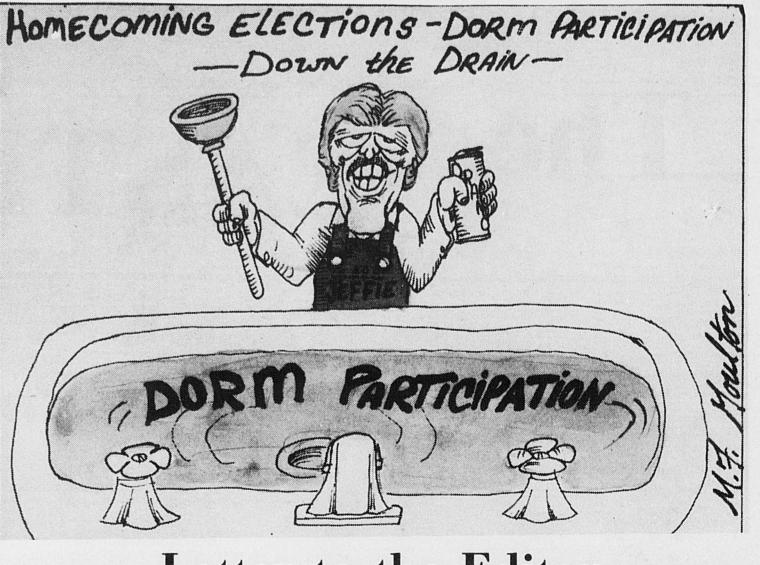

What type of explanation will be put on the students' transcripts about the point system? What studies have been done on the effect of this new system with regard to employers and their hiring practices? It must be fairly obvious that employers in this area (Eastern Wash.) have had little or no exposure to this type of grade point system.

small sized school that was fairly inexpensive. If I would have wanted to go to an expensive University with a point system and a high honors system, I would have gone to the U of W.

I feel that this institution has a responsibility to those people like myself who came here before all the changes started taking place. I am not against progress and the betterment of the school, but I am against irrational radical changes without the welfare of the students in mind.

I feel that the new point system should go ahead and be used, but starting only with the incoming freshmen. Seniors, juniors, and sophomores should remain under the old system if they were here previous to this year. The critiques of this idea will say that it will be difficult of the professors to sort out and award grades. I agree it will be, but they would only have to live with it for three years, whereas the students would have to deal with this unfairness everytime they have to look for a job.

There should be a large effort to enlighten the public about the new system. A concentrated effort should also be made to inform prospective employers on how to interpet this new system. Also, if it has not already been done, there should be a seminar that is manditory for the professors to attend. This shall explain in detail the new system and how it is to be - used in grading. There is already too much variance in the grading done by different profs and more injustice done

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Eastern Washington University ought to form an organization by the name of ASB--Apathetic Student Body. Though in the jest of a joke, this just might be justified. Look at the facts.

The high and vast majority of students on this campus just couldn't care less who is elected to "represent" them. And no small wonder. It seems as though no matter what promises are made before the election, they are seldom, if ever, carried out in the post-election period.

I wonder why the people who run for the legislative positions decide to do so. Past experience seems to show that very, very few of them actually put their names in the arena so that they may be allowed the opportunity to accomplish some ideal in the interest of the student body. Why did they want to be elected in the first place?

I might suggest that many candidates enter for what can only be termed 'self glory'. It really isn't fair, however, to place the base of the blame upon them when we may merely cast our eyes towards the current "action" of national government to observe a deeper root.

Perhaps the voting populace is receiving the brunt of the current political storm which has bestowed upon us a herd of political deer; quite happily basking in the tranquility and beauty of their surroundings, but ever so cautious so as not to be observed by that portion of the public who would have their horns for den decoration.

I really don't know who should receive the larger portion of chastisement concerning their inaction--the elector or the electee. What it boils down to in the end is a matter of trust. And that is what this rambling letter is all about. Last year we "trusted" a group of people to represent us in campus politics. What happened? We have now at Eastern a grading system implemented over the desires expressed by more than 65 per cent of the student population. I don't believe it can be said that we were fairly represented, and this is very unfortunate. Perhaps some remedy exists. On behalf of what I shall chance to say is the majority of students on the EWU campus, I would like to say that this is our school and we should have a very powerful force in campus policies. We have not been adequately represented in the past. What does the future hold for us? I urge each and every candidate currently seeking placement in the AS to honor the trust which will be given the victors in the forthcoming election. Listen to us and we will have no one to blame except ourselves. Now doesn't that seem logical? And maybe, just maybe, you'll find people a little more active in their government if they believe they are being represented. The next time you sit upon a matter of political significance to this campus, hatch something. We laugh about it and shout about it, but when you've got to choose

This paper owes the students a story as to how this new system was born to EWU. Who's brain child was it? Was there student representation in the formation of it?

A major bone of contention about the new system concerns honors. Not only has the grading system changed, but in order to graduate with honors you must now have no lower than a 3.53 g.p.a. This contrasts with the previous 3.2 g.p.a. which was required before this year. The 3.53 g.p.a. as the limit shall vary year to year depending on the previous year's class g.p.a., with the top five per cent with top honors, ten per cent next honors, and 15 per cent regular honors. I want to know why the previous year? It should be based on the same year. You should be competing with your class not the class above you.

I like many students started going to this school because it was Eastern Washington State College, a mid to by them through their ignorance is inexcusable.

As I stated earlier, honors at graduation should depend on that year's class average not the previous year's. I have nothing against only awarding the top 15 per cent of the graduating class with honors, but again this should start with the graduating class of 1981, not with the people who have been going here for three years on the premiss that a 3.2 g.p.a. was honors.

In closing, I must say that this paper owes the students here better converage of important events such as this. I also must say that the administration owes the students a re-examination of their method of introducing this system to EWU.

vidual wants to move up in the broadcasting field, it's better to be on the administrative side. "To move from reporter to the management level is very difficult," she said.

Dorn said that there may be more opportunities for women in the broadcasting field in the next few years, however, right now, of the 85 major correspondents in the country, only about 11 per cent are women.

Dorn, who was the first woman hired on the air in Spokane, mentioned that women are paid less than men in this city.

Findings by the U.S. Census Bureau in a new Labor Department publication entitled, "The Earnings Gap Between Men and Women' shows the differential in earnings between men and women has grown wider in recent years. Women who worked year-around full-time in 1974 earned 57 cents for every dollar earned by men. This has occurred despite the increasing number of women entering the work force at higher levels and better paying positions than ever before.

There are many reasons offered by the Department of Labor for this disparity: Women entering the work force are concentrated in low-status occupations; women working on full-time schedules tend to work less overtime than men; women account for more part-time workers in highly skilled or low status jobs; the education women receive is with a different concentration than the education men receive.

Nevertheless, the studies reveal that even where women are represented heavily on a par with men, women's earnings are lower. For example, women scientists earn less per year than men. The median salary for women chemists, according to a survey conducted by the National Science Foundation, was $10,500 and the median salary for men chemists was $15,600.

A State of Washington study suggests that women are paid less because their jobs are rated less even though these jobs might be on the same skill and educational level as their male counterparts.

For further information on the above-mentioned surveys and studies, stop in at the Women's Center at 114 Monroe Hall. It's open daily from 8 to 5. Everyone is welcome.

Cross Country

Record Set

Eastern Washington's Rick Becker set a course record, but Montana edged EWU 30-43 for the team title in the EWU Invitational Cross Country meet at Finch Arboretum on Saturday.

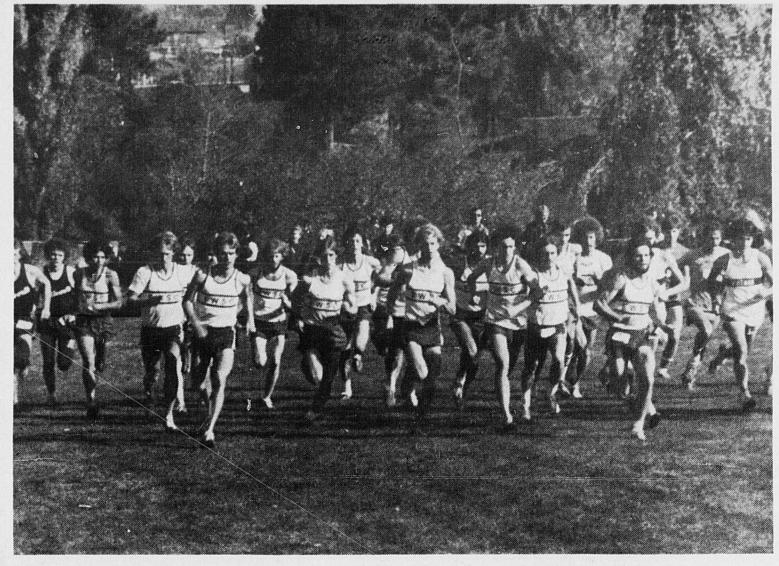

Becker, a senior, took the lead on the second mile and never gave up, finishing the 5-mile course in 26 minutes, one second. Becker broke the course mark by 19 seconds, set by Central Washington's Jim Hennessy last year.

Montana's Dean Behrman was their top finisher in third place, however, Montana's team strength gave them first place as all five of their runners finished in the top 10.

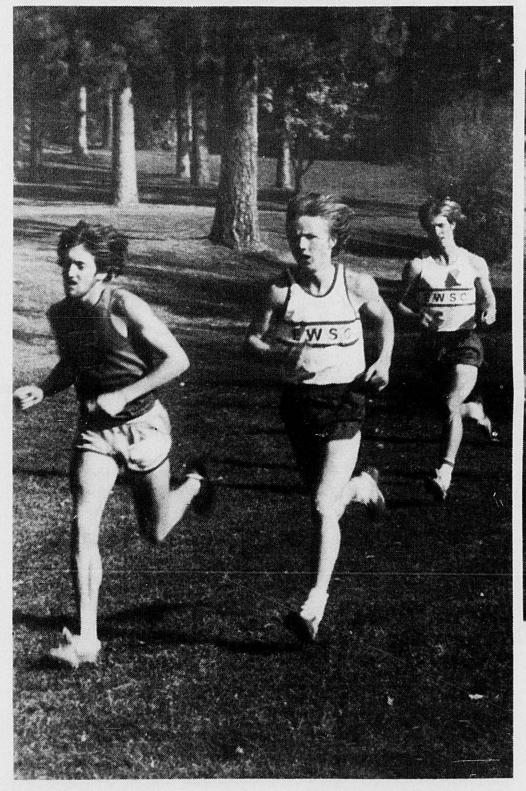

Times and places for EWU runners were: 1, Rick Becker (26;01); 4, Rick Gehrts (26;16); 8, Mike Hedway (26;33); 13, Steve Jurich (26;52); 17, Steve Stageberg (27;02); and 18, Dave Hall (27;03).

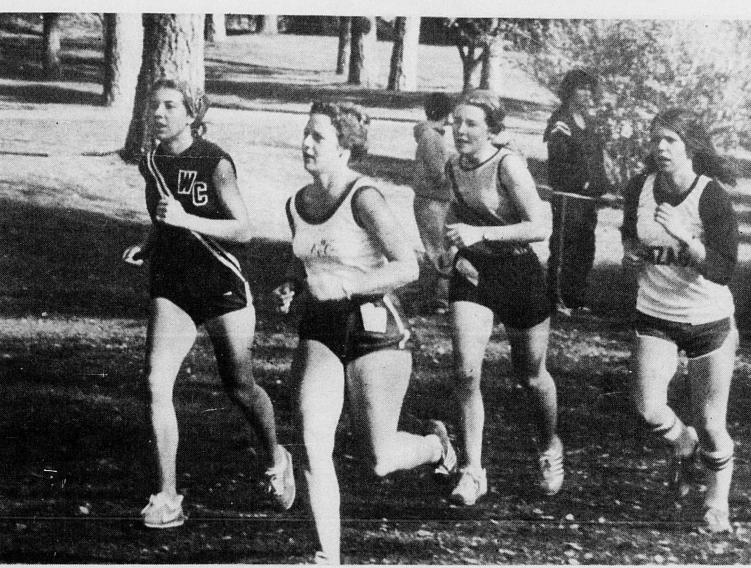

Team scores were Montana 30, Eastern 43, Montana State 73, Whitworth, 129, Eastern Oregon 198, Idaho JV 233, North Idaho 261, Whitman 282, Green River 320, Spokane Falls 369.

In the women's division Montana State captured first with 27 points. Eastern did not field a team.

EWU Loses To WWU 21-14

Eastern Washington dominated the offensive statistics but lost Saturday to Western Washington by a touchdown 21-14.

Mark Laitala hit for 201 yards on 21 pass completions, but gave up 5 interceptions to the Vikings. In all the Eagles were intercepted 6 times.

With the loss, the Eagles fell to 2-2 in EVCO play and 3-2 overall. The Vikings stand now at 2-1 and 3-3.

Turnovers and mistakes plaugued the Eagles all afternoon as they were inside the Western's 35 six times and came out six times without a point.

Eastern's troubles began right away as they suffered a blocked punt that was returned for a touchdown by Spokane native Tom Harmon.

The Eagles clawed back to tie at seven after a 73-yard drive inspired by Jim Fisk running. Laitala scored the TD on a 1-yard run.

In the second quarter Dan Hannafious returned a Laitala throw 47 yards to the EWU 29. Two plays later, Western scored to go up 14-7.

After an Eagle fumble, the Viks moved 61-yards to push ahead 21-7.

Lance Barber scored Eastern's last touchdown with 31 seconds left on a 4-yard pass from Laitala. The score was set up on a double-turnover. First Harmon intercepted Laitala, fumbled on the return where Fisk recovered it at the WWU 32.

Statistically, the Eagles tore the Vikings apart. They had 444 total yards to Western's 255 and 28 first downs to 11 for WWU.

Individually, Jim Fisk, EVCO player of the week last week, churned out 148 yards. Tom Bassett had the same yardage, but got his through the air. Randy Cameron nailed down 143 yards on an unbelievable 10 receptions, while Barber had six for 40 yards.

Volleyball

During the first two weeks of volleyball league competition, several teams have come up with an undefeated record. In the Tuesday night team, the B.C.'s also stand undefeated at 2-0.

Three teams in the Tuesday league remain undefeated, 6-Pack 2-0, and the Screamers 2-0.

This Thursday night promises to be an exciting explosion of competition when the Screamers meet Smash head to head.

Soccer Game Action Packed

By Brad Allen Last Tuesday, Oct. 18, EWU suffered a disappointing 1-0 loss to Washington State. The game was played on their home field which was astro-turf. The Eastern boots were not familiar with this type of surface and found it difficult to control the skidding, controversial penalty kick to. make it 1-1.

Randy Avery fought his way through their defense to power a seven yard shot home for a 2-1 lead at halftime. The second half was brutal for Idaho as their players were ejected for misconduct. Their attitudes were influenced by a third goal by Nathan Lacy on a defected shot by Brad Allen. With only eight minutes left in the game, Peter Obenwa took a thru pass from Jim St. George on the right side and lefted it past the Vandal's goalie. The goalie was so irritated that he ran over and jumped on the back of Obenwa while he was still on the ground. From then on total chaos existed. Both benches emptied and the opposing goalie could not be contained. The referee had no choice but to terminate the game early. A decision by the commissioners is pending on whether the game will be awarded to Eastern or replayed. Eastern's record is now 3-1 and tied for second place with Idaho. WSU is just a half-a-game ahead with three games remaining in league play. Eastern hosts Whitman College this Saturday at 1:30.

Karate Demonstration Held

By Tom McCrady

The Special Events Pavilion was the sight of the Eastern Washington University Open Karate Tournament last Saturday.

During the nearly twelve hours of kicking, hitting, and short screams, "Nearly 1000 people probably entered the doors" to watch.

Trophies were awarded to both non-contact and full-contact competition. In the non-contact fights one point was awarded for a kick or punch to the following areas of the body: chest, face, neck, front, side (rib cage), and the back (spinal cord and kidneys). The techniques must come close enough to the intended target to cause injury if actually followed through.

Five judges watched the matches. Four judges stood in designated areas while one acted as a referee. Each held two flags. One was red and one white, matching the color assigned to each fighter. If a judge viewed a kick or punch good enough for a point, he would raise the flag for the aggressor. If three of the five judges agree, then a point is awarded. When a flag is pointed upward, the judge is calling for disqualification.

A competitor is usually disqualified when he strikes his opponent. Three of the five judges must agree on the disqualification. When a player strikes his opponent, he must return to his starting place, sit down facing opposite his opponent, and wait to see if he can continue.

The matches consist of a two minute round. If at anytime a competitior's score is three points greater than that of his opponent, the match will be stopped and awarded.

Players protected

In the full contact competition each fighter wore foot, hand, head and chest pads. There were four judges sitting in chairs placed in the four corners of the fighting area. The matches consisted of two one and a half minute rounds. Between the two rounds each player would consult with a coach for one minute.

Mike Beckwith was the only Eastern student participating in the tournmament. He fought in the free-spar and full contact competition. Dr. Keith Quincy was the tournament director and also participated in the full contact competition.

The Tang Soo Do Club here at Eastern sponsored the tournament. They participate in learning the Korean Martial Arts. Tang Soo Do Club meets every Tuesday and Thursday in the Campus School gym from 4:30 to 6:00 p.m.

EWU Dance Begins Soon

University Dance Theatre, formerly DANCE-EWSC, is opening its new season this fall with MOMENTS OF DANCE. Dancers from Eastern and surrounding Inland Empire areas are presently in rehearsal in preparation for opening November 30 at the Dustin Dance Theatre, Eastern Washington University.

Ballet, jazz, and modern dance pieces are produced and choreographed by U.D.T. co-directors, Edith Bucklin, Assistant Professor of Dance, and Leonard Fowler, Ballet Artist in Residence from New York.

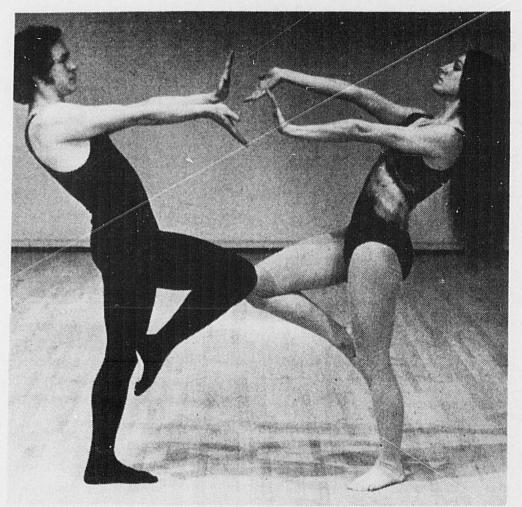

Adding to the choreographic scope of U.D.T. this season is Linda Lincoln, a graduate student in dance at Eastern. Her own modern piece, "The Hunt" will be among the modern works performed.

Participating dancers for this season are: Kayla Bogue, Olympia, Deanna Bolich, Clarkston; Michael Bryant, Colville; Kathy Kinnear, Seattle, JoAnn Knecht, Richland; Linda Lincoln, Couer d'Alene, Idaho; Dennis Minzghor, Cheney; Lynn Neil, Colfax; Sally Quinby, Bellingham; Saimecra Redeker, Spokane; Bob Sizemaore, Wenatchee; GregRobin Smith, Cheney; and Georgia Vorhies, Cheney.

what's happening in the dorms, The Easterner has decided to put its' SPOTLIGHT on all the activities available to dorm residents and interested outsiders.

Louise Anderson (LA) the quiet dorm, has several things lined up in the near future for those studious inhabitants. Already, LA had had a successful Old Time Movie Festival, October 4, and sometime in November, a chilly wood-cutting party is scheduled with a special get-together planned afterwards.

Dressler, one of the twin towers, is going head strong with what seems like and endless list of activities planned for this quarter. Every Thursday, hungry or not, students can fill up on donuts for sale at Dressler. To lose those extra pounds that settled from too many donuts, Dressler has scheduled a rollerskating party in the near future.

Although it has been referred to too. In the near future Dryden is starting a choir, to, as one member said "bring the people in the dorm closer together, since music is a common ground."

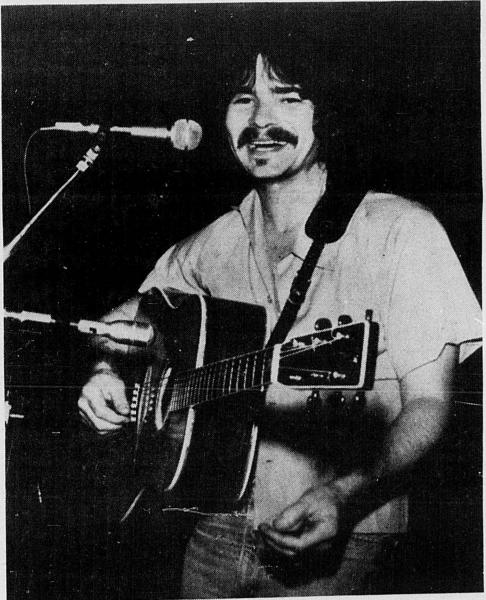

Get ready for fun, live music, and refreshments at a price that can't be beat. Dryden is sponsoring a fun-filled Halloween party October 31, with the smooth sounds of Roger Ingalls and Friends, playing a variety of music throughout the evening. Cost is only 25 cents or free with a Dryden social fee card.

Jerry Jeff Walker, story telling songster, has two things going for him...a thumb and a song. Jerry Jeff spent his career hitching the by-ways and playing for anyone who would listen along the way.

Spokane audiences can experience Jerry Jeff's unique blend of music and travel with him down his successful career, November 9, at the EWU Pavilion.

Walker is expected to perform favorites from some of his earlier albums including "Mr BoJangles," and tunes from "Collectibles," and "Ridin' High."

John Prine to Perform Performing with Jerry Jeff is John Prine, coal miner's son, who bought a $28 guitar and struggled, in four short years, to the top of the charts, developing his own style of country music along the way.

Prine's songs have been recorded by pop, country, rock and folk stylists including Bonnie Riatt, Carly Simon, and John Denver.

Amongst this list of famous performers, Prines own standards have proven themselves and established him as one of the very best contemporary songwriters.
