Background

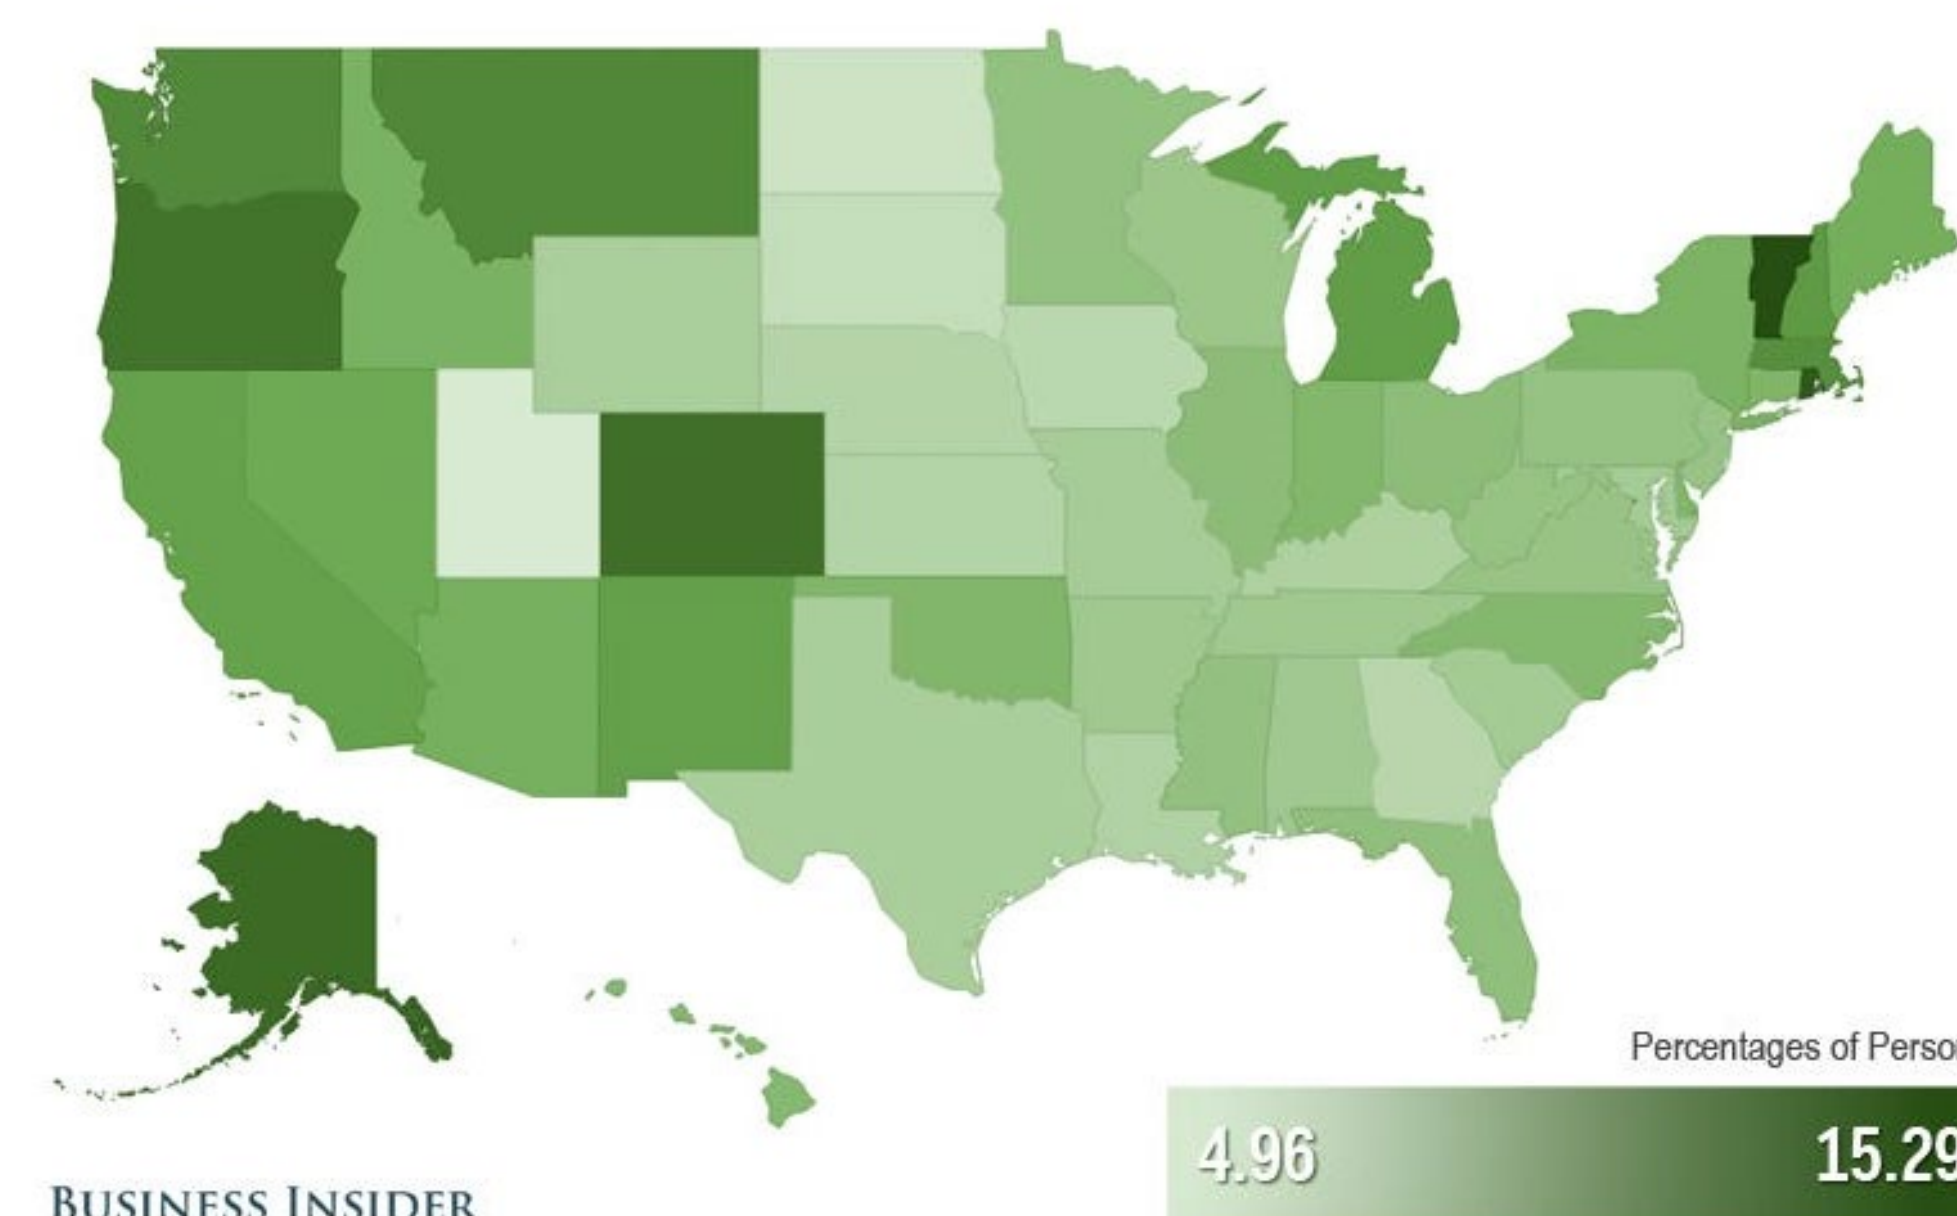

- Drug abuse is considered to be the leading problem facing the world and is ranked the first in the list of the top 10 major issues affecting the world population.
- Abuse of narcotics among the youths continues to be a major threat to society as it affects not only the health conditions of the users but is also associated with some secondary impacts, which could include increased immorality and insecurity.

- Many of the narcotics abusers have different reasons for engaging in the vice. Some of the reasons include:

- 1) Family issues
- 2) Exposure to psychological pressure
- 3) Shock
- 4) Depression
- 5) They want a different feeling experience and similar may things be a reason to develop this bad habit.

Illicit Drug Use In The Past Month Among Persons Aged 12 Or Older

Study Objectives

Addiction to narcotics is dangerous to society, as it has great harm to the user, family, those around him, and the community in which he lives. However, people still manufacture and sell it regardless of the harm it causes. Most of these manufacturers and sellers are so obliged to making a profit in the illegal business such that they would not dare quit

Results

Users, on the other hand, are still ignorant about drug abuse regardless of unending campaigns concerning the adverse effects. According to Linda, Drake says that the war on drugs is useless and unless they prosecute the merchants who exploit vulnerable people.

Conclusion

The purpose of this project is to clarify the reason for the continued manufacture, dissemination, and usage of banned drugs with an agreement on how dangerous it is to human health.
