Monday morning Sept. 29.

Dear Parents,

I write a few lines this morning to let you know that I am still on the mend.

The disease I suppose is entirely broken & my appetite tolerably good so I am gaining strength. I sat up yesterday long enough to write sally a letter & walked down stairs once. Last night I did not rest quite so well but feel better since I got up this morning. & shall go down and wash soon as I get this ready for the mail. I want you to write often & so will I at least till I get right stout again so you need not have any uneasiness about me for you find here the facts neither increased or diminished My love to all

Your affectionate son & Brother
Thomas

P.S. I would like to hear Father how your business is prospering how your work is getting along & what grain & stock you have disposed of

Dear Parents:

I write a few lines this morning to let you know that I am still on the mend. The disease I suppose is entirely broken and My appetite tolerably good so I am gaining strength. I sat up yesterday long enough to write Sally a letter and walked down stairs once. Last night I did not rest quite so well but feel better since I got up this morning and shall go down and wash soon as I get this ready for the mail. I want you to write often and so will I, at least till I get right stout again so you need not have any uneasiness about me for you find here the facts neither increased or diminished. My love to all.

Your affectionate son and brother,

Thomas.

P.S. Father, I would like to hear how your business is prospering, how your work is getting along and what grain and stock you have disposed of.
