Thomas L. Evans letter to his father from Fort Morgan, Alabama, March 9, 1865

March 9th, 1865

Dear Father,

I mailed a letter to Joshua yesterday consequently have but little to write to day. But write to tell you to pay Phug Gladhills wife ($25) twenty five dollars for me. Phug says she is at Newton and in need of money and he has made this right with me.

Yesterday we were inspected by Gen. Osterhaus and we stored all our baggage except the little we take with us on a march, and we are now ready for anything that comes along.

We have a very comfortable camp here and everything comfortable about us but do not expect to enjoy it long for I think the expedition is almost ready to move.

There are two Army Corps here here the 16th commanded by Gen. A.J. Smith, and ours now designated as the 13th Army Corp, and commanded by Gen. Branner.

The 96th is in the 16th Corps but is camped at Fort Gaines on the other side of the bay so I do not expect to get to see them.

Write often for the mails now are very irregular and we get "few enough" letters at best.

I have nothing more to write at present but remain as ever your affectionate son

Thomas

Dear Father:

I mailed a letter to Joshua yesterday, consequently have but little to write to-day but write to tell you to pay Mug Gladhill's wife ($25) twenty-five dollars for me. Mug says she is at Newton and in need of money and he has made this right with me.

Yesterday we were inspected by Gen. Osterhaus and we stored all our baggage except the little we take with us on a march and we are now ready for anything that comes along.

We have a very comfortable camp here and everything comfortable about us but do not expect to enjoy it long for I think the expedition is almost ready to move.

There are two Army Corps here the 16th commanded by Gen. A.J. Smith and ours now designated as the 13th Army Corp. and commanded by Gen. Granger.

The 96th is the 16th Corps but is camped at Fort Gains on the other side of the bay so I do not expect to get to see them. Write often for the mails now are very irregular and we get "few enough" letters at best. I have nothing more to write at present but remain as ever,

Your affectionate son,

Thomas.
