Western United States.

Throughout its history, the Music Department has maintained a strong commitment to excellence in all areas of music education, including composition, performance, and pedagogy. The department offers a wide range of courses and ensembles, from beginning to advanced levels, and provides opportunities for students to perform in diverse settings, both on and off campus.

The Music Department is also home to a number of distinguished faculty members, who are actively engaged in research, performance, and composition. The department fosters a collaborative and supportive environment, where students are encouraged to explore their own creativity and to develop their skills as musicians.

David M. Martorano, the chair of the Music Department, comments, "We are proud to offer a comprehensive music education program that prepares students for a variety of careers in the field. Our students receive a well-rounded education in all aspects of music, and they are encouraged to explore their own unique voice and to develop their own style.

In addition to the Music Department, the University offers a variety of other programs and departments that contribute to the rich cultural life of the campus. These include the Dance Department, the Theatre Department, the Film and Media Studies Program, and the Visual Arts Program.

The University is committed to providing a diverse and inclusive environment, where students from all backgrounds are encouraged to explore their own interests and to contribute to the vibrant community of scholars and artists that make up the University of Western United States.
