Shuck Praises Eastern Growth

"All those who have an interest in Eastern have many reasons to be proud of its accomplishments and confident of its future."

These are the words of President Emerson Shuck in his "Report of the President" covering the period from 1967 to 1972.

The report is filled with praise for the quality of instruction at Eastern and the growth of the college in the past six years. Shuck mentioned some of the pluses that have developed at Eastern-expansion of the instructional media center, opening of the language center in Patterson Hall, and the fact that the number of faculty with doctorates rose from 36 percent in 1966 to 64 percent in 1972.

GROWTH ILLUSTRATED
Shuck illustrated the growth of the college by pointing out that the number of degrees awarded in a year rose from 791 to 1620 in 1972, full-time faculty increased from 108 to 396, and 23 permanent buildings became 40 buildings by 1972. He also mentioned that enrollment nearly doubled from 4167 to a peak of nearly 7000. Shuck stated, "All of these statistics should be read as greater opportunities for our students—and as necessary response to the challenges of change in this period."

The report called attention to the development of black and Indian education programs and the increase in minority groups attending Eastern. Shuck also mentioned the increase of community interaction with the college as evidence of the essential reaction to the "broad social questions that have marked the past few years."

MATURITY CITED

Shuck said, "Students at Eastern have had a long and successful history of self-directed activity." During the student disruptions of 1969, "EWSC students as a whole displayed their maturity by demonstrating and acting strongly for what they believed, but in an orderly manner."

The administration also garnered praise in Shuck's report for its performance, even though it "has been understaffed in the face of growing demands for coordination and communication with the many constituencies of the college."

The administration staff has increased only 15 percent over the past five years and yet, he said, the student-related offices-admissions, registration, the student health center and Tawanka have continued to provide vital services to students.

Cheney is Dripping Dry

by Leilani Williams

The city of Cheney is slowly but surely running out of water because there is no reliable water source this side of the Spokane underground river.

According to Cheney's Assistant Superintendent of Utilities Ben Hall, the city's four pumps and Eastern's single pump draw water from underground lakes that are gradually drying up. A few of the wells are pumping some air and soil.

Cheney, along with Medical Lake and Four Lakes is trying to obtain a federal grant to finance a project to pump water from Spokane. When asked what the cost of this project would amount to, Hall replied, "I really can't say for sure right now but it's going to be real big figures."

COLLECTING DATA

Eastern's Environmental Gab Group has taken up the problem to see if the shortage can be alleviated or slowed down some. The group is investigating possible areas where water is being wasted on Eastern's campus. A spokesman for the group, Dr. Frank Nicol, who is director of the Environmental Studies Program, said that the group is collecting data on where the water used on campus is going and if there are areas using excessive water.

Nicol mentioned some possible areas--the laundry in the new PE complex which cleans clothes for students And the men's toilets that have a constant flush system. The group is going to try to determine if excessive water is being used on the lawns and gardens.

MOST FROM CHENEY

Most of Eastern's water is pumped from Cheney so the college would be involved if and when Cheney has to pipe water from Spokane. Hall stated, "Spokane gets all of its water from an underground river that has an almost inexhaustible supply of some of the best water in the world."

Hall also said that the problem could become critical in five to 15 years "and that is why we are planning now."

Volunteer Bureau, AWS Split

The Women's Commission, a subdivision of AWS, has refused to fund the activities of the Volunteer Bureau this quarter.

Cathy Logan, vice president of AWS, cited two reasons for the disassociation of the two organizations. The primary objection raised by AWS concerned the salary received by the person in charge of the Volunteer Bureau. Miss Logan stated that the $1700 salary "left little money to finance adequate programs."

Another concern of the AWS was to break the "traditional woman's role" as volunteer group sponsors "such as the Red Cross." The Women's Commissions submitted a new budget to the administration three weeks before the end of fall quarter.

It omitted the Volunteer Bureau in order to fund other projects "more essential to a woman's place in society." The AWS was given $1400 for this purpose.

STILL ACTIVE

Despite the financial redistribution, the Volunteer Bureau is still active and has found new financial backing. Its members participate in such programs as "Big Brothers" and help at the Antonian School for Special Children. Next year, the administration will fund the bureau separately.

The $1400 grant allocated to AWS has been used for many purposes. Among them, Miss Logan mentioned that a series of workshops dealing with the issues "Women in Society," "Women and the Law," and "Women in Politics" will be held Monday nights. These discussions will be on the second floor of the SUB.

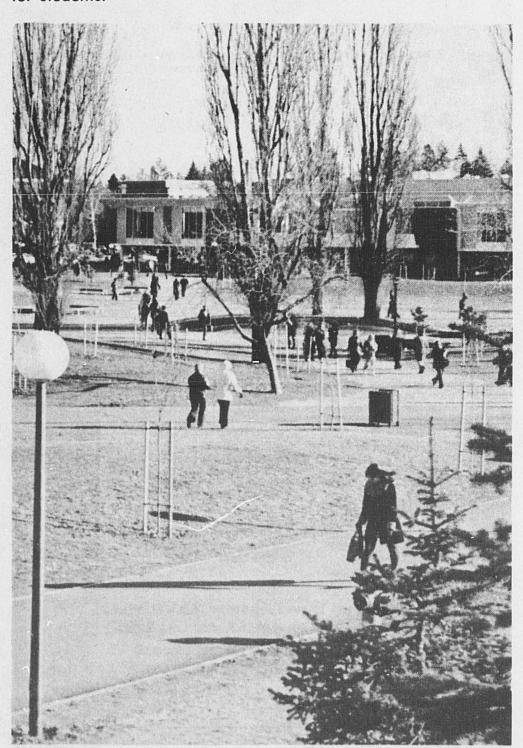

An issue that will be raised is an alternative to marriage.

PRIMARY CONCERN

The AWS also has a "primary concern" in the establishment, funding and publicity for the Sex Information Center.

A library, also on the second floor of the SUB, has been started. It contains contemporary volumes such as "The Feminine Mystique," "The Female Eunuch," and other books.

Miss Logan said, "Both the Volunteer Bureau and the Women's Commission have their place on campus, but the AWS has a set of priorities as a women's organization and these priorities must come first."

The name Savages won with 950 votes, followed by Braves with 52 votes and Appaloosa with 39 votes. Initially, the Savage Mascot Change Committee planned to hold a runoff election with the first three names, but because of the lopsided vote, it has not been determined if there will be a runoff.

Opinions regarding the result was somewhat diverse.

Dr. Hagie, a member of the mascot committee, did not feel the word Savage was discriminating, however he did question the caricature of the Indian. He also said the student and alumni votes were similar in preference.

Students at the Longhouse were divided in their opinion.

The Mascot Sickness; Is The Solution Really The Antidote?

Early last summer Eastern was afflicted with a virus, and has been in a coma until last December. However, the campus seems to have shaken that coma, and has made a definite effort to get back on its feet....or so it seems. Yet many are really unsure if the antidote has done any good at all.

An overwhelming majority of students, faculty, and alumni demonstrated their support for the use of the mascot, "the Savages". In so doing, they said, it's time to end this game, rid the school of the "overzealous social-conscience bug" and get things back to normal. Their own solid vote became the antidotei.

However, the campus may be suffering a setback with word that this college's notables may want a runoff election, and this time exclude the choice of "the Savages". In other words, prolong this sickness, this ridiculous notion that a certain member or members of Eastern's Board of Trustees can cure the world...or satisfy their own bad consciousness by calling or demanding for a change in the school's mascot.

It seems like old times again, having the big guys telling the little guys what they will want and like....and if the big guy doesn't get what he wants, he steps on the little guy anyway.

Enough time, money and planning has been given into this facet. Publicity for Eastern hadn't been the greatest either, since the coma hit. What is sadly humourous is that the mascot is one of the more meaningless facets to the majority of the students on campus anyway. The "scrawny" turnout to the polls last December contests to that. The Board must see now that they have been playing with pettiness. There is no point to continue this farce any longer, or in simpler terms, kick a dead dog

No one, save the BOT, really cares whether or not the use of "the Savages" is the least bit derogatory to the Indian. Even a majority of the Indians on campus don't care, and would just as soon leave it as it stands.

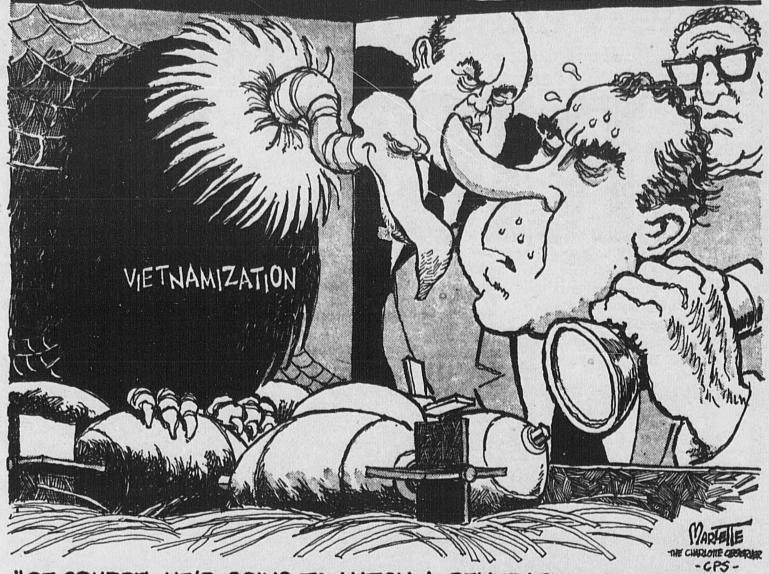

What also is humorous is that the antidote pleased everyone but several members on the Board. How many times must they listen before they hear voices besides their own?

To the Board of Trustees: The majority says let it stand, and cure this sickness once and for all. Is it too much to ask that you need this advice, for once? Or will we have a setback in 73?

"OF COURSE, HE'S GOING TO HATCH A GENERATION OF PEACE-

Vietnam?

The war in Vietnam is beginning a new era: the era; offense." of the totally mechanized fighting machine. It no longer takes 400 men to take a strategic hamlet or hill. All that is needed is a B52 and some bombs. The war is now fought from 30,000 feet altitude more effectively than from the defoliated ground. However, here too, machines are not always accurate and occasionally stray bombs find their way to a hospital, a Pow camp, or in the latest incident a U.S. air base.

This week I searched the campus for opinions agreeing or disagreeing with me. I found that myself and people who agree with me are in the minority. These people have no labels, and are liberal and conservative alike. However EVERYONE I spoke to felt that peace must be achieved; it was only in the method of achieving this peace that there was opposition.

Bob Beckman-Freshman--Major--ROTC

Because South Vietnam and North Vietnam can't come to the peace table without it becoming a political expose, the bombing of North Vietnam and the cutting of aid to South Vietnam were the only logical steps to make the two countries come to the peace table and get us out of Vietnam with an honorable peace.

Lawrence Massengale-Sophomore-Major Political

"I think Nixon would have been able to negotiate without the bombing. Nixon is conscious of history. He wants to be remembered as a great president....he wants to live in history. Don't get me wrong. I'm not blaming this war on him, but I am blaming its prolonging on him. IF peace is at hand, where is it?"

Bill Lowry-Junior-Major--Education

"I think we've screwed around too long and it seems to me, it being a political war, that this bombing can bring the two sides together to start talking definite peace plans."

Micheal Agenbroad-Freshman-Major--Speech

"The only thing that I can see that the bombing is accomplishing is to drag out a war that has already gone on too long. It's certainly not the way to the peace that was "at hand" in November. Bombing is, in itself, bad enough but when the targets become hospitals and POW camps, it's gone too far. I can say one thing in favor of it though. It's typical of Nixon."

Rick Nelson's Versatility Wide

by Mark Carlin

We've gone through our own little changes, in many cases such as Rick Nelson's, it has been a metamorphosis. But in Rick's case it has been a change created in our minds. Although he did play "Ricky" in "Ozzie and Harriet," he was Ricky on television only, and it is quite doubtful that his home life was similar to that of the show.

However this 32-year-old man has evolved into an artist who "can't please everyone," and if we allow ourselves to become so shallow as to reject this man for what he was, instead of what he is, we haven't learned much.

Perhaps Rick's music appeals to only a select few who recognize talent. These few would include George Harrison, who, on his way to a concert Rick put on in Britain, was involved in an auto accident.

ESCAPED GRIP

At any rate, Rick has succeeded as an artist who has escaped the rigid grip of commercialism that now is closing in on artists like Elton John, Jethro Tull, and Grand Funk. He plays a style of music that ranges from Dylan to Chuck Berry to the Stones.

Rick Nelson and the Stone Canyon Band can play a slow, melodious country song-the equal easily to that of Country Joe or Poco- and turn right around and belt out a tune like "Honky Tonk Women." Their versatility is wide.

All in all the Nelson concert Jan. 25 should be worth seeing; the one drawback being that it's a Thursday night concert, that being, according to Mike Baker, the only day that Rick could appear in this area. Go to the concert and watch Rick perform. I think you'll be surprised, if you let yourself.

On December 7th, the Civil Aeronautics Board Abolished Youth Fares
Please cut out and mail the letter below to let Congress know where we stand and that proper legislation is in order to correct this injustice

ACTNOW

Dear Congressman

Please take action to save the Youth Fares and Discount Fares which have recently bee abolished by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

I would appreciate it if you would also write the CAB and request that they delay enforcement of this decision until Congress has an opportunity to act on this important question.

Some 5-million students traveled using this discount fare in the past year. This contributed over $400-million to cover fixed costs of the airlines. These carriers can be presumed to have a full gresp of the marketing considerations involved and are, at least, as interested as the CAB in dropping any useless discount fares. Yet, an overwhelming majority of the airlines who participated in the CAB investigation are in favor of these fares.

Millions of students have purchased their Youth Fare identification cards with the belief that the cards would be valid until their 22nd birthday. Now the cards are being abruptly cut off by the CAB's decision.

As one of millions of young voters, I respectfully request that you act to pass legislation that will allow the CAB to discriminate on the basis of age by keeping Youth Fares. I will be anxiously awaiting the results of the coming legislation concerning this matter.

'Deliverance' Nightmarish

by Norm Taylor

"Deliverance," a film about a horrific weekend river run, tenders to movie-goers a downhill roller coaster ride to nightmare.

The excursion has its virtuesbrilliant photographic work, breathless seconds of suspense, and an outstanding performance by Jon Voight.

The scene is the Cabulawassee River down south, soon to have its rapids and challenge removed through the creation of a vast lake. A quartet of city-dwellers, headed by a plastic Tarzan, Burt Reynolds, aims to have few thrills coasting amidst some of the river's final lunges.

The trek, intended to end in time for the "boys" to return home and view the cheerleaders at halftime Sunday afternoon, instead is dashed with murder, two too many mountain men, sexual assault and deception.

RESOURCEFUL ACTOR

Voight is a resourceful actor, who plays the city boy clashing with a hostile environment with bewildered rationality. He finds it unnatural to kill, yet overcomes the bow-and-arrow shakes to save his own life and two others of the party.

The remaining member is less fortunate, though more inclined to tell the truth--the Cabulaw-assee is his burial plot.

Reynolds is the undisputed head of the group, a man born in an

The quartet traverse in two canoes down the river--their relative inexperience at paddling is sprinkled with salty humor, the redeeming aspect of the films' initial scenes.

The film ends with a nightmare, which is fitting. "Deliverance," showing at the State Theatre, is an excellent, if egregious object lesson in the effective use of the discreet lie.

And also the constant fear of having the damning truth discovered.

Dr. King Memorial Events Set

Three events at Eastern are planned in memorial to the late Dr. Martin Luther King... and all are open to the public.

Friday, Jan. 12, a dance in the Pence Union Building, featuring two bands, will also offer a short tribute to King. Monday, Jan. 15, in the fieldhouse at 8 p.m., there will be a demonstration of an African form of self defense...

Tuesday, Jan. 16, a documentary film on King will be shown at 7 p.m. in the PUB... The events are free but donations will be accepted to help black students at Eastern.

Ken Kennedy Leaves Post Family Plan Unit Helps The Cheney Family Planning breast and pelvic examinations.

by Karen Pruitt

"It's been a real rewarding 14 years," Kenneth Kennedy remarked, adding, "It was possibly one of the more exciting times the college will ever go through".

Kennedy retired Dec. 31 from the position of Vice President for Planning and Development after working at Eastern since 1958.

Kennedy played a major role in initiating the building done on campus since 1960, which included all but the oldest buildings and dorms.

But Kennedy doesn't like to think that the buildings were his only accomplishments while at Eastern. He also helped to improve the academic standards of the college. When Kennedy first came to Eastern in 1958 as assistant registrar, the average grade point average was 2.0. Since that time it has reached 2.8.

This rise in academic standards made Eastern more attractive to better students and faculty and to the Washington State Legislature (from whom much of Eastern's money comes).

After 1960, as vice president, he represented the college in Olympia, where he lobbied for money for buildings and the hiring of faculty. Kennedy stated, "It was a good time to be a representative in Olympia." He added that Eastern was able to get considerable financial help from the legislature.

As proof of Eastern's grown, Kennedy stated that in 1958 there were 1700 students, compared to four times that number today; and 70 faculty members, compared to five times that many today.

Shortly after he announced his resignation, Kennedy accepted his appointment by Gov. Dan Evans to the Public Disclosure Commission.

This commission will include a board of five trustees who will act as policy makers in seeing that the provisions of Initiative 276 are carried out. This initiative deals with disclosure of campaign finances, activities of lobbyists and financial affairs of elective officers and candidates.

Tuesday, Jan. 2, the first commission meeting was held.

From Olympia, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy plan to leave for Florida to visit their daughter and son-in-law until the middle of March, then return to Cheney where they will continue to live. Kennedy will have to "commute" to Olympia when the commission is in session.

President Shuck plans to recommend at the Jan. 19 meeting of the Board of Trustees that Kennedy not be replaced. Instead, he feels that the responsibilities and budget accounts of the position of Vice President for Planning and Development should be distributed among other college officers.

Kennedy was honored by Eastern's Board of Trustees at Fall Commencement with a certificate of Distinguished Service to the College which cited his years of outstanding work at Eastern.

Shucks's final comment on him reflects the spirit of the departing Kennedy, "Kenneth Kennedy's service to EWSC, for a number of years in the Admissions Office, and more recently as Director and then Vice President for Planning and Development, was notable for its sound practicality and unobtrusive effectiveness."

Shuck added that, "His inimitable blend of good humor, idealism and thoughtfulness of others will be missed by all who worked with him."

TOUGH TRIPS

The basketball team and the wrestling squad both took a swing into Oregon last weekend and the ride home seemingly was three times as long as the southbound journey. Jerry Krause's roundball quintet came out on the short end of a 100-84 count against Eastern Oregon that may prove to be a decisive factor when the EVCO final standings Savages as a team hitting better are tabulated.

Fouls plagued the Savages as three starters were whistled out of the been doing all season. game. But more decisive was the inability of the offense to put points on the board when they were needed desperately. The Savages Folda expressed praise for his again tour Oregon this weekend as they meet Southern Oregon and one of the three pre-season favorites, Oregon Tech.

Although the conference race is but one week old, Krause's charges far this season. face a "must win" situation on Friday and Saturday night. A split would result in a 1-2 conference record and leave the Savages facing a long, uphill struggle in their bid for the title.

WRESTLERS LOOK GOOD

Coach Curt Byrne's grappler squad performed well at Monmouth in dual meets against Oregon College of Education and Brigham Young University, but couldn't muster enough points for the victories. OCE nipped the Savages 19-18 on the strength of a last match victory.

BYU soundly trounced Eastern in their Saturday meet but Byrnes felt his team actually performed better against the stronger BYU team. OCE is rated sixth in the NAIA and Brigham Young is tabbed as the No. 12 team in the NCAA. Considering the caliber of talent they faced, the matmen turned in a pretty sharp performance.

While most of us were skiing, eating turkey or just laying around over the holidays, Eastern's basketball squad traveled south to compete in 2 holiday tourneys. With a balanced team effort, Jerry Krause's cagers defeated Pacific University 100-88 on Dec. 19 and came back the next night to cop the Balladtown Classic Trophy via a 70-63 triumph over Simon Fraser.

One week later the Savages tangled with Marymount College

Grapplers Drop Pair

The Savage wrestling team came with 2 points of upsetting 6th ranked Oregon College of Education Friday in a dual match at Monmouth that saw the Oregonions come from behind to squeeze out a 19-18 triumph. Coach Curt Byrnes' forces battled NCAA power Brigham Young University on the same mats the following day and lost by a 39-9 count.

The only double winner for Eastern was Ruben Rios, 167 pound standout who has yet to be defeated this season. Rios is the defending EVCO champ in his weight classification.

Despite the losses, Byrnes said he felt his squad did a great job. He noted that the loss of Jerry Byrne to a knee injury played a big part in his planning for the OCE encounter and that the outcome may have been reversed had Byrne been able to compete.

The Vikings of Western Washington come to town Friday and the Savages host a quadrangular meet Saturday with Pacific U., Whitworth and the University of Alberta.

Junior Varsity Mangles EOC

Completely dominating play from the opening tip-off, the Eastern Jr. Varsity basketball squad ripped the Eastern Oregon College Jr. Varsity by a 104-64 margin last Saturday night.

Showing little consideration for the Oregon quintet's home court advantage, the Savages built a 47-26 bulge at the halfway mark and coasted home for their sixth victory against two setbacks. Randy Allen led Coach Joe Folda's forces with 22 tallies in a balanced attack which saw the than 50 percent from the floor which, incindentally, they have Eastern's University Year Phase 4 for Action (UYA) commenced its phase four program Jan. 8. Thirty Begun interns to be placed in 12 participating local agencies were enrolled in UYA by UYA last December.

At the commencement in the Pence Union Building, interns were fingerprinted and acquainted with organization rules, including the Hatch Act. This concerns the use of departmental vehicles by interns who have been assigned to agencies that are a subsidiary of the federal government. Conducting the commencement were Mrs. Bryna Omen, UYA Supervisor in Seattle, and Ray Hazen, Region 10 attorney, based in Seattle.

70 VOLUNTEERS Eastern has had a University Year for Action program since January 1971, when 35 interns were enrolled to commence phase one. Sixty interns from phases one and two have since completed their quota. There are now 70 volunteers in the program.

It is expected that the Eastern program, currently sponsored by the federal government through the Office of Economic Opportunity, will be institutionalized within three years. However, confirmation of this move and the methods of effecting it are still forthcoming.
