Open Hearing's Held On ROTC

By BOB CUBBAGE

The last phase of the continuing battle over a voluntary ROTC program took place Friday when members of the Undergraduate Affairs Council and concerned students met in the Marigold Room of the Tawas¬ka Student Union to express their views to the Board of Trustees. In following last Monday’s vote, the board is expected to remove the ROTC program from the University’s voluntary academic major program basic program from the table and voting list.

A president Mike Murphy presented a petition bearing 1408 signatures to the board. The petition was an eleven-hour effort by the Committee for Peace in Vietnam and was endorsed by the AS Council.

"We think our petition indicates genuine student interest in a voluntary program," said Wall Lindgren, CPVN chairman told the board. Lindgren compared the ROTC program to the student assembly program. "Students can’t engage in this quest for ideas under an authoritarian organization such as ROTC.

"Are we here at college to learn and experience or are we here to be trained and structured," intoned Vince O’Leary, student member of the Undergrad¬uate Council.

Terry Davis, another student member of the council pointed out that 1100 male students a year were being subjected to a program that can only accept 80 advanced students in their junior or senior year.

"There wasn’t mandatory ROTC, there would be a large number of officers in the Army that people probably, ‘Don’t let’s go along with it,’" James Bell told the board. Bell said he based his views on prior Army service.

"It’s not too much too many mandatory military training for the freshmen and sophomores since they are being exempted from the draft," Karen Snow said.

The petition was also dismissed and defended by the students present. "I am a hick from Ohio and I don’t think I’ve been indoctrinated," Danny Williams said that he and other students talked with some of the students and faculty who had signed the statement and some had changed their minds on the issue.

A series of platoons, such as "It’s wrong to kill," was given to Michal Snow who also talked to those who signed the petition. Many signed the petition because they didn’t want to par¬ticipate in ROTC, Miss Snow said.

"Many view ROTC in much the same way as they view other re¬quired subjects such as English 18," Jerry Shackett told the board. "And if they have a chance to rid themselves of re¬quired classes, that would be substantial reasons for signing it.

Mark Barke acclaimed the amount of signatures the CPVN had garnered since a large pro¬portion of the students are com¬mitted.

Lindgren cited to the board the reasons behind signing the petition were purely per¬sonal.

Grievance Committee Urges Grade, Curriculum Revamp

The Student Ad Hoc Grievance Committee has scheduled a campus meeting last Tuesday for scheduling an illegal meeting, met yesterday for preparing a list of the "right to question how educa¬tion is presented to the student, and for more student participation in achieving this end."

"A party could be gathered in the Kolonia house to discuss the formation of a group dedicated to increase the student role in shaping their future."

"Students should be co-equal with the faculty, not in matters of authority, but in personal con¬frontation," Vincent O’Leary, self-proclaimed leader of the group, said. He also came out for abolishing the grade system.

"The system, as it is, is largely inflexible and if you can build flexibility into it, you’re on the right track," Dean Hagie said. "I’m interest¬ed in what the students are think¬ing and groups like this on other campuses have reflected this same problem of," O’Leary said.

The group plans to meet at 12:40 every Tuesday but due to their current status on campus have no regular meeting place. In respect to student reactions, O’Leary said: "If people are wor¬ried about our presence, that is a good start."

Dean O’Leary also maintained that the administration is not available for the students. "The president should set aside a coffee hour each day for the students to talk to him," O’Leary said. "As it is now, students don’t go near him; they think he’s someone to stay away from. He should have a question and answer period after his last one but didn’t.

Justice Board Resets Hearing

An AS Judicial Board hearing on an injunction which stopped the meeting of the Student Ad Hoc Grievance Committee Thursday last week will be postponed again Monday.

Action was postponed next Monday at 4:10 p.m. Miles BRENNER, AS attorney general, asked for the postponement, but no reasons were given for the request.

Larry Nelsen, AS chief justice. "I can say the postponement but wore that the board might not give a sympathetic hearing to a request because the hearing on the matter."

Vincent O’Leary, head of the Stu¬dent Ad Hoc Committee, did not make an appearance at the hearing and no word was given con¬cerning the possibility of charges being brought against him but disregarding a summons from the students and faculty who had signed the statement and some had changed their minds on the issue.

Democratic Representative Tom Foley, seeking re¬election as Congressman from Washington’s Fifth District, earned slightly more than 62 per cent of the vote and beat political novice Dick Brown 399 to 244.

Voting for the straw ballot was conducted all day long Monday and was held in the Student Union Building and Tawakana Commons.

Architect Ken Brooks walked out of Eastern's Board of Trustees meeting last Friday with a smile on his face, and no wonder. Called on the carpet to explain an increase of $291,000 in his firm's estimate of the cost of the new SUB Brooks listed some general causes and sat down.

The board okayed the new figure, $1,990,000, with the stipulation that certain measures be taken to reduce costs where possible, and provide new funding to cover the excess. The board, at this time, had no other choice.

The project is now a year behind schedule and further delays would only cause undue hardships on the students pocket, and where this is going to hit the hardest is in studies, activities, where new programs are going to have to be curtailed.

The board has correctly pointed out that the original plans presented by Brooks last year were rejected by the board.

Brooks then presented a plan last December, had it been accepted, which raised the ante $73,000 in February and $291,000 in August. The architect has correctly pointed out that he has followed the letter of the law by pointing out these increases to the college. He is also correct, probably, in his estimate of what the costs are going to be, and he is further correct in stating that he is giving the school a facility that it will be proud of.

New Definitions Of Racism

Racism, according to Webster, is: "A belief that some races are by nature superior to others; also, discrimination based on such belief."

Webster needs to update his definition to include the following:

four men walking the streets of Mississippi eight months after being convicted of 'violating the civil rights" of three college students found buried in a swamp;

ten people denning John Ray, a television newsman, his right to obtain housing in Spokane because they and their neighbors are white and Ray is black;

history books referring to George Washington and Thomas Jefferson as "fathers of our country" unmindful that young blacks cannot respect these men because these men kept slaves;

white preachers intoning from the pulpit that "it doesn't matter what color Jesus Christ was, since Christ was God and God has no color," and then fail to install black portraits and sculptors of Christ and angels in their churches to remove any doubts about their convictions;

white society gasping at the militant moods of the Black Panther party and young blacks while failing to understand that blacks are also a product of prolonging a myth that America is a land of the free where all men are created equal, an utter failure to the parts of the whites, who are too busy scrambling to scale the white lad ­ den of success to get acquainted with the blacks, especially their personal problems and their Afro-American heri­ tage.

This definition of racism is incomplete. Racism is built into the American society. The Kerner report on civil dis­ orders labeled America a "white racist society." If you disagree, then you're either uninformed or misinformed.

Jack knew all about George. Hubert and Richard, too. And he had an opin­ ion. And he voted.

Jack knew the candidates and their planks too. She even told Mary Art Fletcher was a Negro. Mary laughed. Jack walked away proudly. He knew he had used a basic American freedom.

The others will have another chance in the real election next month. Let's hope they know the men, issues and vote.

—William Morlin

By WILLIAM R. MORLIN

In another one of his sweeping and obviously unbiased statements, Hubert Humphrey said last Monday he thinks the Democrats will capture the White House Nov. 5 because they "have the trust" of the American people.

The prediction, made in remarks in New York near a backdrop for a movie about a department store Santa Claus, didn't rattle Wall Street, but it did spark chuckles in the heart of many Americans.

"On election day I predict bank­ ruptcy for the Nixon-Republicans,"—Steve Blevett

Humphrey said, "I predict bankruptcy because the American people are now asking themselves the crucial question: Who can I trust to lead Americans in the next four years?"

It was another example of how Humphrey, in a desperate attempt to close the vote gap between himself and Nixon, is reverting to antiblackisms and loud-mouth phraseology. In 1964 Lyndon Johnson told the voting public "you can trust me" and other Democrats over Barry Goldwater. One of his "truth" statements indicated he would not authorize bombing of North Vietnam.

Less than one year after LBJ had taken office with Humphrey as vice president, bombing of North Vietnam was started and the war increased in proportion.

The Democrats should not have been trusted in 1964 and they should not be trusted now.

Disregarding the "truth" issue, there is one factor which may help Hubert complete what he refers to as "the miracle on Main Street, U.S.A." and win the election. And LBJ is holding the key to the factor.

Should Johnson order a halt to the bombing, Hubert might be able to close the gap. Such Democratic gimmick seems quite possible.

The most recent Harris poll shows Humphrey holding 35 per cent of the vote, but a new Gallup Poll which is due this week likely will show a larger percentage for him.

It will take "a miracle on main street" for HHF to win the election. And if he does, it won't be because the voters trust the Democrats. It will be because they don't want Hubert to meet his political demise against the man who is truly honest.

Sportsmanship

Editor,

With the beginning of our football season, and the rest of our sporting seasons ahead of us, it might be a good idea to re-sensitize visiting coaches, athletes and fans with respect and dignity at all times in relation to opposing team's guests. The majority of Eastern's students, through the years, have exhibited good mannered and mature taste by not resorting to boorish or the use of vulgar comments in relation to opposing teams and game officials. Good Sportsmanship actually refers to good manners, courtesy, and the fact that all of us want people to think of when Eastern is mentioned. In all of the activities that I have been associated with Eastern's students, I have been proud of that association and honored to work with such fine young people. Let's show all of Eastern's guests a warm-hearted and sincere welcome and a pleasant homecoming publicity.

OCC Rebutil

Editor,

I regard the comments about off-campus nominations for Homecoming queen as those of a political editorial as well as the Associated Student Council story last week. I would like to present the situation here.

I speak not as a member of Theta Chi Upsilon nor as a supporter of Marcia Honda. I had nothing to do with her nomination. My sole connection is the fact that as Homecoming publicity chairman I was charged with circulating the various living groups to obtain the queen's nominations. I wish to make two significant points.

First, Theta Chi Upsilon nominated Marcia Honda, only, and not Janice Turner. Janice was nominated by a group of off-campus students who came to the AS office. These students are living off campus, not together, but in separate complexes.

Second, OCC Representative Jerry Anderson's remarks to council in recommending that the OCC nominations be declared invalid because the organization's officers had nothing to say about them was accurate. Why didn't the OCC officers have anything to say about the nominations? The OCC president was nowhere to be found.

However, I personally contacted the honorable Mr. Anderson, the marshal who writes things down by the book, and asked him to handle the OCC nominations. His reply: "Go find somebody else. It's not my organization."

The nominations must have had some support, due to the fact that both Marcia Honda and Janice Turner are finalists.

Going away from the matter at hand, if only slightly, the fact that both Marcia Honda and Janice Turner are finalists is in last Thursday council about impeachment of officers who don't do their job. I just thought I'd throw that in.

Injunction

Editor,

The persons responsible for causing the injunction against imperative for voter turnout for Homecoming Queen are being unfair and rather ridiculous about something that in no way concerns the persons responsible. I speak not as a member of Theta Chi Upsilon nor as a supporter of Marcia Honda. I had nothing to do with her nomination. Trustees Okay SUB Contract Eastern’s Board of Trustees met on Friday and turned out to be a surprisingly quiet meeting. The fireworks were support by the fire department and a delay in the estimated cost of the new SUB.

Estimated originally at $1,626,000 last February, architect Ken Brooks upped the estimated cost to $364,000 increase in the project. The building, and maintenance, will carry a whopping $229,000 in August.

The new SUB had several advantages over previous contracts. Dr. Ralph D. Manzo, professor of management and organization, University of Washington, and Joseph F. Hay, president, J. R. Fay Co., management consultants, Spokane, will be the panelists.

The second panel will have H. L. Purdy, lecturer, faculty of commerce and business administration, University of British Columbia, as chairman. H. T. Kop-kin, professor of economics, University of Oregon, and William G. Scott, professor of management and organization, U.W. are the panelists.

Afternoon panel discussions will be on an "Expanding Horizons of Management Science and the Social Costs and Benefits of Management Innovation." Arthur A. Scholle Jr., dean of school of business administration, University of Portland, will be the first panelist. Pres-ident L. F. Lebretton, professor of management, and organization, University of Washington, and Joseph F. Hay, president, J. R. Fay Co., management consultants, Spokane, will be the panelists.

At the banquet closing the con-ference Saturday evening, Frank L. Dohrm, vice president, The Boeing Co., Seattle, will speak on "The Management of Innovation."
WANTED: Ten Babes

Once chosen, these girls will be designated "Eastern's Ten Most Wanted Girls."

Such a contest will serve the dual purpose of rewarding excellence and at the same time giving those girls who were not chosen something to shoot at instead figuratively of course.

The committee to choose these girls will be called the House Committee on American Activities, and since it was my idea, I have appointed myself chairman. I feel I am eminently qualified for this position because I have had many and varied experiences with many and varied girls -- some of them pleasant.

The committee will tentatively be made up of the following:

- Dr. Emerson Shuck, who will come in handy when Dean O'Neal hears about the contest.
- Ten faculty members chosen by lot. They probably won't be much help, but everybody has to have some fun.
- 8,000 male students selected at random.

Besides these regular members, I will ask the head of the biology department to act as technical advisor.

To choose the Ten Most Wanted Girls, the committee will conduct a broad search (no pun intended) across the length and breadth of the campus. Here is how the contest will be conducted:

1. Application. Any girl may apply for the contest if she fills out a form and brings it to the Easterner office. However, this is not necessary since all girls see from now on will be automatically taken under consideration.

2. Judging. Candidates will be judged on the following criteria:
   - Looks (50%
   - Personality (25)
   - Talent (15)
   - Figure (10%
   - Intelligence (5)

3. Campaigning. It is understood that flirting or any other form of lobbying activity will be strictly prohibited.

4. Selection. When the winners have been selected their names will be placed in a hermetically-sealed envelope, which will then be taken to an open field and burned. Immediately thereafter, every girl on campus will be informed individually that she was on the list. Otherwise, we will be in such a hurry.

Campus Larceny: On the Increase

Larcenies from unlocked autos in the Fieldhouse area are on the increase says Police Chief G. S. Hildebrand. The recording of the serial number and the model number on any article of value makes it easier to trace, he said.

Students are asked to report loss of articles to the Cheney police and to the college.

Homecoming Fetes Downtown Parade, Football, Harpers Bizarre, Queen

DAMP AND CHILLY WEATHER failed to dampen enthusiasm much as a parade rolled off Saturday morning during Homecoming week. In addition to the parade the day's activities included a football game with Portland State, lost by Eastern 19-13, and the annual Homecoming Dance held at the Davenport Hotel in Spokane.

ONE OF THE REAL HIGHLITES of Homecoming week was the concert held Thursday by the Harpers Bizarre in the Fieldhouse. Entertainment at the function ranged from a live mouse on the stage to a dramatic reading of The Easterner to the Crowning of Homecoming Queen Barb Southwick.

WELL-DRILLED Cheney high school band took part in the parade and pregame activities. The group performed several routines along the parade route and on the field before the game.

Eastern Drops Third; Whitworth Slated Next
By BILL CARTER

A collision and a tackle from behind tumbled Eastern Saturday as they fell to Portland State 19-13 for their third straight defeat. The Savages come back to conference opponents this weekend as they go against Whitworth in a Woodward Stadium game beginning at 1:30 Saturday.

Eastern rolled over the Pirates 26-0 in an earlier meeting between the two clubs.

Tom Halffton put Eastern on the scoreboard with his first field goal of the day, but Portland State came back with two touchdowns to take over the lead 13-3. Joe Talbot scored the first Portland TD on a one-yard run. The second one saw a 40-yard bomb to Bailey near the sideline. At the 46 where it appeared as though two Savages were covered in on the pass. The pair collided and Dave Bailey hauled it in with nobody close enough to catch him.

The 80-yard play sent the Vikings ahead 19-12.

With a strong pass rush on, Eas­tern tired two end arounds with Dave Svensson, the second one giving 56 yards to the PSC 28. The play looked like a TD, but Svensson was pulled down from behind by the last pursuer who had a chance at him.

The pass rush was again thun­derous. Thompson went for broke on a fourth down pass which was intercepted in the end zone and the game was over, although the clock had not yet run out.

Rick Hardie carried 36 times for 144 yards, 33 more than PSC managed as a team.

AAU boxing coach Fred Bun­rich is readying his charges this week for an upcoming meet with Washington State University. Bunrich has contacted officials at WSU and is awaiting confirmation of the date—most likely to be the first or second week in November. Meanwhile, he has been putting his fighters through a rigorous daily routine of calisthenics, sparring and road work, as he was not entirely pleased with the condition of the squad in their first bouts.

After a 20 minute warmup of exercises, each fighter does an equivalent of three rounds each of sparring, heavy bag work, light bag work, shadow boxing and jumping rope. In addition, everyone is required to run four miles a day on his own.

Eighteen boxers are now turn­ ing out for the Esquire Club's team, an increase of five since the season began. Among the more promising of the new com­ ers, according to Bunrich, is bantam weight Jack Gaddy. Al­ though he has had only three fights, one of them was a de­ cision over an inmate of the Walla Walla State Sanatorium, which is always a tough assign­ ment, said Bunrich. Living-Learning Program Starts

Eastern's living-learning program, Project 74, has once again been launched by Frank Ammann, the director of the unique group of freshmen residence students.
The experience gained from last year's first project was expressed by Ammann as most successful "from the standpoint of social interaction." Barbara Batchelor, a former guinea pig hardly agrees. "I was glad to be in the Project because it helped me over that first hump of college, namely Freshman year.
"The girls I now share an apartment with were all in the group and I think it forms something that lasts," she said.
The current project boys are described as a "close-knit group of gentlemen with a lot of pride" by Gordon Berlitz the advisor on Seventh Floor Pierson. While the girls "work together very well and want to make a name for themselves as an organization within a living group," says Mary Colbert, house mouse on third floor Dressler.
The new group has already participated in the fireades, poetry readings, organizing a football team and they plan to join in the activities of Homecoming as a group.
Miss Simone Roberta, a French teacher at Eastern, was sponsored by the group and told of her expériences in Paris this summer while teaching during the student riots.
Future speakers scheduled are George Scheer, a detective ser-gent with the Spokane Sheriff Department, presenting a talk on LSD. Ammann also hopes to recruit about four black militiants to speak. The freshmen will also hold exchanges and dinners at the end of each quarter, he said.
Seniors Will Enroll First Anticipating another large enrollment, Registrar Donald Mansion has elected to conduct pre-registration for winter quarter on a scheduled basis.
In order to avoid confusion,
students will pre-register according to class standing, Mansion said. "This is the only fair way to do it," he added.
Pre-registration will begin Nov.
12 and run through the 22nd.
It will be held in Tawanka Commons.
The schedule is as follows:
Nov. 12-13 Seniors and graduate students
Nov. 14-15 Juniors
Nov. 16-17 Sophomores
Nov. 20-21 Freshmen
Nov. 22 Open to everyone
The drop-add procedure will be held Nov. 7-9 and will most likely be handled on a class basis, said Mansion.

Record Enrollment Handled
With Aplomb By Registrar

Normally a 22 per cent increase in a school's enrollment from one year to the next is equal to make the registrar's ofifice throw up its collective hands in total despair.
When Eastern's student tally reached an all-time high of 5041 this fall a much cooler approach was adopted by Registrar Donald Mansion and his staff. In fact, the relative ease with which they handled the drop-add procedure evoked words of praise from Eastern's President Emerson Suck himself.
"Even more pleasing to Manson was the small number of gripes from the student ranks. Most of their complaints concerned the distribution of registration packets prior to pre-registering and this problem could have been eliminated but they simply applicated earlier."
"We try to keep the students happy concerning registration," observed Mansion. "Registering is a rat race anyway, and we attempt to make it as painless as possible.
However, Mansion is the first to admit that Eastern's system is not perfect.
"For one thing," stated Mansion, "a student doesn't even know if he has passed his classes when he pre-registers for another quarter, because pre-registering begins several weeks before the qu-ter is out. This leads to considerable switching around when the new quarter begins."
The best method of registering students, Mansion feels, is that employed by Washington State University. There a student meresly fills out on an IBM card the classes he wants, at the time he wants. This card, continued Mansion, is inserted into an IBM Model 47 computer and processed.
When the results are ready, the faculty appraises them and makes what adjustments are necessary to accommodate the demand.
"The computer can process 90 per cent of the cards before it has to close a class," marvelled Mansion.

ELAINE RAINEs is the first coed in the history of Eastern to be granted membership on the ROTC Rifle Team.

First Coed Joins ROTC Shooters

By JERRY SEARS

The first coed in the history of Eastern has been granted membership on the ROTC Rifle Team.

Typically, the male reaction to the shapely marksman has been: "We like it."

Major Donald Parman, assistant professor of military science, has identified the female rifleman as Miss Elaine Rains, as incoming freshman who hails from a "shooting family."

Specializing in the .22 gallery indoor rifle at 56 feet, Miss Rains rates a sharpshooter in competition and promises to be a valuable asset in future team matches.

Miss Rains has been shooting for four years at the Spokane Valley Junior Rifle Club and credits her father for her ultimate interest in the sport.

In three years of club competition, she has won nine trophies and three medals. The most notable is the Distinguished Expert Award, the highest award a junior can achieve.
She says marksmanship is "good for coordination, balance, and sight," and competes in the sport because it is "fun."

Cord with the other inter-eters as "kind of odd" since so few women do shoot.

Miss Rains has cordially invited any interested girls to contact her at the ROTC Department for further details on team membership.

Major Parman has commented that he would like to add more qualified women to the rifle team.

BOB ALLEN TAKES a spill in bike race Thursday won by Sutton Animals. Mike O'Conner, taking the bike from Allen in the relay, doesn't appear to be broken up over Bob's discomfiture.

A New Record!
More Than 5500
The latest official enrollment tally from the Registrar's office now stands at 5494. However,
"With late registration we're up to 5212," said Assistant Registrar Dorotha Ljepic. The number of students reported also includes approximately 300 students enrolled in classes at Fairchild Air Force Base.

Using an earlier official tally of student statistics have been gathered which give a view proportionately of the numbers of men and women students en-rrolled.
Of 1424 freshmen, the women
outnumber the men slightly, 728-696.

Sophomores number 1148, as the men lead substantially 475-463.
The ratio increases in favor of the men at the junior level where they outnumber the women 423-275 for a total 997 en-rrolled.
Of 995 seniors, men were in dominance 442-348.
In the graduate program, men are again in the majority 84-51, for a 135 total.
Totals for all women and men students favor the men 2724 to 1995.
A senior this year who entered Eastern in 1964 has had the chance of observing the tremendous growth since then.

Savage Scoop Seeks Aid

Anyone who does not wish to be a "mistake" in the student directory and has changed address or phone number since fall registration may make corrections. According to Savage Scoop editor Linda Gustafson, students may be checked through dorm rosters and other available campus sources therefore making corrections easily available. It will be up to the off-campus student to advise on his own changes made since fall registration. Miss Gustafson said.

Savage Scoop is the listing of names, school-home addresses, phone numbers, marital status and majors of all students enrolled at Eastern.

SPUR, an honorary women's service organization compiling the directory, is currently involving 34 members in the production of this issue.

The Scoop is published annually each fall quarter and will be distributed at 75-cents per copy. If you are wondering when the Scoop can be purchased, staff member Janet Schmidt says it will be out the second week in November. Sale of the editions is usual will be in the lobby of the SUB.

Any corrections to be made can be written on a sheet of paper and addressed to: Editor, Savage Scoop, 420 1st Street, Down town, STEEL.

Professor Shocked By Language Needs

Dr. Richard O. Whiteman, head of the department of foreign languages, said this week he was shocked to discover that it is not necessary to require at least two years of study of a foreign language for all liberal arts majors.

The lack of a foreign language requirement leads many students at Eastern in the false impression that a second language is not important, said Dr. Whiteman. He added that many students are not aware until their senior year that a foreign language is required in many fields for graduate work.

Dr. Whiteman said he does not recommend that all students be forced to study a foreign language, but feels that any student planning to do graduate work be required to take at least two years of a second language.

The most popular foreign languages offered at Eastern, according to Dr. Whiteman, Spanish and French, has increased approximately 15 percent more students than the next most popular language, French, followed by German, Russian and Chinese.

An important addition to the foreign language courses at Eastern is the new area studies program. This program will offer courses by the staff of the language department and will cover the literature and culture of several world regions.

The first course in this program will be taught this winter quarter by Miss Heddie Lee and will cover the literature of China. This course will be offered as English 366 and no knowledge of Chinese is required.

Dr. Whiteman said that within two or three years the foreign language department hopes to offer a graduate program in several languages leading to a master's degree. He expects the department will offer graduate level German next year as part of this future program.

Prior to joining Eastern as head of the department of foreign languages last June, Dr. Whiteman was a professor of German at the State University of New York at Albany. His specialty is modern German literature and drama.

Pamphlet Explains Option

An instruction pamphlet explaining Eastern's newly formed credit-no credit program will be made available to students by Nov. 6. Registrar Donald Manson beveraged.

The pamphlet, which lists guidelines that must be followed in registering for a credit-no credit class, will also be distributed during registration.

"Students may be check through dorm rosters and other available campus sources therefore making corrections easily available. It will be up to the off-campus student to advise on his own changes made since fall registration. Miss Gustafson said.

Revolt Not Likely Says Grad Student

What are the chances of open revolt by the graduate students at Eastern?

"Not likely in the near future," says Mike Ragland, current representative of the grads on the Graduate Council.

"Right now the grads aren't organized enough to conduct a good cookie-sale let alone an up-rising for redress of grievances—assuming they are concerned enough with academic affairs to feel that a change may be called for here and there."

The source toutant at last week's graduate student meeting testifies to the fact that few of the grads have much interest in how their academic affairs are being handled.

"There are certain, real advantages to be gained via a solid organization but that organization must first be created," said Ragland, "before we will have enough influence with the total student body and the Graduate Council to make any progress."

By "progress" he meant, for example, "a grad student letter," a bi-weekly organ for exchanges between separate research departments, individual students working on particular projects or thesis, and for news with a focus on the particular viewpoint of the grad—area of conspicuous void in The Easterner, Ragland said.

But in order to get this new letter into publication money is needed—money that graduate students pay into the student activity fund like everyone else, Ragland said.

So in order getting the appropriation out of the fund may be quite difficult, especially in the light of the increased estimate for the new SUB construction, there is no objection to a grad student on the ASB council, says Dr. Daryl G. Hage, Dean of Students.

"They simply haven't gotten together and asked for a place on the council," he said. "It's been my impression that the funds are available."

Ragland said the students were not sufficiently interested in the inner workings of the council to approach the council themselves. "I think we have a good council and an interested one."

"But in order to get this news out, they must have a good organization," Ragland said. "No one able to ask for some involvement in student body activity and make itself heard."

ROTC Tapping Begins Today

Selection of new girls for ROTC Sponsor Corps will begin today at 8 p.m. in the Terrance Room of the SUB. Sponsor Corps candidates must be freshmen, sophomore or first quarter junior girls, he added.

New members are selected on the basis of competitions in the annual Fall quarter trial. Miss Anderson said.

Scheduled events are practice marches in the Field House at 3:30 p.m., Oct. 26-24, Interviews 9 a.m. - 4 p.m., Oct. 24, and 4 p.m. Oct. 27. Matches in the Field House, semi-finalist competition, Oct. 29-27. Interviews by ROTC cadre and Balloting 7 p.m., Oct. 29. Final selection will be 8 a.m. Oct. 31.

Exit Guards Check All Library Users

"Criminal!" That is the word used to describe how a large percentage of students interviewed felt after undergoing the new library policy of exit checking.

"Every time I leave I feel like a robber even though it probably is a necessity," said another student who objected to this policy.

"I feel like a criminal every time I walk out the door," said one student who objected to this policy.

"It bugs me to no end. It even makes me hesitant about going to the library." "Every time I leave I feel like a robber even though it probably is a necessity," added another student.

"For me it is a necessary arrangement," said one student. "They are doing us the students a favor by saving us money on stolen books."

Another student said, "The library administration feels that it is necessary so it won't hurt us to humor them."

When attempting to extricate the opinion of the students who work at the check desk little information was obtainable.

Earl James Lasworth, associate librarian and director of library services, feels that this system is very necessary. He said that the amount of money lost yearly through stolen books was unbelievable.

Geology Major To Recount Summer Work

Eastern's Geology Club will present a slide lecture Oct. 24 at 3:45 p.m. in the Science building on "Finding Oil for Amerada Petroleum Corporation."

John Eirlarth, senior geology major, will speak on his summer employment by Amerada at Williston Basin, North Dakota, and his experiences.

Congressman Coming Here

Former United States Senator and Congressman, Clarence C. Dill of Spokane, will speak on the "Razzle-Dazzle Campaign" here tomorrow.

His talk, in the Hall of Sciences auditorium, will be at 8:30 and is open to the public without charge.

After graduation from Otos Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, Dill was a newspaper reporter in Cleveland, then spoke to Spokane and was a teacher and lawyer before being elected to Congress. He served for 18 years in the House and Senate.

In Congress, Dill wrote the first radio law, then the Communications act. He became the "Grand Coulee Dam" Senator by inducing President Franklin D. Roosevelt to build the dam on the Columbia River.

Dill proposed the 550 division of electric power made by the storage of flood water in Canada to be released at low water to produce billions of kilowatt hours of electricity at the destroyer dams in the United States each year. This is the basis of the Canadian treaty for the present construction of new SUB.

Dill is now an attorney with office in Spokane.
