Leadership Retreat Results
In Resolutions, Questions

Grandview Lodge, Priest Lake, Idaho, will probably never be the same. Hopefully neither will Eastern.
Easter's 1968 leadership retreat was held last weekend with 90 students and faculty attending to come to agreement on some major problems facing the campus. Discussions were held on five problem areas, with resolutions drawn up voicing the consensus of group opinion.

The topics discussed were:
- Student penetration at departmental level, led by AS President Mike Murphy.
- Dorm management and long-range planning, led by EVP Gary Reniel.
- General college requirements, led by AFP Rick Allen.
- Student Council representative reapportionment, led by Bob Van School.
- Student demonstrations, led by Jerry Shackette.

The resolutions varied in content from lists of specific changes to consider, to short statements of intent. The resolution from Shackette's group, on demonstrations, stated simply that "Wherever you go, there you are." In defense of the resolution, Shackette said: "It became apparent that the participants of the discussions, especially the last day when the resolutions were written, had no formal statement to make on demonstrations." There were three students other than Shackette as discussion leader and his secretary Ginny Scarpetti and three members of the faculty and administration-President Emerson C. Shuck, Dean Daryl Hagie and Ray Krehbiel.

The schedule of events called for a sensitivity session Friday night, led by professors from Eastern's Psychology department. Saturday's activities were led off by Father Tom Grief, Gonzaga University Dean of Students, who spoke on revolution.

The group then broke up into the various discussion workshops, rotating to have the chance to consider each issue. Saturday was a free night. Sunday morning the workshops reconvened with students free to join the one of their choice with the formation of formal resolutions as the end product.

The morning ended with a question-answer period with President Shuck and AS President Murphy. Sunday afternoon the formal part of the retreat ended with the presentations of resolutions by the group leaders.

Freeway Scene
Of Accident
An accident involving at least nine cars, many of which were driven by Eastern students, caused a major traffic tie-up yesterday morning at the Four Lakes-Interstate 90 interchange.
Washington State Troopers said no one was injured in the accident which occurred shortly after 7 a.m., but many cars were late to classes.
Two hours after the accident, scores of cars were backed up on the 90, and wrecking crews worked to clear the roadway of wrecked cars.
Heavy fog and a slippery roadway caused the chain-reaction accident, troopers said.
Damage to several of the involved vehicles was quite heavy, investigating officers said, and it was strange no one was injured.

Yearbook Sales Sagging

Very few students have purchased the 68-69 Kinnikinnick and AS Treasurer Bob Van School says if sales don't increase "future yearbook budgets will be in serious jeopardy."

All students can purchase the yearbook, which will be distributed next fall, for $6 under pre-registration, Nov. 12-22.

"Students don't seem to be aware of the fact that under the new system they must purchase their Kinnikinick separately from their cafeteria and fees. This year the annual can be purchased during pre-registration by picking up a card and paying the $6," Van School said.

"If our yearbook quota is not reached, future yearbook budgets will be in serious jeopardy," the AS officer said.

"We've sold about 600 yearbooks so far, but because of the transition people don't seem to be aware of the new system."

TELEVISION COMEDIAN PAT PAULSEN emerged victor in "Mad Elections" held at Eastern Monday. Paulsen polled 184 votes compared to his nearest competitor, Snoopy, who garnered 132. Alfred E. Neuman got only five votes in the contest out of a total of 347 voting. There were a number of write-in candidates not listed.

Students Picket
On Election Day

Approximately ten Eastern students protesting "the lack of a choice in the Presidential election," picketed for three hours yesterday afternoon in front of the Federal Building in downtown Spokane.

Vince O'Leary, head of the Student Ad Hoc Grievance Committee, informally headed the Eastern contingent. Some 60-50 students from Spokane Community College, Fort Wright College of The Holy Names and Gonzaga University also participated in the demonstration.

Plans for the demonstration were laid Monday at an organizational meeting held at the Koinonia House on campus.

Al Loflin, member of Eastern's Black Student Union and participant in the demonstration, said the Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were on hand taking photographs of the demonstrators.

When asked if people were paying attention, Loflin said: "No, they all walked by."

Some of the signs read: 'Stop The Genocide ... Bring The Boys Home From Vietnam. The War Is At Home'... 'Vote Socialist In 1972.'

O'Leary was attired in an Army fatigue jacket and carried a sign which read in part: Peace.

One small group of students staged what they called a "Guerrilla Theater." In the paradoxical play, individuals carried signs bearing the names of the three Presidential candidates.

No uniformed policemen were in sight.

At the Monday evening meeting, O'Leary, members of his group and members of Eastern's Committee For Peace in Vietnam, decided not to use the Eastern Washington State College title on the placards.

Last Spring, before the CPVN East's Committee For Peace In Vietnam, decided not to use the Eastern Washington State College title on the placards.

CONSTRUCTION ON PATTERSON HALL finally got underway last week in the area between the Music building and Twanka Commons. The scene above shows students using the shortcut across the mall for the last time as the construction crew fenced the area off shortly after beginning.

VINCE O'LEY

One of the interesting requirements for graduation at this institution is the ability to swim. You must pass a swimming clearance test or you don't graduate.

This rule has its exceptions of course. These exceptions are granted by the Director of HPE or by the Academic Appeals Board. They run from physical disability to being a woman over the age of 40. If you are a graduate student and special students also get off the hook.

The rest of us are stuck. Students must learn how to swim, lie their way out of it, or not graduate.

While it is all well and good for all students to be healthy and in good shape, it is really necessary to learn how to swim before graduation.

The HPE activity requirements could to dorm walls. They rarely mount soap-bubbles or write letters to their city or college newspapers. The Easterner is an open forum. Direct, student-edited, cut-and-paste of news stories are welcomed. Well-written, well-thought-out letters or columns are always in demand by any college paper.

The Easterner editor, and only the editor, has the final say on what should be published. Outside censorship is never imposed.

Again, this should not be mistaken as a plea for letters. Instead, it is another brick on the weathered foundation of the cliché: "Get Involved."

"I joined the Associated Students of Eastern in the naive conception of changing the system... I found you just can't change it," he said.

The Art major hopes to change the academic system, at least to some extent. Here one of his goals (other individuals are pushing for them too) will become reality later this month when President Shuck starts a regular talk session with the student body.

"Shuck ought to work for all the things he says he stands for. This talk session thing will bring him down from his office to the student level so students can talk with him and to him. The President, a college administrator should be responsible to the students and not to the Board of Trustees," O'Leary said.

Some of O'Leary's other goals seem to be clouded. He says he is constantly working on specifics because when the time comes, "the students will act upon them."

"Success of their proposal will bring him to the deans. Raise hell in the HPE department immediately," he said.

The editors are not so worried with the Easterner's prestige, as there are concerned with complacency of their readers.

When we attain this degree of trust, it would be desirable to establish a co-educational requirement for all students who want to see change within the institution while we're still here," O'Leary said in a separate interview.

O'Leary's past is probably as colorful as some of the programs and ideas he is proposing. The balding, stocky student came to Eastern in the Air Force because of what he calls "a difference of political views."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Language Needed

Editor:

Dr. Richard O. Whitcomb, head of the foreign language department, recently advocated two years of language study as a general college requirement for all liberal arts majors at Eastern. A position like this, although understandable from a language professor, is untenable for any college and especially here.

In 1963 a state-appointed commission looked into the feasibility of a mandatory language program in all state colleges. An attitude of gradualism was accepted, with the University of Washington to lead the way, then WSU, and finally Eastern, Western and Central to require language study.

The controlling factor was that none of the three state colleges would have mandatory language study until every high school in the state had a viable, accredited language program. This controlling factor is not yet complete, precluding any attempt to create the requirement on a higher level.

Another factor, not controlling however, is that in 1968 the state commission could not foresee the financial problems that exist between college and student, or American, language programs. In any dispute concerning the relevancy, in the student sense, of foreign language, the students would not even consider language study as a collegiate discipline in the “now” orientation of student thinking. To advocate two years, or thirty quarter hours, of language study in the face of a “relevancy gap” is to deny the obvious and flaunt the absurd.

In an era when most students, some faculty and many administrators are lowering the general college requirements to increase the liberal arts burden by 66 percent would have to be some sort of absurdity.

In light of this, it might be wise to leave foreign language study as an elective with the present reduction of total hours incurrence that currently exists here at Eastern.

Financial Aid Being Offered

Students who have been granted financial aid for 1968-69 can use their winter authorization by contacting the accounting desk in Tawanka Commons when preregistering Nov. 12-22, says Kenneth Dolan, director of financial aids.

Any fees in excess of a student’s authorization must be paid promptly by the student, Dolan said.

Winter quarter scholarships will be available during pre-registration, but students are requested to wait until their designated registration day to obtain them. Scholarship checks will be available in Showalter Hall, room 127, in Showalter, or call 359-2944.

The Eastman Leadership Retreat was held last weekend at Priest Lake, Idaho, and there were some real accomplishments made along with some real surprises. Discussions ranged from students demonstrations to a re-evaluation of general college requirements to student penetration at the department level.

The retreat cost the student body $1,200 for five resolutions, one of which was: “Wherever you go, there you are.”

The other resolutions were much more valuable and should be beneficial in the long run. The greatest benefit, and one worth every penny, was the opportunity of many freshmen and sophomores to see how Eastern’s student government really works ... and in cases, really didn’t work.

The reasoning behind good publicity showed itself last Saturday at the Bachelor’s Club El Matador Dance. Although the B-Club did some excellent work at making the dance a success, the general public knew very little of what was going on, and a lot of people attended.

The B-Club has not been the only group to fail on the publicity end. The Tawanka and Kennedy loudspeakers and the intercoms in Streeter and Dryden are excellent ways to publicize, but they are rarely used.

Many events are only good ones with poor or late publicity, and many good ones are made excellent with the right words at the right time.

Parent’s weekend, sponsored by Associated Women Students and Associated Mens Students, is another area in which publicity had lacked in past years.

One of the main problems with Parent’s Weekend, November 16 this year, has been the fact that students never heard about the weekend until their parents asked them what time they (the parents) should come on campus. Hopefully that problem will be eliminated this year.

A bigger problem this year could be the so-called “gambling” that takes place. The parents use play money and they win nothing at the tables. The so-called “gambling” that takes place. The parents use play money and they win nothing at the tables. The recent gambling crackdown has somehow put the pinch on some of the Parent’s Weekend activities. It might be hard to carry out the “Las Vegas Mardi Gras” theme without the play money, but it’ll be interesting to see what AWSAMS come up with.

Three PeacCorps Representatives, all ex-Volunteers, are on campus this week and are stationed at a table in the foyer of the SUB.

Ken Flanagan served in Colombia as a teacher and coach, while Miss Judy Eberhart developed a physical education program for teacher training in Venezuela and coached the national girls' gymnastic team.

They are accompanied by a representative of the Sierra Leone West Africa program. All three have college degrees and have traveled widely.

A 30-minute PeacCorps Placement test will be held in the Capri Room of the SUB at 9:20 a.m. today; 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of the SUB Thursday; and 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. in the Capri Room Friday.

Bells Bring Complaints From Students, Faculty
The bell-ringing mechanism detached, the move to abolish the bell was considered an improvement, Steiner said, not only getting to class on time without the reminder of bells.

The Mexican-Americans, in order to develop and become a greater asset to the community, must be able to take pride in themselves as a person and as a people. The only way this can be done is to preserve their Spanish culture and heritage," Timiney said.

The second area of importance is the voter registration, Timiney said. "There are approximately 45,000 adult Mexican-American residents in this state. Of this number, only 3,000 are registered to vote," Timiney said.

The reason more of them aren't registered is because of the registration procedure and the literacy test, Timiney said. These people especially the adults, are shy and reserved, and are easily embarrassed by their feelings of happiness with the English language.

Since they would become a strong political force in many areas the registration clerks capitalize on these feelings and try to embarrass them so the potential voter either leaves or fails to pass the test," Timiney said.

Jiminez called it "idiozy," how federal, state and county agencies will fight over who is to supply the money for the upgrading of housing and sanitation in the labor camps when all three have the money available for such projects.

Help is needed in the way of contributions for lawsuits and education, and political pressure on congressmen, Jiminez said in responding to question.

"Beyond that the Mexican-American would not accept them are tied up well with mean people who have come to help, but who insist that it be done their way with no regard for the Mexican-Americans culture or pride," Jiminez said.
Parents' Weekend Modified; Gambling Ban Affects Game

Gambling during Parent's Week end will have to be modified according to Steve Twiss, public ity director of the event. Nov. 16-17.

The Spokane County Prosecuting Attorney informed associated Men Student president Graig Vejras ka that the exchange of money in games of chance was illegal. The games, Twiss said, will be continued but play money will be distributed to those who wish to play.

Parent's Weekend will be highlighted by a football game, Eastern against Puget Sound, at Woodward Field on Saturday, Nov. 16.

Arrangements for the weekend festivities were released after a meeting of the AMS Wednesday evening. Theme for the occasion, according to Twiss, will be "Nebraska Madrigals."

The weekend for parents and friends of Eastern students includes a full range of activities on Saturday and a pancake feed Sunday morning.

A contest for the best dorm decorations will be judged at 10 a.m. and awards will be presented for first and second place Saturday night.

Cost of the dinners and football game will be $2.50. In addition, a book of tickets will be sold for entertainment for the evening.

Other entertainment will include a choice of several bands featuring Dixieland, swing and dance styles. Games of skill will be performed upstairs in the library and will include darts, ring toss and darts. For those who like to gamble, Blackjack will be available, without prizes so as to eliminate the gambling element.

Parent's Weekend Schedule:
Saturday, Nov. 16 - 9 a.m.: Noon; Registration (SUB Lobby)

Noon - 1 p.m.: Lunch (Tawanka Commons), 1-30 - 4 p.m. Football, (Woodward Field), 4-30 - 6 p.m. Dinner (Tawanka), 6-30 - 1 p.m. Entertainment (SUB), games, dance, Dixieland Band, door show.

Sunday, Nov. 17 - 9 a.m.: Pancake Feed (Tawanka).

Symphonic Group Tonight

The 86-piece Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Izer Solomon, will be presented tonight in Eastern's first 1968-69 Artistic Series program.

Works by Washburn, Debussy, Schuman and Fokkevy will be presented in the program in Showalter Auditorium starting at 8:15.

The Indianapolis Symphony was founded in 1890 by Ferdinand Schaeffer and became a factor in the musical life of the Hoosier capital almost immediately.

Stable, from the beginning, the orchestra has had but three conductors. Schaeffer, already 69 when he founded the orchestra, held the position through the spring of 1937, retiring at the age of 76. He was succeeded by Fabien Sevitzky who held the post for 18 years, through the 1945-46 season.

It was during this period that the orchestra first achieved major symphony orchestra status and began winning national recognition. Deems Taylor, the eminent musicologist, in an article published in a 1951 issue of "Hoosier Day Magazine," listed the Indiana polis Symphony as one of the top 10 orchestras in the nation.

Izer Solomon was named music director and conductor effective with the 1956-57 season, following a season in which he was one of six guest conductors.

In the years since Solomon mounted the podium, the orchestra's activities have more than doubled and its reputation as one of the foremost ensembles in the country has been firmly established.

Cops Guarding RTV Posters

A crime wave of poster thefts has hit the campus. KEW, the campus station reports the theft of two of its promotional posters.

According to John Reed, RTV professor, a special detachment of RTV students has been formed which will guard the station's remaining posters in the coming week. They have been dubbed the RTV Security Division.

"RTV Security will be a subsidiary of Tree-Top Airline," reported Reed.

The security personnel will be outfitted in army fatigues and will carry fixed fire-rust-control cap guns, Reed added.

Mavor To Show Atlantls Films

James Walts Mavor Jr., engineer and research specialist at Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, will speak at Eastern Tuesday, Nov. 12 on his "Expedition to Thera." His talk, at 11:30 in Showalter Auditorium, is one of the 1968-69 WESC Lecture Series programs.

The public is invited and admission is free.

Mavor became interested in the island of Thera when seismic profiles showed connotations resembling Plato's descriptions of the legendary lost Atlantis. He enlisted the aid of Greek archeologists and a musicologist, in an article published in a 1951 issue of "Holosier Day Magazine," listed the Indiana polis Symphony as one of the top 10 orchestras in the nation.

Izer Solomon was named music director and conductor effective with the 1956-57 season, following a season in which he was one of six guest conductors.

Eastern retired at halftime with a 7:1 tie after Bob Lonborg stung the Savages with a six-yard power play for the first touchdown on Western’s first series of plays in the opening quarter.

Eastern frosh quarterback, Tom Thompson, showing great improvement in leading the team, matched the Vika score eight minutes and 48 seconds later with a one-yard dive. Tom Halfmoon booted the extra point.

Western punted out after a 29-yard drive before the quarter ended.

Thompson connected on 16 of 27 passes for the day, picking up 182 yards. The Chewelah, Calif, signal-caller had only completed 23 passes before the Western game.

The Savages missed a scoring opportunity just before the half when the Western defense held them on the Viking 13 yard line.

After a Savages turnover, a clipping penalty with 1:36 remaining in the half brought the ball back to the Western 20 yard line. The violation was spotted on the 36-yard line when John Perry grabbed a 15-yard pass from Thompson. The Vikings ran the clock out with a series of ground attacks.

Rick Hardie, Eastern’s leading ground gainer, did most of the work for the Savages as he carried the ball 14 times, picking up 117 yards on the ground and receiving four passes for 34 yards.

Hardie stepped into the backfield to lead the Eastern offense in putting points on the board. He scored 31 yards on three completions that brought the ball to the Eastern nine yard line. Less than a minute remained in the first half.

Halfmoon led the Eastern defense in stopping a series of power plays, before Hadland leaped over a stack of players for the TD with 41 remaining. Lance Wilson split the uprights for the PAT that made the difference.

Eastern Drops Two in Tourney

Eastern Women’s slightly favored Pine League volleyball team was nearly shut out in the first half of a double round robin tournament as they salvaged only one win in three matches.

The A-quad downed Spokane Community College, a new participant in the league, but bowed to Gonzaga and Whitworth in two straight games as Judy Klein turned in the best effort of the team. B-quad cleaned up, defeating all three opponents in the first half of the tournament which was decided by a 3-2 win at Whitworth after press time last night.

The A-quad was sitting in third place in its division and the B-quad was leading in their half going into the final action.

Ev-Co Meet On Saturday

The conference Cross Country meet is scheduled to take place Saturday at the Spokane Country Club, with all four schools (Eastern, Western, Whitworth and Central) slated to compete.

Whitworth and Central are favored in the meet but Eastern on the strength of it's last two dual meet victories could be a threat.

Eastern warmed up for the conference meet by meeting Western 22-33 last Saturday in Bellingham. "It was a real team effort," coach Hal Warner said, as the young Savage team composed mostly of freshmen and sophomores, placed five runners among the top seven.

Larry Nielsen of Western finished first with a time of 28:31. Barry Jahn continued to be the best runner for the Savages, covering the Cornwall Park course in a time of 25:31 in place second.

Team mates Dana Blanchard and Jim Curtmell finished third and fourth while Don Welts and Larry Shum ran sixth and seventh to complete Eastern's scoring.

Oregon Swim Shows Power

In a practice swim meet with Oregon's powerful Ducks Saturday, Eastern's first-year Coach Ric Hutterly came to grips with his foremost problem—lack of team depth.

Unable to field enough swimmers for either relay and seldom able to compete with two swimmers in individual events, the Savage team would have been hard hit had this been a regular meet and an official score kept, said Hutterly.

Sophomore transfer Ron Koch did break three Eastern varsity records during the meet to highlight the Savages showing. He opened to new standards in the 100 and 100 yard freestyle and in the 200 yard butterfly with times of 11:15.5, 51.8 and 2:04.8. Koch's time in the 200 butterfly was only one second off last year's winning NAIA National Meet 200 butterfly performance.

Rob O'Donnell and Captain Paul Whitmarsh were close to best previous efforts in the meet. Whitmarsh swam a 2:36.3 for the 200 yard breaststroke, not far off his best time of 2:32.5.

O'Donnell missed his best time in the 200 yard individual medley by four seconds as he posted a 2:18.8.

Both team members swam some of their best times ever, noted Hutterly.

INTRAMURAL PLAYERS battle for a pass in highly competitive action. Regular action led to only three uncontented berths in the playoffs which began Monday. The on-campus Cowboys competing in the above picture was one of these three teams. The intramural championship will be decided tomorrow in Woodward Field in a game scheduled to begin at 3:45.

Second Time Over

It's all over in the Ev-Co. Eastern last all hopes of gaining a tie for the championship when Western scored with the go-ahead point with only three seconds remaining in the game. This coupled with Central's very unimpressive 7-0 victory over Whitworth guaranteed the Wildcats the undisputed title.

So, the Savages' game with Central on Saturday becomes only an anticlimax, when the contests between the two schools are usually the biggest rivals. These are usually the games that decide the Ev-Co championship. An Eastern victory this Saturday can't possibly gain the Savages any major recognition, but the resultant effects of such a victory would be two-fold.

First, it would give the players a greater feeling of confidence as they look toward the coming season against the same opponents. The players are gaining experience as has been demonstrated by Tommy Thompson's game-to-game improvement since he took over as quarterback, but full confidence can only be gained through winning.

Secondly, such a victory would stem the increasing tide of APATHY that has swept this campus since the season began as the Savages lost, however narrowly, it is easy to support a winning team. But when a winning team begins to lose a few, the fans begin to question their soul—or sometimes, lack of soul.

NO COMPETITION?

Well, not too much. So it was with the intramural football program. With playoffs scheduled to start Monday, Director of Intramurals Howard Uibel was at a loss in deciding what to do with the teams who finished the season in 11-12 lock.

Three teams were set to go with playoff berths guaranteed, but the other three berths were in dispute with six teams deadlocked for the spots. Quite an improvement since there weren't nine teams last year.

Co-ed volleyball and bowling are set to get underway with the next two weeks and continued increasing volume of participation an expectation.

GYMNASTICS JIMMY

They haven't got anybody by that name but that's the only thing they haven't got. Entirely within the realm of possibilities is a national gymnastics championship for the team who finished third in the nation last year.

Coach Jack Benson believes the chances for "top national standing" are excellent, and why shouldn't he? Randy Carruthers is a national gymnastics championship for the team who finished third in the nation last year.

Carruthers has most of the lettermen back, but football has taken its toll on some of their best times ever, noted Hutterly.

—RESOLUTION PASSED AT LEADERSHIP RETREAT

MUCH SERIOUS DEBATE and discussion was carried on by students, faculty and administration during last weekend’s leadership retreat held at Priest Lake, Idaho; above, President Emerson C. Shuck, AS President Mike Murphy and Ray Krebsbach participate in a first-day discourse on the problem of student penetration at departmental level. Murphy’s secretary, Paula Wilson, looks on.

ONE OF THE HIGHLIGHTS of the AS Leadership Retreat was a talk given by Father Tom Greif on the subject of revolt. Dean of Students at Gonzaga University, Greif dwelt largely on the areas of control that are exercised over individuals in all walks of life.

DISCUSSION OF THE TOPICS at Leadership Retreat was not limited to formal sessions, as many students and faculty gathered together whenever the spirit moved, in an effort to glean some modicum of understanding. Here Jerry Shacklette, group leader for student demonstrations is joined by fellow retreaters in such an effort in the main lodge.
