BOT Strips AS of All Budgetary Powers

Not only will Prostitution 101 teach the students at Eastern, both female and male, how to make a living but it will also provide the school with some much needed revenue, according to Dahren, former drum majorette and mascot tender for the Tujuan Donkeys.

The course will be taught and practiced in the recently renovated Sutton Hall, she said. "It is fine the students at Eastern learned a trade which will stand her or him in good stead.

"Some may wonder about allowing males to take the course but a survey taken last quarter indicated there is quite a market among the faculty and student body for the services of male prostitutes," she explained.

When reminded that prostitution is not legal in the state she countered with her contention that the state legislature pass a law during this emergency session.

Asked how she knew she only smiled and said, "Oh, I have my ways.

"For years college graduates have prostituted themselves and their talents, limited as they are. This course will allow the student to strip away the false pretensions and hypocrisy of the past. Besides, with the coming depression the market for prostitutes is projected to increase drastically," Dahren explained.

The course will teach the normal 'tricks' of the trade, the pick-up, how to handle drunks and wimps, and all the normal forms of coital intercourse.

The course will have a precedent of being checked by the Health Clinic for venereal disease. The same check will be run every week.

There won't be any of that Master's and Johnson stuff. We are interested in safe pick-ups, and joliv Johns and Jans," Dahren said.

Of course, the course will be taught and practiced in Sutton Hall the second floor, Jackie Mariner outlining the entire plan.

AS President Pat Straws was Conspicuously absent from the BOT meeting before last night's AS meeting Hayes said to have agreed to the decision saying at least the executive branch would retain its full powers, including appointing the student members to the Services and Activities Fees Committee, for the Services and Activities Fees Committee.

Since Straws must now commit suicide with the rest of the AS Legislature no one is sure who will fill the power vacuum created.

The AS Legislature amended its decision to commit suicide to include Straws. Vice president for Student Services, Dare Ali Hoge, said, "I'm not quite sure. The President's Advisory Group will take it up Wednesday. I'll check with EWS's attorney, Roger Dogger.

The Board decision came after it heard the report from its Finance Committee which said the Board should not rule on the AS Constitutional Amendment approved by the Senate. The Board should not rule on the amendment and should adopt Schmuck's plan for the Services and Activities Fees Committee.

The committee went one step further in its recommendations by suggesting the Board amend Schmuck's proposal to eliminate the AS Legislature's right to make recommendations on the Associated Student Legislature has no right to any review. The students already have five members on the Services and Activities Fees Committee. Schmuck told the full board.

At this point aloud by legislator Rogers Sanders, leadership of the school has been non-existent to this point with EWS President Schmuck around, at least a semblance of leadership would be possible.

"In Tears"

When legislator Vic Peatson asked the gallery saying, "there is no longer a need for the Associated Student Legislature," he was met with "no." The gallery said, "the elected student body is the only one that has the right to bring such an action to the floor by Campus Security.

Officers from Security, including Dave Breidenbach, were present. He said, "the executive branch would retain its full powers, including appointing the student members to the Services and Activities Fees Committee."

The unprecedented move came when legislator Dave Breidenbach suspended the rules for placement of the item which was an executive request from President Phay.

What's the Criteria

"Silence Is Golden" Award for two consecutive quarters—had stripped the five members of the Services and Activities Fees Committee.

Hayes, visibly shaken by the amendment, asked the legislature if he could withdraw the amendment, anyway with EWS President Schmuck around, at least a semblance of leadership would be possible.

In Tears

Hayes, in tears, now pointed out to the legislature he had plans to attend graduate school and would render him unable to successfully attain his chosen aspirations.

At this time AS speaker Gary Nisker stood up and buried his gavel at Hayes and moved a motion to adjourn. Clause from the Services and Activities Fees Committee.

Dear Editor,

I wrote this letter concerning a very disgusting practice that seems to have gained momentum around the campus. Some people call it “mining nose gold,” others claim it is “digging for dirt,” and the real winners say they are “picking winners.” What I am talking about is picking one’s nose.

Do you realize how disgusting it is when a person is in the library trying to study and looks up to see the fellow across from him jamming three quarters of his index finger up his nose? It’s disgusting!

I was descending from the third floor to the second floor in Showalter Hall the other day with my hand following the rail along the stairs. As I hit the bottom my hand felt something gooey underneath the rail. I’ll give you two guesses what it was.

The underside of desks in classrooms are the same story. I have a compulsion to go wash my hands every time I inadvertently touch my fingers underneath a desk. I actually saw one of our star athletes pick his nose in class and roll up and fluff the substance he obtained from the nostrils. Some actually eat it!

As far as I am concerned this kind of business should be reserved for the same place as sex—the privacy of your own home.

Sincerely,
Ronald Rabat

Ed. Note. Rest easy Ronald. At Monday’s Legislature meeting a bill was passed saying “anybody caught in the act of nose-picking” would be subject to disciplinary action.

He’s a Fool Thieu

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in response to your recent editorials on Southeast Asia. I resent your labeling me a “madman.”

I don’t think so. But I do think you are right in your political naive to your view that you subvert your own means of economic recovery. Right that you see the throngs of an economic distress that can only be cured by a large injection of war. I don’t feel like you, and the “bleeding Hearts” constantly espouse the evils of war and “madness” of my regime. What you do not know is that I am intact regarding my position as ruler of South Vietnam. Your tax money keeps me supplied with arms so my generals can claim pay for soldiers not existing. It would be political folly for the leaders of your country to let your regime fall, so what you are doing is just wasting your energy and breath in attempting to bring about my downfall.

What you fail to understand is the low mentality of the people I govern so fairly. They are as used to war, death, and hunger as you Americans are to comfort, wealth, and abundance. Am I a madman because I send my soldiers not existing in defense of democracy? Am I a madman because I use up the country’s resources to fight the enemies of the South Vietnamese? Am I a madman because I use my soldiers to fight to the death rather than surrender when I know this war cannot be won?

If you want to jump on a bandwagon then start investigating rumors that the CIA is independently plotting an assassination attempt on my life.

Respectfully,
Nguyen Van Thieu
President—South Vietnam

Crime Check

A molotov cocktail, with a new twist, exploded in Pearce Hall over Spring break killing 87 people and doing $100,000 damage.

What was unusual about the device was that it was a 25 gallon prophylactic.

According to a report filed with Campus Safety, the bomb exploded on the second floor of the hall causing the widespread death and destruction.

The report also stated the “strange device was apparently filled with the deadly gasoline on the floor itself rather than filling it, then hauling it up the elevator.

Officials speculated the bomb was deposited near a window after being filled and the perpetrators then withdrew to neighboring Dressler Hall and fired a rifle at it causing “a Fourth of July spectacle.”

When asked about the bizarre nature of the device used, Campus Safety spokesmen replied it was “the product of some sick mind.” One of the reasons they claimed it happened was because of “some frustrated young buck.”

An investigation of reports on what males “failed to score” on the night it happened is presently underway, and officials are “optimistic” about the results.

Meanwhile the dormitory has been evacuated because of the damage, and the residents left alive are urged to seek sleeping bags and camp out on the mall until “suitable quarters” can be found for them.

The staff of the Computer Center is under investigation after reports they were involved in a bookmaking operation connected with Yakima Meadows Racetrack were found to be true.

FBI officials contend the computer was being used like the Daily Racing Form to compile all the horse’s important statistics like speed, last racing day, endurance, and class.

The Computer Center staff then took bets “on a morning line” they offered through certain professors on campus according to FBI officials.

Officials said they received the tips from disgruntled bettors.

THE REAL WORLD GAME

Instructions

The purpose of the game is to play. You may decide for yourself whether you wish to collect positive points or diminish points. If you wish to collect positive points, do the exact opposite of what the point portion of the square declares. (Just like the American economic system.)

Objective

Score is kept on a separate sheet of paper or an abacus.

How to Play

1. Go down to the store and buy a die. (We tried putting one in with the paper but they kept falling out.) Roll the die and move the number that appears on the top. Follow the instructions on the squares.

Winning

No one wins the Real World Game. The only thing you can do is keep moving.

End. The game ends when all of the players are in E.W.S.C. or all of the players are eliminated. Each game is to be played for the next 20 turns. You can, however, proclaim yourself a winner and try to convince the other players that you have won.

Instructions

- Politician: Go directly to the Whitehouse. Collect 50 points plus any points you pass on your way. Collect all 30 points.
- Inflation: You are eliminated from the game when you land on the Florida square. The only way out of Florida is to cheat.

New Department Announced

By Perry White

Modern Life Studies, a new department at Eastern, was unveiled yesterday by President Emerson Shmuck. “We hope this new department and several new courses in the traditional departments will give the Eastern student a complete and balanced education, all at Eastern,” Shmuck said in announcing the department.

Many of the new courses offered through Modern Life will be taught as seminars, though some will have regular class times.

The courses can be used for general education requirements though a major in Modern Life is also offered, according to Philip Shereff, vice president for Academic Affairs.

Four related courses which offer the student insights into getting better grades are Cheating 101, 201, 301, and 401.

Cheating 101 will give the student an historical perspective and general overview to the various techniques of cheating as well as specifics in crib notes.

Watch faces, mirrors in glasses, and desk inscription will be the main topics in Cheating 201. Students taking Cheating 301 will learn the arts of rifling instructor’s desks and microdotting.

Cheating 401 will concentrate on such subjects as electronic surveillance, reading electronic typewriter ribbons, disguising and enrolling fictitious students. The courses must be taken in sequence. Exceptions will be made when a student can prove an A was obtained in a normal course by cheating.

More courses

Of interest to commuters will be a group seminar entitled, Transportation 101, “Magic Bus Studies”. The course will concentrate in how to wait in line, how to have the proper change, and hitchhiking when the bus doesn’t come. The course will be taught by PUB Director Curt Huff.

For dorm residents there will be Vandalism 325. It is an advanced course in how to destroy campus housing taught by Barney Isaacs, former press relations manager for The Eastern’s Vandalism Award for Winter Quarter 1975.

Two special courses for minorities will be Minorities 222 and Feminism at EWSC.

The Minorities 222 class will instruct prospective minority group members in the proper techniques of submitting inflated budget requests to the Administration. The course will be taught by Pat Straws and Emerson Schmuck.

The course is designed for those entering civil service.

The final course in the new department will be Illegals Search and Seizure, Modern Life 333. The course will be taught by Barney Isaacs, former press relations manager for The Eastern’s Vandalism Award for Winter Quarter 1975.

POLITICAL SCIENCE

A new course for future politicians, “Power of the Presidency” will be taught by Pat Straws, retired South Vietnamese President Nguyen “madman” Thieu.

The course is designed for those entering civil service.

By Glen Flooglesby

The nostalgia craze, while apparently precipitated by an unreal past, has found its true meaning in our country’s Bicentennial Celebration.

Honor and pride we can look to the past. And while the Arabs could enlarge on this concept.

The Bicentennial Celebration. For those at the other end of the political spectrum will be “Sado-Masochism”. The course will be taught by Pat Straws, retired South Vietnamese President Nguyen “madman” Thieu.

The class was a prerequisite of one confirming course in the principles of bestiality in the positive passive.

A related course, which will be a prerequisite of all students seeking positions in student government. “Purges 409” will be taught by Pat Straws, retired South Vietnamese President Nguyen “madman” Thieu.

The course is designed for those entering civil service.

ASSORTED COURSES

The TV department will offer a course, “How to be a Movie Producer” as soon as department chairman Hoppity Hooper gets his new equipment.

The Physics Department will offer a course in nuclear physics. “Bomb Construction” 305. A technical class, the course will explain the mechanics of constructing a nuclear device from stolen nuclear power plant wastes. The only prerequisite for the course is a third grade education.

A general interest course, “Gardening 101” will teach students how to grow carnivorous plants, salvia, phacelia, peyote, kava kava, tobacco, and opium.

The final course to be offered in Modern Life is a journalism class, “The Easterner Jr 100”. The class will build business ethics, personal attacks, the vulnerabilities of yellow journalism, distortions of facts, libel, and misquoting and exaggeration.
Look Alike Contest

Pick The Winner, No Prize Offered

The above contestants are the finalists in the Emerson Schmuck look-alike contest. The staff of The Easterner after poring over thousands of entries came down to the final six. Unable to come to a consensus we submit to the Eastern community, students, faculty, administrators, and civil service employees the chance to pick the winner.

Ballots may be mailed to P.O. Box 666, Cheney, Wash. 99204. Ballots will be accepted no later than April 1, 1975. Announcement of the winning entry will be made at some undetermined future date.

Interview with God

Alive, Well And Living in Rio

By Clark Kent
Associate Editor

ED note: This week, via a flash of thunder and a bolt of lightning, this reporter was summoned to the golden palace in the sky for an exclusive interview with God. Even though the interview was granted on a last minute basis, this reporter, in true journalistic fashion got to the heart of the issues confronting man in the modern society.

Upon entering God's Golden Palace, the first thing I noticed was that the major audience hall was tastefully done in Danish Modern carefully integrated with traditional Chinese.

God: How do you do? I'm God.

Easterner: I gathered that. Don't you think it's a little gauche to have a blinking neon sign on the front door with "God lives here" on it?

God: Well, it pays to advertise. And besides, do you think it's easy competing with MacDonals and massage parlors?

Easterner: I hadn't thought of it.

God: That's the problem with you mortals, you never think of things until it's too late.

Easterner: You're probably right. Let's get on with the interview, I've got a date with this fox and... God: Yes, I know.

Easterner: You know, you don't look like what I expected. You don't look Jewish. Just exactly where are we?

God: In Rio De Janeiro.

Easterner: Rio?

God: That's right. I established my headquarters here just before the end of the war.

Easterner: Well, where was it before?

God: I don't really like to get into that. We were just taking orders you know.

Easterner: There's been some speculation that your son is going to return in the near future. Do you have a time table for his appearance?

God: Well, he was scheduled for the summer of 1936 but he never showed. You know how kids are these days. Smoking funny cigarettes, tie dying his robes and junk like that. I've been trying to get a hold of him for the last couple of years but the only one who answers is his old lady.

Easterner: I didn't know Christ was married.

God: He isn't. He's just been shacking with this chick and...

Easterner: Well, let's try another subject. What was your greatest accomplishment?

God: Oh, creating the universe in six days after my secretary inadvertently erased part of the plans to the kit. Ever try creating a universe? Let me tell you it ain't easy.

Easterner: What then was your biggest disappointment?

God: Not having a partner.

Easterner: You mean Mary wasn't a virgin?

God: Oh she was a virgin alright. The ugliest broad I've ever seen. In fact even the Roman soldiers would touch her. And they weren't known to be the most discriminating studs in the world.

Easterner: Then why did you... God: Well, you see, it was like this. When I get blasted on Ripple, anything looks good. I got into trouble a couple of years back and the result was a Centaur. You don't think that I got the razz around the club?

Easterner: You realize that you're shattering all of the preconceptions about you. Let's get to another subject. What about the devil?

God: That fag? I'm not interested in even discussing him.

Easterner: Then there is a devil?

God: Of course there is. What do you think I run here, a dictatorship? Look it. If you can't ask questions of any importance, then I'll have to end this conversation. Now buzz off.

Omelette De Marquis De Sade

Today dear friends, we are going to make one of the finest pieces of French cookery since Joan of Arc. This recipe, Omelette de Marquis de Sade, was created in the hallowed halls of Joan of Arc. This recipe, Omelette de Marquis de Sade, was created in the hallowed halls of the Bastille for those of us who enjoy cooking with a flare.

Take three eggs (preferably from the same family) and beat them until wet appear. (You may prefer to have the mother present while you do this to add to the enjoyment.)

Slowly dice a small portion of pig meat and place it in a bowl of un

Grind salt, pepper or any other seasoning that you wish into the mixture. (I prefer using thumb screws for my grinding since the grinding sound is amplified with the metal diaphram.)

And now for the Coup De Grace. Instead of the traditional brandy to make the dish flame at the table, use gasoline. Gas gives the omelette a unique flavor, particularly to your straight guests. It's fun to see them write in pain when they take their first mouthful of unburned chicken.

Next week, dear friends, we'll explore Jewish Cookery. So make sure that your butcher has a Jew on hand for the main dish.
