THE NORMAL Y. W. C. A.
By Miss Ethel Kieshels, President

This organization is known, un deniably, as one of the most effective small number of the students in the Normal. It is known that the Y. W. C. A. is for those only who partake of its work. It is the work of this group that is a warning to all girls who are just awaking, September 16, for all the work which has been done by this organization to the new students.

The actual details of the work done by this organization are too long to be written here. But the spirit of the work is known of the work done by this organization to the new students.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

THE JOURNAL extends to everyone its best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year. We hope that we can be of even more service to you during the coming year than we have been in the past. It has been our constant aim to give the students the best possible news concerning all matters of real value in the school, something that will be looked forward to each Friday with pleasure. Criticism and suggestions will always be appreciated.

DON'T FORGET TO VOTE

WE SHOULD not forget while we are enjoying ourselves at home during the Christmas vacation that upon returning we must elect of­ ficers for the Associated Students. Many factors have entered into the completion of the elections before the holidays, leaving this business in an unstarted state. Let's remember to vote on January 6, and elect our student body officers.

AFTER-EFFECTS

EVE~RYYONE will be leaving Cheney this week. It is always a sad day when people pack up and move away, but the students are glad to know they are going to get back to their old working habits. Let's remember to have a happy-holiday feeling on leaving.

WHO'S START IT?

W-HY shouldn't there be an organization of the off-campus men of the school? There are about 125 of them. This is the largest unorganized group in the school, the realists, who are a little bit more conscious. Probably all needed is some sort of regular meetings. If the officers have been inducted at all, their representatives for the off-campus men would very likely be elected. Probably all that is needed is to start the movement in favor of such an organization up among the men, and put the gears in motion to get a good organization started. Don't wait for George to do it.

LET'S HEAR OTHER OPINIONS

SOMETIME ago the Journal published an editorial in which one of the members of the staff, using the pseudonym of In the Wilderness, expressed the feeling that the men of the school give some attention to the women but not enough to the men. These sports deserve to be given attention. The accusation cannot be made of them that they are not interested, but they are not well developed, for all who turn out will get plenty of bodily exercise.

Another point in their favor is that they can be followed after leaving school. Other sports, such as tennis, where there is a great deal of money, are seldom indulged in after male leave school. Baseball in these sports is apt to neglect the care of the job. Not all of us can develop ourselves physically through these sports, but we can turn our efforts toward wrestling and boxing, keeping an eye toward our future health as well as our development while in school.

We have received a letter from the editor of the "Windermere's Christmas and a prosperous New Year. We hope that we can be of even more service to you during the coming year than we have been in the past. It has been our constant aim to give the students the best possible news concerning all matters of real value in the school, something that will be looked forward to each Friday with pleasure. EDUCATION BILL CONCERNING NEW GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENT

The Education Bill now before Congress is significant in several respects. It is a comprehensive proposal designed to restructure the education system of the United States. The bill focuses on creating a new department of education, which would be responsible for the administration of education policies and programs throughout the nation. The bill also includes provisions for the appointment and duties of the new secretary of education, as well as the powers and responsibilities of the department.

The bill proposes to establish a new department of education, separate from the Department of Commerce and Labor. This new department would be charged with the responsibility of overseeing the education system of the United States. The bill includes provisions for the appointment of a secretary of education, who would be the head of the new department.

The bill also includes provisions for the appointment of a new board of education, which would be responsible for the administration of education policies and programs. The board would consist of members appointed by the secretary of education, and would be responsible for the administration of the new department.

The bill also includes provisions for the apportionment of education funds among the states. The bill proposes to establish a new method of apportionment, which would be based on the population of the states. The bill also includes provisions for the distribution of education funds to the states, and for the administration of these funds by the new department.

In addition to these provisions, the bill includes several other significant provisions. The bill proposes to establish a new system of teacher certification, which would be based on the attainment of certain educational qualifications. The bill also includes provisions for the establishment of new programs of study, and for the promotion of educational research.

In conclusion, the Education Bill now before Congress is a comprehensive proposal designed to restructure the education system of the United States. The bill focuses on creating a new department of education, which would be responsible for the administration of education policies and programs throughout the nation. The bill includes provisions for the appointment of a new secretary of education, and for the apportionment and distribution of education funds among the states. These provisions, among others, are significant and will have a major impact on the education system of the United States.
