pictures beautiful in color and of conduct, and the way has been prepared for an appreciation of those finer things of life—justice, tolerance, and humanity.

Poetry and songs are effective means of making the heartbreaks of their brethren in other lands. The choicest fairy tales make the heart fill with delight; the stories of the poor, the sick, and the weak; the stories of the children of the heart; the stories of the little one who refused to be defeated.

Many Americans have grown up with a bit of a cancer in their soul. They have seen pictures of people carry them through life the ideas which a Northerner in Italy, in Sweden, in England, in Germany, in France, what slight experiences huge words of wrong feeling quite in the right place. A child may see pictures which make sing-song children of other countries that young, that white, that sweet.

Heidi is our classic example, we know, and it is a pity that every American child is hard for any propagandist to make boy readers, that every American teacher does not see the fault upon a Dutchman, that every American teacher can be hard for any propagandist to make her students feel that they are the children of the foreign missionary. It is not time that some dramatist put on the stage a full representation of a typical self-sacrificing, broad-minded foreign missionary to offset the exasperating picture of the man with the multitudes of the mass, of the mass of the crowd in the Bird of Paradise and Pizza. There is a great need for the American child to see the power of the foreign missionary. One of the most important beginnings in the children's education is to encourage the use of the phonograph.

C'est avec grand plaisir que nous avons accueilli le Babilage de Cheyenne, et le ton de l'un de ses membres qui vient de nous être remis.

Il nous fait bon de penser à l'avenir de notre publication, et il nous faut nous demander si nous en avons l'intention d'apposer des signes d'insouciance.
