CAMPUS PLANS FESTIVE WEEK

Mardi Gras Greet Students And Alumni See Activity Calendar In Next Easterner

"Mardi Gras 1961" with all its colors will welcome students and alumni of Eastern Washington State College to Homecoming.

Opening festivities will begin Friday night at 8:15 p. m. A talent show, and the winner of the long-underway beard growing contest will be presented in Showalter auditorium.

Friday evening the 1961 Homecoming Queen will also be announced.

Election Tomorrow

Tomorrow from 8:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. students may vote for a queen candidate.

Elections will be held in the lobby of the SUB. Student activity cards must be presented when voting.

Parade In Downtown Cheney

Several floats, marching units and special units will parade in downtown Cheney Saturday morning at 10 a. m.

Football will highlight the afternoon when the Savages meet the Whitworth Pirates at 1:30 p. m.

Alumni Tea

Associated Women Students will welcome all alumni at the Alumni Tea in the Bali Lounge after the game.

Saturday Night and Homecoming Dance

The lobby of the Davenport hotel will be the setting for the 1961 Homecoming Dance. The Isabella Room has also been reserved.

Jim Miller and his orchestra from Yakima will furnish the music for the evening.

Tickets are now available in the SUB information booth. There is no charge, but students must present their activity cards when requesting tickets for the dance.

At midnight, alumni, faculty members, and students will bid Mardi Gras, EWSC's 1961 Homecoming, a farewell.

IMPORTANT ART MEET TOMORROW

All Art majors are asked to meet in the SUB Cove tomorrow, Thursday, Oct. 19, at 10:40 a. m. The meeting will last approximately one hour, the Art department announced, and problems of the students will be discussed with the combined Art staff.

The officers of GRAPHOS ART CLUB will be introduced, and will explain the functions of the club.

Karl Morrison, chairman of the Art Department, stated that any Art Major who has a class conflict at the hour of the meeting is requested to check with him in his office today or before the meeting tomorrow. All other Art majors are expected to attend.

REPRESENTATIVE-AT-LARGE ELECTION TOMORROW

Elections for A. S. representative-at-large will be held in conjunction with the Homecoming Queen election tomorrow in the SUB lobby from 8:30 a. m. until 5:30 p. m.

Three juniors have filed for the office. They are Roger Bean, Betty Helbig, and Lawrence Little.

Student activity cards must be presented before voting.

Study Labs Underway

"At the request of various groups, study laboratories have been set up," George Kabat, Dean of Instruction, has announced.

These study labs are held between 2:40 and 4:30 p. m. and also from 7 to 9 p. m. each day, Monday through Thursday, he added.

All students who want help at the freshman-sophomore level are invited to attend.

The English study lab meets in Showalter 320.

Math-Science study lab meets in Showalter 317.

General "How to Study" lab meets in Showalter 117.

"The purpose of these laboratories is to help students with study problems. They are staffed with students recommended by the divisions concerned," Dean Kabat explained.

Macbeth To Be Shown Again

The two-hour long television show of Shakespeare's Macbeth will be shown October 20 on KHQ-TV, channel 6. Dame Judith Anderson, who recently appeared on the Eastern campus, will star as Lady Macbeth.

John Ciardi

"YOU ALL WERE POETS ONCE"

By Paddock

It is very seldom, indeed, when a single individual can come into an environment, make his presence known, capture the attention and admiration of all around him and through it all show the attributes of a very human individual. Such a man is John Ciardi.

Dr. Ciardi has translated inary events that the poet experienced.

"Such is the greatness of the poem," Dr. Ciardi remarked, "is it can be read in one of five ways: alligorically, literally, morally, mystically and in the light of the development of the soul."

"One should see the Comedy as a piece of music, one thing on top of another."

two thirds (the Inferno and Purgatorio) of Dante's Divine Comedy. This coming December he is planning to go to Italy for two years to finish his task, the translation of Paradiso, the third part of the Comedy.

The first event of Dr. Ciardi's visit to our campus was a talk, in Showalter auditorium, with the Florintine poet and his poem as the subject. Only a few words had been spoken before one was aware of the deep love and admiration this scholar holds for Dante.

Ironically, the humanity classes were studying Dante's work, the Ciardi translation, at the time of his address.

Dr. Ciardi was quick to point out the poem, which is "epoch only in scope," must be approached with a very serious attitude on the part of the reader. Because of the nature of the poem, we may have a certain amount of trouble with it, but, Dr. Ciardi explained, "those who read and understand the first three canto's will have less trouble with the poem."

Fraud, according to Dante, is the greatest of sins. His legendary trip through Hell was recorded in a very descriptive manner and Dr. Ciardi is more than able to convey the imag-

Although none will deny this man's scholastic ability, he proved he was still a teacher at heart. Several times during the course of the lecture he stopped and spelled several words which may have given the students trouble.

To the delight of many, Dr. John Ciardi delivered an afternoon talk with poetry in general as his subject. He read some of his own poems as well as some work of other poets.

When one spoke with Ciardi afterward he appeared much different than he did on the lecture stage.

John Ciardi, a master of the Italian language and its dialects, is every inch a scholar but as he speaks one can detect the very warm sense of humor this man possesses. He is deeply concerned with the illiteracy problem in Italy and he talked with much concern on the living conditions of this country he is soon to visit.

When asked what made a great artist he came back with the answer that the true artist is a person who follows the principle of selectivity. "A work of art is not an accident. An artist cannot construct his piece of art sloppily," he said, "everything in the entire work must be selected and selected properly."

One of these charming candidates will be crowned Homecoming Queen at the talent show Friday night. Sue Rehfeld, Jan Neuenschwander, and Mary Braddock are the three EWSC coeds vying for the title. Students may vote for their choice during elections tomorrow in the lobby of the SUB.

The Perils Of Excellence

Each day 2600 students endeavor to achieve academic accomplishment. Each day these same students spend the better part of their time in an effort to fill a vacuum which will eventually mean education. With this constant increase in knowledge their lives should be rich and meaningful but instead, many are impoverished.

Each student is faced with the importance of academic excellence and is making every effort to attain it. But, what of the inadequacies one displays when confronted with such realities as love, marriage, parenthood, and the job of earning a living? Was our college career meant to be nothing but an academic trade school? Is there no place in our modern educational system for pondering such questions?

A great deal of the average student's creative effort is directed toward his academic work. This of course has a great effect on his future. But, what of the other factors which will certainly mold his later life? These seemingly basic domestic items are among the richest and most rewarding aspects of our lives and yet it seems that they are constantly disregarded for the temporary social passions which exist in our busy society. Does today's student feel that the answer to these perpetual questions will automatically be included in his diploma on graduation day?

I feel that the time spent in college should satisfy more than just our technical needs. Although a college atmosphere provides the perfect basis for such contemplation and reflection, I see little evidence that anyone has attempted to lay out a full spectrum of alternatives, a range of perspectives from which to view life, or an effective means for the individual to extract life's meaning.

The humanities and philosophies do delve into this ever-present question to some extent but since the material is often presented in such a factual manner, it tends to simply slide into place, filling its niche along with other accumulated facts without stimulating much outside thought. Is a walking encyclopedia replacing the rational mind?

I feel that the college should provide guideposts to imaginative, satisfying and creative living. The four years spent here may be meaningful or they may be meagre. There is no second chance.

In my opinion, such pursuits are as much the business of a college as doling out technical competence.

What So Proudly We Hailed

By Don Dressel

"Our nation is in peril and on the brink of war!" The people don't care about the Communist menace and will do nothing about the infiltration of 'Reds', imported and home-grown!" "Where are the red-blooded Americans of yesteryear?"

One hears such statements every day, whether on the street, in a tavern, or in conversations among the students at EWSC. We are living in a period in which one can hear the names of Robert Welch and Joseph Stalin within a single sentence. It is a period where one is under surveillance of Russian spies on the one hand and the John Birch Society on the other, both waiting to pounce. What's the answer? What to do?

On September 17, 1947, a special streamliner, the Freedom Train, began a historic cross-country tour of the United States. This was not an ordinary train—no indeed. It was a train that carried a precious cargo, possibly the most valuable cargo in the world. Instead of freight or passengers it carried paper, old and yellow, some of it soiled and creased. It was our History and our Heritage. There were documents ranging from a letter written by Christopher Columbus in 1493 to the charter of the United Nations, signed in 1945. Included were the Mayflower Compact, the Declaration of Independence, our Constitution, and many other documents that piece together our written symbols, our banner in the Battle for Freedom.

Yes, 14 years ago this train rumbled through our land. In two years millions of Americans filed through the three exhibition cars inspecting their heritage. This was not a contrived publicity stunt or gimmick. This was real and badly needed.

Perhaps this red, white and blue diesel could be readied again for another run, this time a longer ride into the hearts of Americans. Instead of only 326 cities, all cities and towns with railroad facilities could be visited, and 180,000,000 eager Americans could again fortify their spirits for the difficult days and years that face them.

Meet Your A. S. Officers

By Gymme Williams

At the Billings, Montana General Hospital during the Christmas holidays in 1938 a future natural science instructor joined civilization. This Christmas present was given to Chris and Alberta Christensen.

A few years later the town of Polson, Montana, greeted this small family when they bought a bright red, three story farmhouse on its countryside. It may here be recorded that electricity had not at this time traveled to the hinterlands, also one of the basic rooms in the estate was "down the path."

The following year the Christmas present went off to school. But after the second grade, which was conducted by a sweet old lady who had the habit of pulling students' ear lobes almost off, he was dubious about continuing his education. Realizing that school consisted of other things besides teachers, books and boys, off again he went the next fall.

In the following 10 years the Christmas present, by this time nicknamed Chris, for obvious reasons, held every office in the local chapter of FFA. When asked what special animals he liked best his answer was "girls."

After graduating from high school, where he won athletic honors, Chris went one year to WSU. Next year he didn't go to school but worked and gave a lot of thought to who he was, and what he wanted to be. Deciding the best way to live is to "know yourself, be yourself, be open-minded, and not let yourself be influenced by outside pressure groups," he came to Eastern.

Chris Christensen didn't go into politics at first. During his junior year he became off-campus president and NSA co-ordinator. Well liked by the students because of his sincerity, integrity, and willingness to answer all questions put to him by anyone, he was elected to the office of President of the Associated Students.

The main function of his office is co-ordinating all campus affairs and delegating authority to various people in the student body. He receives a great deal of satisfaction in this office and is furthering his education because he believes the purpose of college is to produce "informed, functioning members in our society."

Between the bookstore and the Harbor in the SUB is the EWSCAS office. At almost any time a student wandering in can find this blond haired, blue eyed youth behind a desk in the corner. Sometimes he will be laboriously pouring over the many papers and books on his desk; sometimes busily rushing in apparently unorganized motion all around the office maze; at other times his feet propped upon his desk, with an expression of dreamy contentment upon his face. But at any time and in any position he is concerned with the problems of our campus and primarily interested in the betterment of the college and its students.

Sounding Board

To The Editor:

It is too bad that Chuck Plumb did not show as much thought while doing the research for "Book Store Investigated" as he did for his 25 hour stint in a phone booth last spring.

His investigation seemed to be slanted in the wrong direction. I doubt that too many students feel that there is any "apparent graft" involved in the bookstore operation. However, as Chuck points out, "One problem still exists—the high price of articles being stocked in the store."

Perhaps Mr. Plumb should attempt to find out why a business with a gross of approximately $150,000.00 can just meet expenses while charging about the same prices as a profit-making private retail establishment.—And our bookstore has a captive market!

Dealing in personalities does not and will not help, rather the proper subject for "investigation" should be the system under which the present bookstore must be run. A good factual article on the actual organizational structure of our bookstore along with a comparison of it to other college bookstores might be in order.

If it can be shown that our bookstore is organized to supply books and other merchandise at the lowest possible cost OR that it is impossible to change the present structure, then most of the complaining would probably stop.

How about it?

Howard Jenkins

TO whom it may concern:

Concerning the yearbook for 1960-61, the Eastern Washington College Swim Team would like to extend our heartiest congratulations on the job you did on last years annual. We would also like to thank you for the immense amount of space allotted to us and the amount of effort put out by you in attempting to include all the activities and organizations in your yearbook.

It seems hardly fair that the graduated seniors on our team can look back in their annuals and have nothing to remind them of the relationships and experiences they had as members of our squad. To you, omitting the swimming team may seem quite insignificant and unimportant, but to us it shows inconsideration and lack of responsibility. We turn out five months of the year and practice in order to properly represent this institution. All we ask is a small amount of recognition from your department.

Foreign Service Applications Due Monday

There are many American Foreign Service posts abroad now open to senior and graduate students over 21 and under 31 years of age. The Department of State does not recommend any special course as the candidate will be tested on general ability, English expression, modern language, and general background.

Appointments as Foreign Service officer are made in the $5,625 to $6,345 per annum salary range according to age and marital status. While officers are abroad their salaries are supplemented by quarters allowances unless they live in government-owned quarters. Officers also receive cost-of-living allowances when stationed at posts where the cost of living is higher than in Washington.

Broadly speaking, the responsibilities of a Foreign Service officer are to carry out the foreign policy of the President as expressed in the directives of the Secretary of State, to keep the United

We attempt to do our job right and we expect you to do the same.

On two occasions we were called together for photographs and on two occasions somebody obviously had something better to do. Evidently the coffee at the Student Union is too important for someone to spare a few minutes for a few photographs. If your job is too much trouble for you to do it right, at least give it to someone who can handle it.

Very sincerely yours,
Lanny Wilman on the behalf of the swimming team

Dear Swim Team:

On the first occasion, our photographer was told to be at the fieldhouse to take your picture, but he was unable to make it; he was at Gonzaga waiting for a make-believe baseball game to materialize. It seems that it was too much trouble for someone in the athletic department to schedule games properly.

On the second occasion, our photography staff found that it was out of film. Our shipment was three weeks behind schedule, a problem that we were often plagued with.

On both occasions, our sports editor, himself an athlete, was informed of the trouble and was told to notify you.

"We also would like to thank you for the immense amount of space allotted to us."

Don't mention it. We had to cut somebody's section and yours was the only one left. "If your job is too much trouble for you to do right, at least give it to someone who can handle it."

Allow me to ask you a question, Swim Team. Exactly what is the right way to handle a yearbook?

As of this date I have not seen a contract or code that sets down a system that editors must follow. You may have learned to expect a certain coverage in yearbooks, but this expectation is not a binding force.

Sincerely yours,
George Phillips

THANK YOU!

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank all of the faculty members for the gift which I have received from them. It means so very much to me. It has been a pleasure to work with you people and for you people. Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Signed,
Rose Russell

States Government informed of developments abroad, to protect American citizens and interests in foreign countries, and to cultivate and maintain friendly relations with peoples of other nations.

More specifically the duties of a Foreign Service officer may be in the fields of reporting—economic, political or commercial; administration—including any of the many and varied skills required for the smooth executive management of American Foreign Service posts abroad; consular work—for example the issuance of visas and passports, assisting American citizens abroad, and aiding American shipping; and negotiation with foreign officials. Officers may expect to perform a number of these functions during the course of their careers.

Applications must be received by the board of examiners no later than October 23, 1961, to be eligible to take the written section of the test, December 9, 1961 in the Federal Building, Spokane, Washington.

HONORS PROGRAM TAKES EFFECT

EWSC's Superior Student and Honors Program, two years in the making, became an actuality with the fall quarter of 1961.

Educators all over the country are concerned that a good per cent of students which show statistical superiority do not enter college, and those that do, drop out of college as frequently as statistically average students do. It is the underlying faith of the progenitors of the program that superior students often drop out of college from sheer boredom and that the program will provide such students with a challenge that will maintain their interest.

"Many students with top-rate ability are bored by the repetitive and routine nature of the regular class, and as a result," Dr. Louis V. Grafious said, "they lose interest and drop out of school."

The criteria for selecting superior students for the program include the high school gpa, screening tests, conferences, and recommendations.

The Superior Student and Honors Program Council, at Eastern, has promised that the program will be provided with the best teaching from each department and division of the college.

For more information concerning the Superior Student and Honors Program, consult Dr. Grafious, Chairman of the program.

Foreign Students Dine

Nine countries were represented when EWSC's foreign students gathered for an international dinner, at the home of Mrs. Celia Allen, psychology instructor.

Kingo Shiraishi cooked sukiyaki for the dinner party, and each guest received a small Japanese fan.

Miss Clara Kessler, advisor, said that this was the first meeting of these students.

Students on campus this quarter represent Japan, Korea, Israel, Holland, Italy, Greece, Iran, Chile, and Switzerland.

WAC Officer To Interview Women

On Wednesday, Oct. 25, 1st Lt. Evelyn P. Foote, WAC Selection officer for Oregon, Washington, and Northern Idaho, will be on campus. Any women interested in the Officer Career Program, and the College junior program, should contact Lt. Foote, in the lobby of the Student Union Building.

Activity Calendar Due In Next Issue

A quarterly activity calendar will appear in next week's issue of the Easterner.

This calendar will include all activities which will be sponsored for the entire student body.

The calendar, which has been printed separately and distributed in the SUB in the past, is being prepared by Al Ogdon, director of student activities.

CLIP AND SAVE

Mr. Ogdon suggests that each student clip the calendar from the Easterner and tack it to a bulletin board.

Business Students

The Department of Economics and Business announces that all students who plan on enrolling in Business 135, Introduction to Office Machine, Business 145, Business Mathematics or Business 251, or Accounting Principles I; for the winter quarter are reminded to secure mathematics clearance before their enrollment in the mentioned courses. THE CRESCENT

THE OPTIMIST

By Walt Hartman

Once again the age old adage that desire plays a major factor in athletics has been proven as the defensive unit of Eastern's football team thrilled more than 2000 fans at Cheney's field last Saturday evening. This unit has developed into one of the toughest in the league which would startle no one unless they were to examine the personnel involved.

On the Savage line we have Harley Allen, an old man for college football who has been inactive in the collegiate ranks for eight years. Then comes Ed Thill who played intramural football for three years and decided it wasn't tough enough for him. Keith Vradenburg, another intramural graduate from last year, hails from the small town of Entiat, and is another linefan that has developed into a fine lineman. Glen Crandal and Paul Lerch, a pair of dwarfs in a giant's game are perhaps the two best defensive linemen in the league. Lerch who has the worst pair of knees in the conference, and Crandal, who didn't have the big reputation before coming to Eastern, both play on pure desire, and seem to get their jobs done plus a little extra. Big George Ling, the only player on the squad who has the size and youth usually needed for a college lineman, showed his talent last weekend when he recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass. The final Savage lineman is big John Vick, who couldn't make the team in his two previous tries, but looks like a man with a new lease on life now, at the expense of the opposition.

In the backfield, the Savages have Al Johnson and Ed Laulainen along with Doug Morgan who have excelled on pass defense. Both Johnson and Laulainen go both ways, and all three were primarily offensive backs.

In last week's game Savage end Mike Macaulay put on the finest individual performance of a Savage player all season. Mike caught three passes for a total of 76 yards for more than 25 yards per reception. In addition Macaulay punted seven times for a total of 314 yards, nearly a 45-yard average. This performance will undoubtedly be an all time Eastern Washington record in both kicking departments.

Next Saturday afternoon the Savages face Whitworth College in Eastern's Homecoming tilt starting at 1:30 p. m. Whitworth blessed with the nation's finest small college passing team should give the Eastern secondary defensive unit its toughest assignment. Led by All-American candidates Denny Spurlock, quarterback, and John Murio, end, the Whits put on an amazing offensive show against Pacific Lutheran two weeks ago, humiliating the Lutes 67-0. Last year the Savages stifled this same attack for three quarters, but committed several costly errors in the fourth period as the Whits ran away with it 40-13. The Pirates return with nearly the same ball

LEIGHTON NAMED TO COMMITTEE

Dr. Jack Leighton, head of the Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, has been named to membership on the National Education Committee of the Association for Physical and Mental Rehabilitation.

Dr. Leighton is the author of an article, "Physical Education and Its Relation to General Education" which will appear in the October issue of PHYSICAL EDUCATOR.

In the article, Dr. Leighton pointed out that physical education is the only field concerned with the development of the individual from the neck down as well as the neck up.

"This vital aspect of the total educational program has not received the import it is due," he said.

Intramural football is to begin next week, with a strong scouting program planned by coach Ed Chissus. Who knows, maybe another Thill or Vradenburg will show up!

SPORTS

Intramurals Begin

Intramural touch football started Monday with six of the eight teams playing games.

This week's schedule includes 12 games.

There are two teams from both Hudson and Sutton Halls. Other teams include Garry Hall, Trailer Teamens, Old Men, and Kimzey's Competitors.

Horseshoe action also began Monday.

Viks Victorious 7-0

The EWSC football team, playing their best game of the year held powerful Western Washington College scoreless for 52 minutes, but at the same time the Viks were holding the Savages scoreless for 60 minutes as Western emerged victorious 7-0 last Saturday night on Eastern's Woodward Field.

Ken Fry, Western's fleet halfback skirted 50 yards through the Savage defense on a draw play with eight minutes remaining in the final period to give the Vikings the edge. It was the fourth consecutive game the Savages have been held scoreless.

Once again the Savage defense was outstanding. Harley Allen, Glen Crandal, Ed Laulainen, Paul Lerch, George Ling and John Vick were the standouts, but the whole unit played spectacularly. In no less than five occasions did Crandal knock down enemy passes that appeared to be sure receptions. Big George Ling seemed to be in the right place at the right time all evening as he picked off an enemy pass, a fumble and received credit for six unassisted tackles.

Offensive standouts for the game were pile driving Al Johnson, Savage right halfback and Mike Macaulay, Savage end who should be ranked second only to John Murio, Whitworth All-American, for conference play. Mike also boomed out seven punts for an amazing 44.9 average per kick.

Eastern threatened in the first quarter when Ed Thill recovered a Western fumble on their own 28. George Stephens completed a 14 yard pass to Macaulay but the Savages were then stalled on two incomplete passes and short yardage on a pair of line smashes.

Midway in the second quarter Eastern began another march led by a 40 yard pass-run from Stephens to Macaulay. The drive continued to the 23 on some hard running by Johnson, but then a Western defense man picked off a Stephens pass to end the Savage threat.

Western came right back led by a debatable pass interference call by referee Bill Ames, and carried the ball to the Eastern 17. On the next two plays Laulainen threw Vik star Ron Ladines for a big loss and then Ling intercepted a Viking pass on the last play of the first half.

Eastern completely dominated the first 10 minutes of the third period playing almost entirely in Western territory but couldn't make it in to paydirt. With two minutes remaining in the period Western was deep in Savage territory on some fine passing by Vik quarterback Doug Ringenbach, but with a first down on Eastern's two yard line, the Viks were charged with clipping and the Savages were able to hold. The Savages came out of the hold on a 57 yard punt by Macaulay.

With 8:29 remaining on the scoreboard and the ball on the midfield stripe, Fry broke into the open and went the distance without being touched on a beautifully executed play.

With 10 seconds remaining in the game, Ling brought the crowd to its feet as he recovered a Viking fumble and rambled 37 yards to midfield before being hauled down from behind. With two seconds remaining, Stephens couldn't find anyone in the Music Department Plans Active Year

One of the more active departments on the Eastern campus is the Music Department. Previously called the Division of Music, it has been reorganized into the Music Department of Fine Arts Division under the direction of Dr. George Lotzenhiser.

This new measure permits greater integration between the separate areas of the fine arts and is in accordance with the expansion program effected in all areas of the curricula.

The faculty of the Music Department consists of 11 full-time instructors, each of whom is a qualified specialist in his own particular area. The staff consists of Dr. George Lotzenhiser, department head; Dr. J. Austin Andrews, professor of music education; Arthur Beihl, woodwind instructor; Wendell L. Exline, brass instructor and director of the Easterners; Gwendolyn Harper, piano instructor; Ralph Manzo, voice instructor and director of the Symphonic Choir; William L. Maxson, director of the Symphonic Band; Marvin Mutchnik, string instructor and director of the College Symphony; Donald K. Smith, piano instructor; Jeanne F. Wardian, voice instructor; and Wesley Westrum, professor of music education.

Mr. Westrum was added to the staff this year.

In addition to these, the Music Department employs several part-time instructors.

The Music Department offers a variety of opportunities to all who are willing to participate, and a wide range of activities are available in order to meet the variable needs and interests of the students.

The various organizations within the department include the following: the symphonic band, the symphonic choir, the collegians, the college orchestra, the Easterners, the ROTC band, the ROTC choir, and several smaller ensembles.

The 60-piece symphonic band, under the direction of William L. Maxson, shows promise of being the best band in this region—if not, it will be the busiest.

The band has already made these commitments:

They will be performing for all home football games in the season; they will leave for Tacoma on the afternoon of November 3, to perform in the EWSC-PLU game on November 4; from February 18, to February 22, the band will be on a tour which will extend to Western Washington, during which it is tentatively scheduled to make 11 appearances; at least five other concerts are scheduled one of which will feature a guest conductor. During the first week of Christmas vacation, six to eight members of the band will attend the Western and Northwestern Intercollegiate band conference in San Francisco.

This conference is being held under the auspices of the College Band Directors Association.

The symphonic choir, under the direction of Ralph Manzo, has a membership of 100 voices. The performance scheduled for this group has not been fully determined, but at this time, the choir is involved in these engagements:

Along with the orchestra, the choir will present the annual Christmas concert, which has been scheduled, tentatively, for December 10; the choir will go on tour for three days in the spring (the itinerary and dates have not been ascertained).

Mr. Manzo also directs the Collegians, a highly successful pop-choir for mixed voices. The Collegians performed several times last year, and their performances included more than one TV engagement.

The college orchestra is making rapid progress under the leadership of Marvin Mutchnik. Although definite performance dates have not been announced at this time, the orchestra will make several appearances during the school year. They will perform with the choir in the annual Christmas concert, and will be on tour from April 10 to April 12.

An ensemble which has become very popular with the student body in recent years, is the college dance band—the Easterners. Under the direction of Wendell ("Pete") Ex-line, this group has performed for homecoming shows, March of Dimes benefits, and other talent shows. For the past three years, the Easterners have played at the Medical Lake Hospital where they were well received.

In conjunction with the Military Science Division are two ensembles: the ROTC Band, and the ROTC Choir. These two organizations enable young men taking ROTC to participate in a musical activity, as well as fulfill their drill-duty obligations. In years past both groups have had TV engagements.

Other ensembles include brass, woodwind, string, and voice groups of various sizes.

As additional information concerning the scheduling of any of the above organizations is confirmed, it shall appear in this column. The following is a schedule of coming musical events:

Nov. 8—Eastern Washington Music Educators Association Reading Clinic.

Nov. 19—Donald and Patricia Smith Duo Piano Recital—3:15, Showalter.

Nov. 27—President's Concert by the Symphonic Band—8:15, Showalter.

Dec. 10—Annual Christmas Concert by the College Orchestra and Symphonic Choir—8:15, Showalter.

Feb. 9-10—Kurt Weill's

"Down in the Valley" by the Music Department.

Feb. 11—American Music Concert jointly sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha-Symphonia and Mu Phi Epsilon—8:15, Showalter.

May 3—Band Concert by the Symphonic Band—8:15, Showalter.

May 6—Mother's Day Band Concert by the Symphonic Band.

May 11—2nd Annual Park Concert by the Symphonic Band—Cheney City Park.

Divisional recitals will be held on the first Thursday of every month at 3:15 in Showalter Auditorium. Music students are encouraged to participate in these recitals.

There are various professional organizations whose memberships consist of persons actively participating in music and music education.

One such organization is the Phi Mu Alpha-Symphonia (Epsilon Tau chapter). This is a professional and honorary fraternity that is comprised of dedicated men whose purpose is, among many others, to encourage and propagate a high standard of music in America.

Mu Phi Epsilon, a professional music sorority, is the sister organization of Phi Mu Alpha, and it has essentially the same purpose.

Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma are the professional bandmen's fraternity and sorority, respectively, and function by assisting in the development of band programs throughout America.

William L. Maxson is the district governor for Kappa Kappa Psi, and his wife is district counselor for Tau Beta Sigma.

The Music Educators' national conference is a professional organization whose duties are to assist in the realization of more effective education programs in the field of music.

It is the intention of the Music Department to offer as flexible and as extensive a program as possible, so that every student who is interested may derive as thorough a musical training and background as his interests and abilities will permit.

had a one-man conference about your future lately?

You: Why the gold bars?

Future You:

You're needed... just as your father and grandfather were. It's an obligation that a lot of qualified college men have to meet. If we don't...

You:

All right. But what can I do for the Air Force?

Future You:

The Air Force needs college trained men and women as officers. This is caused by the rapidly advancing technology that goes with hypersonic air and space flight. Your four years of college have equipped you to handle complex jobs.

You:

Say I was interested... how can I get to be an officer?

Future You:

You know about Air Force ROTC and the Air Force Academy. Then there's the navigator training program. You've probably heard about Officer Training School... where the Air Force takes certain college graduates, both men and women, and commissions them after three months of training.

You:

Starting salary is important. What about that?

Future You:

Add it up. Base pay, tax-free allowances, free medical and dental care, retirement provision, perhaps flight pay. You don't have to be an eco major to see it adds up to an attractive package.

You:

I've been thinking about getting my Master's.

Future You:

As an officer you can apply for the Air Force Institute of Technology. At no cost, and while on active duty some officers may even win their Ph.D. degrees.

You:

Tell me more.

That's the job of your local Air Force Recruiter. Or write to Officer Career Information, Dept. SCH10, Box 7608, Washington 4, D.C., if you want further information about the navigator training or Officer Training School programs.

Book Review

The 7-Inch Bookshelf

By Tom Paddock

Inside Benchley

The average college student, during his academic career, is subjected to many technical publications and is usually assigned, in the realm of fiction, only the loftiest of literature. We seem to lose sight of the material that was written not so much to inform but designed to tickle the proverbial funny bone.

I believe much tension caused by the pressures of school, can be relieved by reading the works of some of the humorists; men who see humor in many aspects of everyday life. Such a man is the 20th century pixie, Robert Benchley. The Universal Library has collected many of his writings, and bound them under the title, INSIDE BENCHLEY (Grosset's Universal Library, $1.45, 309 pages).

The main character of the very funny book is Benchley himself. Here he presents himself as a man truly interested in the social life of Newt ("an animal who has an extremely happy home-life."), and a man whose main difficulty in life is the simple task of ordering coffee, milk and eggs at a lunch counter ("I clear my throat, and, placing both hands on the counter, emit what promises to be a perfect bellow: 'COFFEE, MEGG AND ILK.' This makes just about the impression you'd think it would both on my neighbors and the clerk."

Also in the book is the lovable character, Grandpa Benchley, a man with a very high ambition, to write a book... maybe. To put it in Grandpa's words: "I am eighty-nine years old, and I think I would like to write a book. I don't know—maybe I wouldn't." After some deliberation Grandpa finally comes to the conclusion that "I don't want to write a book at all. When a man is 97 (he deliberated some years) it is high time he was doing something else with his time besides writing books. I guess I'll go out and roll down hills."

This is truly a book for those who are tired of the modern day "sick" humor. If you want a very pleasant pick-me-up, may I hereby recommend Inside Benchley.

The other day a fellow student stopped me on the street and asked me to recommend some books for her to read. I could only recommend books I have read and are in my library, a library of paperbacks. The following is my own partial list of recommended books:

LEO TOLSTOY; Ernest J. Simons*
SCIENCE AND THE MORAL LIFE Max C. Otto.
OUT OF MY LIFE AND THOUGHT Albert Schweitzer

CIARDI'S POETRY

John Ciardi, poet and lecturer, my impressions of. This was to have been my assignment for the intelligentsia to read and discuss for this issue. Being a dedicated sort of person, and pretending to know something about the workings of the poetic mind, I rushed with all speed and much daring to the Hargreaves Library on Campus to find all the 'es-famous personality who was to visit our illustrious institution of higher learning. I found, practically nothing of value, or at least nothing that I could possibly use in a column that would do justice to the excellent poetry and articles that this man has contributed to the overall literature of modern America.

EXISTENTIALISM Walter Kaumann

ELMER GENTRY Sinclair Lewis

I REMEMBER Boris Pasternak
ASPECTS OF THE NOVEL Irving Howe*

This is but a very short list of books I could recommend. They are all paperbacks for sale at a very reasonable price. (The books marked (*) are to be reviewed in later 7-Inch Bookshelves.)

The books reviewed in the 7 Inch Bookshelf may be found in the college bookstore.—TP

Mr. Ciardi has written several volumes of children's verse and and number of volumes of adult poetry. He is the literary editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, and a lecturer of some stature on the abilities and qualities of contemporary poets. Among his major accomplishments in the literary field is his excellent translation of the "IN-FERNO", by Dante.

In my search for some of the works of Mr. Ciardi, I came across a slim volume of his poetry entitled I MARY YOU. These were written during the Second World War and dealt with the recurring theme of love, life and death. I read them and tried honestly to become involved in feelings that Mr. Ciardi so strongly expressed. I failed miserably, not because of any deficiency on Mr. Ciardi's part to convey his meaning to the written page, but because of my own inadequacy in the interpretation of the finer nuances and meanings in the poems themselves.

I urge each of you to pursue the writings of not only Mr. Ciardi, but of all poets, not because someone writes a review about that person, or because he or she is a famous personality, but because you and you alone enjoy and appreciate the works that the poet is trying to convey.

Nuff Sed? I think so. Thank you from Tarz!

Pschy Club Meets

An interesting and informative presentation highlighted last night's meeting of the Psychology Club. Dennis Bennett, EWSC student who has been doing special study in the field of medical hypnosis for the past three years, talked on this subject. Following, Dr. Loretta Fretwell, EWSC psychology instructor, demonstrated the uses of medical hypnosis in the treatment of the catatonic state and in age regression.

Richard Jacks, the club's president, announced that several interesting projects have been scheduled for the 1961-62 school year.

Marshall Scholarship Deadline Near

Students graduating before October, 1962, who are interested in attending any British university of their choice must apply before October 31, of this year, to be eligible for the Marshall scholarships.

Application blanks and other information may be obtained by writing: Miss A. Ross, Information Office, British Consulate-General, 1216 Norton Building, Seattle 4, Washington.

Selection is made on the basis of intellectual ability combined with the capacity to play an active part in the community and the life of the university which they attend.

What men students have the seven keys to Monroe Hall?

When I was told that there are seven men students on campus who possessed keys to Monroe Hall, I was skeptical, until my informer showed me one of the keys. Of course my imagination went wild.

Who else has the keys? What are they used for? These and other even more naive questions raced through my mind. Could it be that I am missing out on some big parties in Monroe after blinks? Or perhaps there is a secret cult? I can only question the intents of those who possess the keys.

One explanation of how the males got the keys is that they acquired them last year when they found that the dorm was going to the girls. But this was discarded when my anonymous friend told me he was not a dorm resident last year.

So how did the keys get into circulation? Did the girls acquire them and distribute them to the boys? Maybe somebody is making them and selling them to pay his way through college.

There has been some talk that keys also are available for Louise Anderson hall. Kathy Beckman shed some light on that when she was caught in her Muu Muu last Monday night by some high spirited boys who found some way through the "locked" doors at L.A. No explanation has been made as yet as to how the boys gained entry. Maybe the keys fit both dorms?

No word has been heard from Senior hall. It could be that the girls there are keeping that under their Muu Muus (whoops) I mean hats.

CAMPUS POLL

"But I have only cut five classes."

"That is two too many," replies the professor as he trims your B to a C.

Fair or unfair?

Here is how 25 students responded to the question: Is the present system of penalizing for class cuts satisfactory or should there be a change? Those against the system say:

"Why should I attend class, I can get all the information I need from the book."

"As a mature person, I feel that it is my responsibility to decide if I need a class or not."

"It was my decision to spend the money. Let me handle my investment as I see fit."

The satisfied students put it this way:

"A person should be compelled to do things against his will. It gives him training for the real world he will soon face."

"Correspondence courses are designed for those who do not need classes."

So you're drinking coffee and you should be in your history class. Don't worry. It is only the system that is against you, 79% of the students interviewed back you up.

English Comp. Strikes Back

By Chuck Plumb

Our society revolves around our ability to use the English language correctly. Language not only plays an important part in income, leadership, success and personal adjustments, it is the very basis of these cliches of society.

Contrary to what was said in the article "Is Frosh Comp Obsolete?" by Shan Eggers, which appeared in last week's Easterner, a course which provides these personal attributes must have some content and subject matter.

The use of the term 'Freshman Composition' is misleading because the course encompasses much more than writing composition. Included in the curriculum is vocabulary, sentence structure, spelling, punctuation, literature as well as writing. All of these are vital to a student's development of his ability to communicate.

Dr. Louis V. Grafious, head of the English Composition department, said, "One criteria of an educated man is his ability to use his own language."

The results of the Washington Prediction Tests have reportedly shown that the Composite English score is the most accurate prediction of the grade point the student is expected to maintain in college. This score proved more accurate than the overall score on the test.

One conclusion that can be drawn, then, is that in order to communicate well in any walk of life, one needs a thorough command of his language. This means writing as well as speaking, reading and listening.

"The teaching of language skills is necessary on each continuing level to enable the student to learn on that level," Dr. Grafious said.

Contrary to the quotes that Archibald MacLeish and Paul Roberts made in Miss Eggers' article, writing can be taught just like any other subject. English composition is not merely a means, as brought in the article, but an end in itself, the use and improvement of language.

FRENCH CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

At the first meeting of the French club, Del Fine was elected president; Bill Albert vice-president; Geri French, secretary-treasurer; Sharon Hutsel, program chairman; and Kathy Hansen social chairman.

Miss Dickenson, club advisor, told the Easterner that plans are now underway to enter a float in homecoming competition.

'62 CORVAIR MONZA NEW FACE, SAME SPORTING HEART

We might as well tell you straight off: Corvair's the car for the driving enthusiast. Think that lets you out? Maybe. Maybe not.

Until you've driven one, you really can't say for sure, because Corvair's kind of driving is like no other in the land. The amazing air-cooled rear engine sees to that. You swing around curves flat as you please, in complete control. You whip through the sticky spots other cars should keep out of in the first place. (Especially this year, now that you can get Positraction as an extra-cost option.) You stop smoothly, levelly with Corvair's beautifully balanced, bigger brakes.

And Corvair's found other new ways to please you this year. A forced-air heater and defroster are standard equipment on all coupes, sedans and both Monza and 700 Station Wagons. So are dual sunshades and front-door armrests and some other goodies. You'll note some new styling, inside and out. Nice. And safety-belt installation is easier, too, and cheaper. Another extra-cost option well worth considering is the heavy-duty front and rear suspension; it turns a Corvair into a real tiger.

So you can see we haven't really done much to Corvair this year. Why on earth should we? If this car, just as it is, can't make a driving enthusiast out of you, better take a cab.

And here's America's only thoroughbred sports car, the '62 CORVETTE. We warn you: If you drive a Corvette after your first sampling of a Corvair, you may well end up a two-car man. And who could blame you?
