Jackson Discusses Nuclear Testing

Senator Sights Rediscovery of Excellence As Most Effective Way to Fight Communism

The dediscovers of excellence in all areas of endeavor was Senator Henry M. Jackson's plea to the college students during his visit to EWSC campus November 9. Senator Jackson spoke to a group of Eastern students in an afternoon con.

"The Soviets are not only out to beat us militarily but they are out to beat us economically and politically as well."

It is because of this fact that we should not discontinue our atmospheric tests of low yielding, atomic devices. "We must test in the atmosphere," the Senator said, "the security of our nation is at stake."

The Senator was quick to comment on the recent television show "Hollywood's Answer to Communism."

"I did not see the show. I can only make general observations."

"The Soviet threat is not internal. They want to prove their way of life is better than ours. The internal threat is being taken care of by the FBI."

"The primary threat may not be internal but we must not let our guard down on matters relating to espionage."

"To simplify the communist threat by indicating that it is primarily an internal threat is not rendering, in my judgment, a service to the country and to the cause we must all be engaged in to face this total threat."

When asked his opinion of the Spokane Freedom Fighters Inc. Senator Jackson said, "I don't know anything about the Spokane Freedom Fighters, I don't like the name. I think that is another simple solution, I mean it is a cliché, another slogan."

"Being anticommunist is not enough . . . period. It is important to be anticommunist but you have to also be willing to do a better job in all areas of endeavor in this country. The communist threat is not so simple that we can solve it by going around and getting everybody to sign up their anticommunist card and then quit. This will not solve the problem at all. This is what Mr. Krushchev would like."

Senator Jackson also commented on the role of the college student in the fight against communism.

"The first thing you can do is rediscover the meaning and importance of excellence. The pursuit of excellence in each and every discipline involved is the key thing. Unless we rediscover the meaning and importance of excellence I don't think we can adequately meet the Soviet Threat."

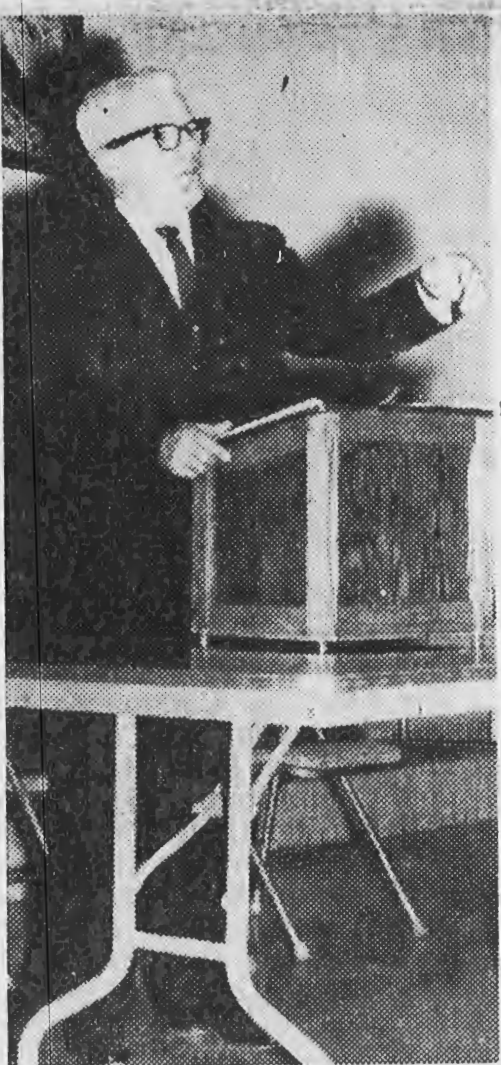

Senator Jackson then went on to comment on the present large scale construction of fallout shelters.

"The worst thing that can happen to this country is for us in this current hour of peril, and there will be many hours, long periods ahead, would be to take on a fallout shelter of fear. The worst thing from the standpoint of our image abroad would be for the peoples of the world to see America all busily engaged in what? . . . out in the backyard diggin' holes, some place to hide from the Russians."

"If I can say it, I think we ought to show that fortitude the British did in the battle of Britain. Where they stood without fear, courageously against an enemy. Even Hitler, in his records that were later found, said he had to admire the fortitude of the British."

Public buildings used for a dual purpose basis is a sound program for the American people to follow, Jackson said.

"The Russian threat is a total threat, we have our work cut out for us."

Kabat Has Praise For ROTC Program

George J. Kabat, Dean of Instruction, spoke on "The Value of ROTC on a College Campus" last Monday night in the Bali lounge at the meeting of the Evergreen company, Association of the United States Army.

In his speech Dean Kabat pointed out the changing public attitude toward the Army. From 1919 to 1940 the general attitude was typified by a student who sat on the banks of a river that ran by his college and shot the ROTC officers with his sling-shot as they marched past him on the opposite side.

But times have changed, military leaders have gained higher educations, and the officers of the ROTC program have come to be honored by the large percentage of the population.

Dean Kabat also pointed out that the higher education of our armed forces has given the U. S. Army a unique position in the world. We were the first country to be concerned with the problem of the civilian population of war-torn countries, and our education and moral standards have shaped our humanitarian policies in extending justice to the conquered.

In his concluding remarks, Dean Kabat said that Eastern has one of the best ROTC programs he has ever observed. The high calibre of our military staff has fostered excellent military-academic relations that are seldom observed on campus.

Program Set By Comedienne

Jacqueline Mackenzie, a young British comedienne, will be presented in Showalter auditorium tomorrow at 10:40. Miss Mackenzie's program is entitled, "Headline Hilarity."

Miss Mackenzie was born in London but spent her childhood in India.

Trained as a journalist, Miss Mackenzie felt herself drawn to the stage. She joined a repertory company then moved to London where she worked in films and on the stage. During this period she appeared at both the Edinburgh and Berlin Festivals in George Bernard Shaw's play, "Fanny's First Play," speaking for the first time anywhere

Shaw's original prologue to the play.

As a result of many successful guest appearances on leading BBC radio and television programs, Miss Mackenzie inaugurated her own television series, "Highlight." For this weekly program, she covered the Paris dress showings, Roay Ascot Races, the London debutante season, and many other social events. Her unique comic style of reporting won her an estimated audience of 12 million viewers throughout Britain.

In this country, Miss Mackenzie has appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show, "Tonight" and "Nightbeat." She intends to enter politics in Britain as a Liberal Candidate for Parliament. Her husband is Peter Forster, well-known British author and broadcaster.

From The Editor

By Bob Stevens

After a brief excursion to the sunny southland, I once again find myself plagued with the weekly ritual of editorial writing. Since we have been plugging student apathy and fowl conduct for the past few issues, I have a sneaking suspicion that maybe it's time to turn once again to the brighter side of campus life.

For those of you who are interested in convention hopping, Miami Beach is a delightful place for such pursuits. Whether or not you are scheduled for one is of little consequence since there always seems to be one in progress once you get there.

Numerous people have asked me whether or not I had fun in Florida. Considering the location of the conference as well as the weather, this seems like a highly ridiculous question. . . . When 500 students get together in one of the biggest, most luxurious resort hotels in the nation, fun in the most extravagant sense of the word is almost inevitable.

While I was in Miami, I picked up a little inside information. For those of you who got the impression from the papers that the Easter gathering at Fort Lauderdale was a flop, RECONSIDER. The spring spree at Lauderdale should be for many years to come, one of the swiftest spots in the country. I am told that the Atlantic Ocean around "Laudy" gets so polluted with "Ivy Ale" that all the fish turn belly up. Sounds like Alky Tech could make a pretty fair showing down there.

All you unbelievers in the authenticity of television, take notice . . . Surfside 6 is for real. It was tied up in the canal right across the street from my hotel.

The only thing that I find unfavorable about our campus this week is the weather. Miami is 85 during the day and 65 at night. Quite a change from Icy Eastern.

If Eastern had not scored against UPS last week, we would have been the only team in the nation to go scoreless for the season. I hear that SPORTS ILLUSTRATED was ready to give us a two page feature article if we had made the grade. How about that for publicity? Oh, well, better luck next year.

'Letters -- We Get Letters'

By Don Dressel

It has taken at least two years, but finally I have received rebuttal concerning articles I have written for the Easterner. I cannot say that I am displeased. It is about time that some constructive criticism has challenged my sometimes controversial editorials and features. I am amazed that there has been any response at all.

You have all seen the plight of our school paper in the last few years. The main problem? No comment—at least no written comment to the paper itself. Many students pick up the school dope sheet, glance at it, and forget it. Some of the journalism may be irritating to the readers, but we, up here in our cave, never hear the echoes. We acknowledge the fact that sometimes we "bug" people, but what we are actually striving for is your interest.

The column, "Sounding Board," is the ideal place for the skeptics, rabble rousers, good guys, bad guys, egg-heads, or anyone else, to let off steam. It is encouraging to see letters to the editor, some bad, some good, come pouring in. We are a humble group and we need help. We could write the yellowest scandal sheet ever viewed on a college campus, and it might go unnoticed. It could be pro-fascist or pro-communist and some students wouldn't bat an eye.

This is your platform, your sounding board, and your soap box. Anyone, regardless of race, color or creed, can express himself in our pages. This is the chance for the "Casper Milque-toast" to get it off his chest. We, up here, are all used to abuse. We certainly don't mind slams and digs or we wouldn't be up here.

This last week has almost sent me to my fallout shelter, but I am ready, as are my accomplices, to weather the storm, and continue printing our generalizations and known facts.

So—how about it, students? Let's get the letters in and make the "Sounding Board" like the Sunday funnies. Let's make it the first page to turn to and read the expressions of your fellow students and teachers.

I really hate to coin a phrase but—"Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it!"

Anti-Communism in the U. S. A.

By Robin J. Greeves

There are many stages of welfarism, socialism, and collectivism in general, but communism is the ultimate state of them all, and they all lead inevitably in that direction." Ref., p. 141 of the John Birch Societies, BLUE BOOK.

"Anti-communist, pro-American" organizations are being formed in communities across the United States.

The activities of the Anti-communist include the establishing of study-groups, "schools," libraries, and letter-writing programs. They are producing television shows, radio programs, film-strips, tape-recordings, books, magazines, brochures, etc., and similar devices which they may use to teach their members about communism, and how to fight it. Although the various Anti-communist organizations claim to be un-related, a careful examination reveals a surprising similarity between their programs and philosophies.

To understand communism and the Communist Party is today extremely essential, and one would think that the Anti-communist programs would be highly commended by all Americans. However, their activities and opinions have received considerable criticism from people in all walks of life. Therefore, it would be to our advantage to closely examine their program and the resulting effects.

Recently, the northwest Crown Television stations (including KREM-TV) produced a special program called, THE THREAT. Among other notable Americans who spoke on this program was Attorney General Robert Kennedy. Attorney General Kennedy pointed out that the appeal to communism, here in the United States, is at a low point and that the members of the Communist Party are being watched by the proper authorities. He further pointed out that today, the internal threat to the United States is not serious (though we must still be on guard against espionage), and that the threat of communism lies primarily in the undeveloped countries.

On the other hand, we have had other television specials, such as the recent three hour program, HOLLYWOOD'S ANSWER TO COMMUNISM. On this program, important Americans and "authorities" on Communism informed us that the internal, as well as the external communist threat, continues to grow!

Spokesmen for this Anti-communist movement believe that the individual is losing his Constitutional liberties and identity through increased governmental organizations and centralization. They believe that increased governmental responsibility towards social problems, medical and educational programs, increased economical control, and federal spending in various areas, etc., is leading America to socialism—or the last synthesis before Karl Marx's predicted society—COMMUNISM!

These opinions have been responsible for recent demands to impeach various members of the Supreme Court, and for a Congressional investigation into the State Department. These opinions have led to the opinion that various members of the teaching profession are showing sympathy for communism, hence they are duping their students into an unawareness of the "true nature of the communist conspiracy."

These opinions have led to current demands to re-write the United Nations charter to suit American needs, or to withdraw our membership. There are current demands to abolish the 16th Amendment to our Federal Constitution, and to prevent our federal government from engaging in any business, that might be considered in competition with private enterprise. There are even suggestions to boycott any business that does not support the Anti-communist viewpoint!

On the extreme edges of this Anti-communist movement, we find private American citizens engaging in armed guerilla-warfare training, and name calling such as "pink," "communist dupe," "communist sympathizer," and "communist conspirator!"

At a time when unity is essential, these opinions and consequent actions are extremely serious, even more so when a rapidly growing segment of our population accepts them. As future leaders in our community, we students have a responsibility to be aware of this Anti-communist movement, and to form opinions as to their necessity and effectiveness.

It is the opinion of this writer that the activities and the philosophies of the leaders of the Anti-communist movement, are doing more harm than good! They are using historically inaccurate materials and innuendo to scare loyal Americans into thinking that our "welfarism" is a part of the communist conspiracy. They are overlooking the good that our government has accomplished for all of us, and are extracting and exemplifying only the bad.

They are concentrating their efforts, not on the Communist dictators, not on promoting the dignity of mankind in the undeveloped areas, not on support of our foreign policy, but on the destruction of our very way of life! They are generating distrust, unintentionally I am sure, by creating disunity which can lead to exploitation by the Communists.

I would like to suggest to the Anti-communist, and to the students who seriously wants to understand communism and desires a program to fight the Communist, that they:

1. Encourage our State Board of Education to establish a comprehensive program on communism and the Communist Party. That these programs be offered free of charge to all citizens, and that they be taught by competent, professional educators, utilizing recognized and authentic materials.
2. That you join one of our political parties and give it your complete support. Remember that we live in a representative democracy (Republic) and our representatives are chosen primarily through the political party machinery. Our government will be only as effective as the men whom WE place in office.
3. That you respect the decisions of the majority and the opinions of the minority.
4. That we, as Americans who put our "Trust In God," stand firm against dictators and fanatics and maintain our endeavor to bring equality and freedom to all mankind!

Meet Your AS Officers

In the second cubicle to the left along the wall as a student walks into the AS offices in the SUB is the office of the Executive Vice President. This year this office is held by Jerry Stanley, a senior, majoring in psychology.

Born and raised in Spokane, Mr. Stanley feels that "Among the many aims of contemporary education is the development of the student's capacity for rational and creative thinking, an understanding of the methods and principles of participation in the Democratic process, and the creation of an active awareness of and participation in the society of which we are all members."

Concerning student government he also stated, "Student government can play a vital role in the total educational process. For by making the student conscious of his environment, student government complements the learning process by creating within the student the desire to form opinions and the desire to take subsequent actions. The purpose of student government is to encourage, and to provide for this creative thought process. Student government derives its right to exist from the student's fundamental right to express his opinions and commitments."

In this series of articles we have been introducing the people to a larger degree than the office they hold. Jerry Stanley pointed out that perhaps this is in error.

The office of the Executive Vice President is to supervise the administrative area of the AS government and the following standing committees: The Elections Committee, The Communications Committee, The National Students Association Committee, and The Tri-College Relations Committee. He is also to preside over joint committees and such special committees as might be delegated to him by the AS council that are within his area of jurisdiction. He must assume the duties of the President during his absence, act as chairman of the Campus Council, voting, member of the Tri-College Relations Committee. All this is set down in the EWSC AS constitutional by laws.

Right now, Jerry, as president of the Campus Council which is associated with the Judicial Board is working with the many living groups on campus to reorganize, amend, and ratify their constitutions. Recently he was partly responsible for promoting the scholastic awards for outstanding students.

In the close of Jerry's introductory speech to the freshmen during Orientation week, he emphasized one point, "Nothing that is offered you (a student) here—not even classes—will do you any good unless you take an active interest in it."

Sounding Board

To the editor:

All Hail Don Dressel! It's about time somebody had the backbone to stick up for minority groups being persecuted by the campus gestapo. Too often school publications are pressured to voice no opinion other than that expressed by student leaders and faculty. It is a privilege and a pleasure to be a part of a student body whose right to express themselves is not suppressed.

Bill Taylor

To the Editor:

I was very disturbed when I read "Who's Big Charlie?" by Don Dressel in the Easterner, November 8, 1961. I refer primarily to his statement which read, "Certainly nowhere on campus has there been a more active, public spirited group than the Vets Club. And I challenge you to produce a club with more school spirit on the Eastern campus." I know that such a club exists. Although it is not an ancient and well established organization such as the Vets Club, it has, in its brief life done as much or more towards the favorable publicity and recognition of Eastern Washington State College than the Vets Club or any other organization on campus. I refer to Kappa Kappa Psi, Band Fraternity of which I am a member.

In the last four months, Kappa Kappa Psi has made trips as far east as Wichita, Kan., on good-will missions. Delegates from our chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi traveled at individual expense to Wichita to the National Kappa Kappa Psi Convention. The purpose of this trip was for EWSC Kappa Kappa Psi to be initiated into National K. K. Psi. While there, they participated in activities with students from virtually every other recognized college and university in the United States. Anyone who doubts the value of this publicity may drop over to the Music Building in about a week and see the current issue of the National Kappa Kappa Psi magazine. In this magazine, which reaches all U. S. campuses, will appear pictures of our campus, articles about the history of the college, etc.

At the ball games, who cheers the team on more than Kappa Kappa Psi and the Band? Speaking of school spirit, what percentage of the Vets Club has attended every home football game? Kappa Kappa Psi has 100 per cent.

Kappa Kappa Psi (and incidently, Tau Beta Sigma, our sister organization) was circulating on this campus one week before school legally began, encouraging more people to participate in Band functions in order for the band to make a better showing at the ball games and at out-of-town functions.

On November 7, Eastern was host to over 700 high school bandmen who will soon be considering which school to attend. Kappa Kappa Psi was there, as ever, recruiting people for Eastern.

These are but a few of the projects Kappa Kappa Psi has undertaken since its conception on August 25, 1961.

I would like to invite other organizations to express their worth and significance (if they are not already doing so as I compose this letter). I know that there are other clubs on campus such as the I. K.'s and Phi Mu Alpha who will not let the Vet Club's challenge go unanswered.

Sincerely yours,
Ed Barnhart

Dear Bob:

According to the campus "religious leader" in a printed interview in last week's Easterner, communism "cannot be considered as a live option" and cannot be considered "a serious threat to the Internal Security of the United States."

Such muddled thinking about communism portrays a pretense of peace when there is no peace, and plays right into their hands. People who KNOW what they are talking about (J. Edgar Hoover, to name only one) are urging Americans to wake up to the real danger and threat that faces the security of our nation.

This Protestant leader would have us sit back in our easy chairs, put on rose-colored glasses and ignore the reality of world conditions. Even Tarz Williams, whose theological bias is apparently akin, does not agree that communism is no live option.

Sincerely,
A. Bettini

Dear Plumb,

After reading your article in the November 8, issue, I am just sitting here wondering if you are as stupid as you sound. In your article you compare a football team with a debate team. In my opinion this is not a fair comparison, but if you have a few debaters that want to play on our so-called team, I know they could make the first string, or at least in your opinion they would. Also by the size of your mouth you should be able to really help us blow the ball across, so why don't you turn out? Usually the men that write articles like this are either men that couldn't make the team or ones that don't know anything they are talking about.

There are a few things you should have considered before writing your article. In your debate team do you have to consider the weight of your men, experience of the men, and also does the debate team need 11 men on a team or 28 men for a traveling squad?

Also has it ever entered your mind before you put your mouth or typewriter to work, that you haven't helped the morale of the men on the football squad? Maybe you are along with the rest of the drunks that get drunk to see a game. If you would come to a football game and look at the team instead of the scoreboard you would see some good playing. In your opinion it is OK to go to a game drunk if you are losing and I think you are a little wrong. You should not try to make corrections for your mistakes because the team is losing. I do not see how you can back up the last statement unless you are just blowing off because you are weak to stick with a losing team.

I believe there is plenty of room at Central or Whitworth for big mouths like you and why don't you go to one of these, they are winning. They may also need a water boy.

I believe you owe an apology to the football team and coaches. Also I think you should use your brain for something useful beside running down the football team. If you would like to play ball and help Eastern win, bring your buddies and I know 28 men that can shape you, (boy) up for the coming game.

Yours truly,
John M. Vicks

Dear Mr. Plumb:

I would like to write you a few lines to tell you what I think of your editorial on our football team. As is indicated in your editorial, you know little about the hard working efforts of the team members and the coaches involved. Even though we may not have won any of the games so far this year, you fail to consider the hours of practicing spent each day, the bruises, broken bones and the long trips away from home, to say nothing of the monetary assistance that the players receive ($500.00). Just remember the players and coaches want to win as much and probably a lot more than you non-supporting students do.

To say the least, you certainly don't have much school spirit. Winning or losing, the students should stand behind their team. Did you ever stop to think that the small crowds might have something to do with the teams losing or winning? I would also like to add that I have attended all the home games and one away and that I have been sober at each of them.

If you know so much about football, why don't you use some of that hot air and your 96 pounds to get that football over the goal line.

P. S. Crumbs to you, you bum.

To last week's acting editor:

Mr. Plumb if anyone on this campus should feel ashamed of anything I most firmly believe it should be you. Your editorial in last week's Easterner not only shames you but many more people who you have no right to shame.

Everyone knows that when a team has a losing season the coach takes a great deal of criticism but I fail to see any basis for criticism of our team members. Have you seen our team "quit" during a game this season? Have you seen them "give up" regardless of the score? I have seen every home game this year and I have seen our team put out (continued on page 4)

100 % for 60 minutes in every one of those games, even in their 53-0 loss, and I am proud of them for this fact.

If our school was to compete with schools who have equal athletic subsidies we would have a winning team. (Incidentally, if we were to compete with such schools we couldn't compete with the Junior Colleges of the state.) How can you possibly expect our school to beat schools who can afford to give their 3rd string more than we can afford to give our whole team? How can you expect to have a winning team when we compete with schools who have four full time assistants for football alone? How can you expect to have a winning team when schools we are playing can go to a high school or junior college and tell the players, "We will give you twice as much as Eastern can possibly offer you." And if you don't think that these are the conditions then I suggest that you guide a little of your effort into finding out the facts behind athletic rides in this conference as compared to what Eastern's athletes are receiving. This is only the second year that I have been at this institution that a football player has received a grant-in-aid as such, and this is possible only through work on the part of the Athletic Council with appreciated help from the ASB, and support of some business concerns. At any rate I can say for a fact that no football player is even approaching your financial aid, Mr. Acting Editor.

You say that the students of this campus don't want a miracle. Well they are expecting nothing less when they expect our school to win games under the above conditions.

Beyond the facts of the situation, which is evidently beyond a considerable number of people of this campus, I for one know that the guys who play football for Eastern this year have worked hard against terrific odds and my only wish is that the people on and related to this campus realize this and respect them for it.

To the Editor:

One of the bright boys from The Easterner staff made the remark that he thought the cartoon in last week's paper was "cute." I can find nothing "cute" in that despicable cartoon making Ed Chissus and the football team look like something out of the "Twilight Zone."

Such Loyalty! With people like that the college doesn't need enemies, they have all they can handle right here on the home front.

Granted everyone feels bad about the scores rolled up against Eastern this season. But just what do you expect Chissus to do on his shoe-string budget.

The man spends months recruiting good ball players only to find them playing against him in the fall.

Why do they end up at competitive schools? What athlete is so wealthy or charitable that he will kiss goodbye to an offer of free tuition, board, room, books, spending money, etc. . . . Of course if he does decide to come to Eastern he will receive a good education if he can stand the pressure of classes, homework, football practice, a part-time job, (at Eastern this is considered a scholarship), and in his spare time he might be able to spend some time with his family, wife or girl.

Since you are so eager to climb on your almighty soap-box, why don't you at least act like adults and try to help your school instead of ridiculing and humiliating men who don't know the meaning of defeat? If they did they wouldn't even bother to show up.

To the Editor:

An old, familiar figure has arisen on the campus at Eastern Washington State College, he is "The Spiritless Student." For many years this individual has resided on the campus disguised as mild mannered college students. These individuals, when hard-pressed during the football season for reasons their team is not winning, are ready to blame the players and/or the coach in an effort to distract from the fact that their spirit is at a perpetual "low time" and they would not stand up and waive the banner for their team; win, lose or tie. Other schools have winning teams, sure, but other schools have a tremendous amount of school spirit to help buoy up the team when it is losing. Other teams have losing records, but this does not mean their spirit is lower than ever. No one likes to lose but school spirit is one thing at which no school should ever be defeated.

Argument goes that the other losing teams have been playing tougher schedules. Let's take a look at the record. Eastern lost the season opener to Humboldt State, last year's runnerup in the NAIA Holiday Bowl. The Holiday Bowl is the small college answer to the Rose Bowl. They lost to Whitworth twice. Whitworth was the runnerup in the Western Division Playoffs to attend the Holiday Bowl last year and this year essentially the same team is back. Central Washington was voted among the top teams in the NAIA National Ranking. The other losses this year have been fourth quarter losses and in many instances Eastern outplayed the opponents for two to three quarters. This, in part, should give us sufficient reason to be proud of our team. Other colleges having losing seasons are not calling for the coaching of the team to be considered or the efforts of the team to be downgraded. Instead they show appreciation, in school spirit, to the team for never letting down.

Many of the football players feel that the students spirit is letting them down. No appreciation is shown for the hours the team spends banging their heads together during practice.

I seriously doubt that school spirit at EWSC would improve with a winning team. In the past the EWSC basketball team has been one of the better teams in the league. The EWSC baseball team was second this year and yet no spirit was generated for these winning teams.

It remains a mystery why Eastern students can't show a little school spirit for the teams made up of people we go to class with, talk to and eat with; when a team such as the Spokane Comets Hockey team has one of the most enthusiastic crowds anywhere whether they win or lose and

The Name of Eastern Is At Stake

If you are attending a costume event, the jeans, collarless T-shirts and sweatshirts are all right, but please wear more presentable dress when you are attending ASB sanctioned events.

Another thing that your ASB President, Chris Christensen, would like to bring to your attention is that your student body activity card is not issued just to take up more room in your wallet.

Student body activities are for the college people. Present your student body activity card when you attend these events. Other people will be admitted only as your guests.

5 Blocks of New Sidewalks Completed

Forty-six thousand dollars were spent for construction of new sidewalks on campus this year.

In all, five blocks of resurfacing were completed.

Blacktop was used instead of cement because it is more economical. Mr. Surbeck, plant manager, told the Easterner. Also during the winter the blacktop doesn't hold snow and ice as long as cement.

You're A What!

By Bob Stevens

So you think you belong to a class, Huh?

As far as the Associated Students are concerned, unless you are a Senior, you don't. That means that all so called freshmen, sophomores and juniors are really not members of anything.

You have just elected officers. For what? Since your organization is not legally recognized, there is little sense in your electing anything. Technically speaking, you are not allowed to hold meetings, dances or any other form of activity on college property. What about that?

Well fortunately it's not as bad as it sounds. The problem lies in the fact that these three groups have failed to draw up constitutions. These constitutions must be submitted and approved by the Associated Student Council before you are a recognized group on campus.

If you expect to accomplish anything as a class, it is advisable that you prod your officers into doing a little legislation. Considering the usual attendance at class meetings, this might be quite an accomplishment. Until this legislation is out of the way, Eastern is the only college in the nation with a solid Senior student body.

Smiths To Give Concert

The public is invited.

Is Money The Solution To Football Sorrows?

By Chuck Plumb

We have a losing team. Why? What is needed to make a winning team? What has happened to the "good" players?

What we need are student athletes who are football players, according to Ed Chissus, football coach.

It is easy to send a letter to a high school star athlete and ask him to attend Eastern as a football player. It is a little harder to convince him of the advantages of attending this school, Chissus stressed.

What enticements can Eastern offer to an athlete?

The answer to this is almost nothing.

A football player at Eastern is under a great strain to maintain good grades, become a good football player and pay for his education, Chissus said. To qualify for eligibility in the Evergreen Conference, a player must average at least 12 credits per quarter and maintain a two point grade average. This, as many freshmen found out and upperclassmen know, is very difficult when he must work to stay in school.

With a schedule of classes in the morning, football practice in the afternoon and working at night, it is easy to see why our team has lost several of their best players due to academics. If there isn't a nucleus of experienced upperclassmen on a team, Chissus said, it can't hope to win.

So, how can we get good players to come to Eastern and how can we retain those we have?

The answer to this is inducements, according to Chissus.

When inducements are mentioned, right away the idea of paying athletes is thought of. But this is not the type of inducements that Chissus, or any of his staff, wants.

One thing needed is Athletic scholarships. At this time there are no Athletic scholarships available to students entering this school for athletics. There are some available from private contributors but the school has none.

More grants, loans and "help" should be given the players whenever possible. The Associated Students gave the athletic department $3000 for helping athletes, according to Dave Lewis, AS treasurer. Football players received $1400 of this. Fourteen men received $100 apiece for the whole year. According to one football player, this hardly paid their fees for fall quarter.

When a player can't get enough money from grants, etc., he must work. There are not enough jobs available to football players—and players only. This means jobs that can be accomplished for enough money to pay for fees, room and board and still leave enough time for study and football practice.

Larger schools have bigger and wealthier alumni associations which usually give a great deal of financial support to the team. At Eastern, however, most of the alumni are in the teaching profession, and obviously do not have the financial resources needed to give their college football team much in the way of donations.

According to Leland Graese, college accountant, it is illegal to take money from student fees for athletic scholarships.

Attitude toward football and the football team is an important item to consider. Before there is a good team, students and faculty must give their support.

The faculty's attitude can be summed up in words of Dean Kabat, Dean of Instruction: "I am ready to back up anything the football department wants to do as long as it is legal and moral."

The powerful Central Washington Wildcats behind the powerful running Jack Kapp bowled over Eastern's winless Savages last Saturday afternoon at the Dad's Day football game 26-6. The win brought the Evergreen Conference championship to the Wildcats and handed the Savages their eighth consecutive loss.

Eastern scored their second touchdown of the season as Ed Thill, a terror all afternoon, caused Central quarterback Terry Hart to fumble, and big tackle Harley Allen scooped it up on the midfield stripe and raced 50 yards for the score.

In the first quarter, the game started out like another nightmare for the Savages as Keith Paine of the Wildcats intercepted a pass on the fourth play of the game and scampered to the Eastern 20. Three plays later big Jack Kapp crashed over from the two, to give Central the lead after only four minutes of play.

Central came back strong later in the period as Ron Redden capped a 45 yard drive with a fine 31 yard scamper around the Savage left end for the score. Harvey Rath added the extra point on an off-tackle slant.

Kapp, who nearly broke the all-time Woodward field rushing record, scored the third Central touchdown of the half on a 34 yard prance through the middle of the Savage line. The series originated on the Central 36, and seven plays later Kapp applied the clincher.

The second half saw the Savages come charging back as they held the Wildcats to a single score, and added one for themselves.

The Wildcats, led by Kapp, took the opening kickoff of the second half and marched 71 yards in 14 plays to register their fourth touchdown of the game. Kapp picked up 24 of the total for Central. Little Bill Ishida rammed over from the two for the Wildcat's 26th point. The extra point attempt by Rath was stopped by Keith Vradenberg and Allen.

Neither team was about to get a drive going for the remainder of the game, but early in the fourth quarter Thill smeared Central quarterback Hart, and Allen, striding like a halfback was off to the races. On the extra point try, penalties against the Savages nullified the extra point conversion, and the third try from the 19 was wide.

Outstanding for the Savages was newcomer Thill and Mike Macaulay. Thill, personally responsible for the Savage score, also added four other unassisted tackles, and made it almost impossible for the Wildcats to skirt his right end position. Macaulay facing a strong headwind most of the afternoon, finally got the wind to his back and boomed out a 73 yard punt, one of the longest in Evergreen Conference history. The punt rolled dead on the Wildcat one yard line.

The Savages complete their season next Saturday afternoon in a non-conference tilt against the College of Idaho at Cheney's Woodward field. The game is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p. m.

Campus Council Hears Vets Case

Due to the fact that Student Council is a legislative body and not a judicial body, the recent action taken against Vets club has been rescinded.

A great deal of concern arose over the Homecoming incident which involved several members of the Vets Club.

Since the action taken by Council was for disciplinary purposes, it was considered invalid. The issue was then appealed to Campus Council, one of the Judicial bodies on campus.

The Campus Council hearing, of the case brought out the fact that not all of the members were involved in the incident and therefore should not be punished as a club.

As a result of the Campus Council decision, the Vets Club was placed on probation for the remainder of the year. At the end of the year, the Vets Club will meet with the Council to decide the merits of the organization. At that time it will be decided whether or not the club shall be allowed to function.

Turkey Shoot

The AUSA is sponsoring a turkey shoot which will be held November 20 and 21 from 12 noon to 5 p. m. The turkey shoot will be held at the rifle range in Cadet Hall.

There will be two separate events. A skill shoot consisting of 10 shots from the prone position at a standard 50 foot .22 caliber target, and a luck shoot consisting of 5 shots from the standing position at a luck target.

Winners will receive 10 to 12 pound turkeys as prizes. Winner's names will be posted in the student union and cadet hall.

Rifles and ammunition are furnished by the ROTC department. There will be a charge of 50c per round.

Rho Iota Chapter Meet With Initiates

Thursday, Nov. 9 the Rho Iota cast of Alpha Psi Omega, the national drama fraternity, held its first meeting for new initiates.

The initiates are required to work on the present production of "Fashion" and also on the Foreign Student Program to be given Friday Nov. 17.

At the beginning of the winter quarter the initiates' applications for admission will be considered. If the initiates are chosen they will then take part in the formal initiation set up by the national honorary.

The requirement for Alpha Psi Omega are a 2.25 GPA. Anyone interested in drama, or the various fields of drama, is urged to attend the next meeting at 5:30 p. m., Nov. 16 in Showalter Auditorium.

Banquet Planned

The Evergreen Company, AUSA, has scheduled on Thursday, Dec. 7, at 6 p. m., the annual banquet for the Fairchild Air Force Base Officers Club. Maj. General Frederick R. Zierath, USA commander of Army Corps and Fort Lawton, will be the guest speaker.

The annual banquet is open to the public with a limited number of tickets for sale. For tickets, or additional information, contact Cadet Hall, Eastern Washington State College.

Officers Selected

Maj. Leland Kirk and an officer selection team will be in the student union all day Friday, Nov. 17, 1961 to interview college seniors for possible commissions in the U. S. Air Force. "There is a definite need for both men and women in many fields," said Maj. Kirk. The Officer Training School Program is designed to utilize men and women in the career field for which they have trained in college.

THE OPTIMIST

By Walt Hartman

With only one game remaining in the season, the EWSC football team is still looking for its first win. The Savages put up a gallant battle last weekend, but Central Washington just had too many horses as they tromped Eastern 26-6. Eastern was outweighed 21 pounds per man.

Ed Thill, defensive right end performed outstandingly for the Savages as the senior end from Colville set up the only Eastern touchdown of the game, and their second one of the season. Harley Allen, who hasn't lost a thing with age, recovered the fumble caused by Thill on a blind side tackle, and raced 50 yards for the Eastern touchdown. The fleet-footed lineman seemed to be gaining in distance over the Central defenders as he crossed the goal line.

Little freshman Elmore Brooks, who seems to be headed for a great career at the helm of the Savage quarterbacking job was the spark plug for the Savages once again. Although he has only played on four games, Brooks finished fourth in league standings on offensive completion percentage for passing.

Mike Macaulay, who has been averaging over 37 yards per punt all season, toed a wind-aided ball 73 yards last Saturday to give him one of the longest punts in the nation this year. The ball rolled dead on the Central one yard line.

Next week's game against the College of Idaho, finishes the collegiate football careers of 13 Savage stalwarts. The seniors are Harley Allen, John Bass, Dave Everitt, Al Johnson, Ted Kuykendall, Jerry Dotson, Ed Laulainen, Paul Lerch, George Line, Bill Newborne, Robert Stanley, Ed Thill and George Stephens. Only Paul Lerch competed four years at Eastern. Harley Allen is picking up his third letter and the rest of the members with the exception of Thill are junior college transfers.

The fall sports banquet honoring the football team, will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 28, at the Student Union, and it is scheduled to start at 6:30 p. m. The public is invited.

The EWSC basketball team is in high gear priming for its first game on December 1. The squad has been cut to 15, and should remain at that number until midway through the season. Newcomers to the squad include freshmen Vince Jarvis, Dick Skermer and Uldis Abolins, and Columbia Basin Junior College transfers Larry Gunn and Dallas Barnes. Seven seniors return for the coming season.

The Savages start conference play January 5, against Pacific Lutheran, and they play neighboring west-side teams only twice this year instead of the usual four game series.

The EWSC swimming team appears to be headed for its best season in history, and should be a pre-conference favorite. Returning lettermen include Jim Strom, Lanny Willman, Jerry Newell, Dave Burger, Jack England, Jim Mohatt and Clair McKie. Non-letter swimmers returning are Roy Yamashita, Bob Crowley and Jim Bader. Newcomers include Bill Walling, Dick Griffith and Tim Sterling. Most of the swimmers will be competing in the Inland Empire AAU swimming meet to be held at Fairchild AFB, December 9-10.

Ramblings...

by Paddock

Sunday, November 11

As far as I am concerned, it is too cold today to write a column. My brain cells seem to be frozen over. Actually this is not a new sensation, it happens every time I take an exam. (So true my professors exclaim.)

There are two types of students going to school, the men and the women. (My Dad and I had a little talk the other day.) The men are after their BA degree and the women, their MRS.

In understand the Spokane Freedom Fighters Inc. is investigating me. They found out I went to a little red school house.

It is the trend today for many authors to take a subject that is of concern to all and hurry to their typewriters to knock off a fourth rate piece of literature. The book of this nature is not meant to inform or even be accurate, it is written to sell. Such is not the case with Warren Miller, author of 90 Miles From Home (Crest Book, 256 pages, 50c).

True, the subject is a national problem, but Mr. Miller treats it in a highly respectable way, indeed. The subject: CUBA.

Miller went to Cuba and recorded what he found there. What he saw was not the picture of Cuba we have many times shown in the past.

The Cuba that Mr. Miller wrote about is a land of growth. In their educational system, they have been building many schools and supplying them with new teachers. The only thing they are missing is new text books. This problem has been solved by publishing lessons, in supplementary form, in the weekly magazine, Bohemia. These short instructive notices are called "Lessons for All."

"In Lessons for All" of December 18 the mathematics lesson shows a photograph of the Pentagon building. The caption under it reads:

"The pentagon as a geometric form coincides with another Pentagon, abominable symbol of the imperialism of 'brutal and perfidious north.' The building of the chiefs of staff which bring together the forces of the air, sea and land of the United States, this 'Pentagon,' cannot conquer a people who meet this symbol head on . . ."

Carols Puebla is a guitarist and a song writer. "He is idolized by most Cubans" Miller points out.

The author heard one of Puebla's songs. The title: "Yankee, Go Home."

"Of English I know very little
For I have always spoken Spanish,
But I understand the people when they say:
Yankee, Go Home!
The English I have is very scarce,
It's an English of mister and hallo
But I understand the people when they demand:
Yankee, go Home! . . ."

And so the song goes, anti American, anti our way of life. Mr. Miller is quick to point out that the Cuban people are like us in many respects. Probably one of the features that resembles us the closest is their humor.

"These counter-revolutionary jokes were current in Havana, December 1960. They were told by revolutionaries.

"Boy: Father, how far is it to Key West?
Father: Shut up and keep swimming.
'Do you know why Fidel cannot pass his driver's test?'
'No, why cannot Fidel pass his driver's test?'
'Because he drives only on the left, goes through red lights, and doesn't know how to put the car in reverse.'"

Warren Miller has written a very humorous, informative, up to date book on the Cuba of today. Possibly one reason this book is refreshing is that Miller appears to have no axe to grind. 90 Miles From Home can be found in the bookstore; it should be found in your library.

After reading the last issues of The Easterner, I am going to cut my drink in half—I am going to give up chasers.
