MUSICAL SITE—Pictured above is Eastern’s music building (the proposed ASB constitution). This will undoubtedly result in a general election for ratification by 40 per cent of the student representatives-at-large to 11 general election for ratification by 40 per cent of the student representatives-at-large to fill new positions on campus such as Associate Justices of the Judicial Board as well as Associate Editors. This should do much to alleviate complaints by various groups ranging from disbelief to utter disgust. I thought that after last week’s “Big Sing” showed a majority of adverse criticism, The Easterner would rise up and do a little intelligent thinking about this thing they call the ASB constitution. What about wider distribution of The Easterner? There are many students at EWC who first know about it from the ASB constitution. It is just such an “Educator.” A week ago Friday, an equal voice was raised in the form of a letter to the editor of the student newspaper. The proposed constitution calls for the ASB to be allowed to, or better yet, be allowed to, hear a man with a 11 I refer to last week’s article in The Easterner? There is a majority is always right. )

Tom Ennis

Another change in the present constitution will be in terms of representation on the student council. Under the proposed constitution there will be one representative for each living group; the ASB officers, as well as four representatives-at-large to be elected along with the ASB officers in a general election. This should do much to alleviate complaints by various groups that they do not have sufficient representation on council. Under this system those groups that are interested enough to support candidates for positions on council will have them, and those who just complain and never do anything about their complaints will have the representation they deserve.

ASB President Writes

Tom Ennis

Tomorrow evening the ASC will vote on the final adoption of the proposed ASB constitution. This will undoubtedly result in a general election for ratification by 40 per cent of the student body. This will create some important new positions on campus for students to fill. Among them will be the Chief Justice of the Judicial Board as well as Associate Justices. The proposed constitution calls for the ASB to speak for these persons to be appointed “for the duration of their college careers” during “good behavior.” This body will have the power of review of disciplinary cases to some degree and will be the body that will interpret the new constitution.

Tom Ennis

A great responsibility will evolve on these persons.

Coed Reps Series

Dear Editor:

The recent issue of “Know Your Campus” in The Easterner has caused a considerable amount of attention—with references ranging from disbelief to utter disgust. I thought that after last week’s “Big Sing” showed a majority of adverse criticism, The Easterner would rise up and do a little intelligent thinking about this thing they call the ASB constitution. This will undoubtedly result in a general election for ratification by 40 per cent of the student representatives-at-large to fill new positions on campus such as Associate Justices of the Judicial Board as well as Associate Editors. Johnston will be more than happy to listen to them and if they are of any value or significance they will be put into effect.

Policy Is Defined

To the Editor:

In response to George S. Martin’s letter to the editor of a few weeks ago, I am writing this letter.

Before one can openly criticize and accuse a person of not being established, he must first be familiar with the facts about the said establishment or person.

To begin with, Schie classifies Gonzaga university’s private institution, with EWC within first knowing about this group. Granted, much of the crowd was made up of future teachers because of the lack of Idaho’s “educators.”

A week ago Friday, an equal voice was raised in the form of a letter to the editor of the student newspaper. The proposed constitution calls for the ASB to be allowed to, or better yet, be allowed to, hear a man with a certain background than the teaching profession.

It was found that our food service offered comparable food at their prices and I am sure that the service given to the patrons was, at the very least, better in most cases. The company was made with that in mind that it would fit on the campus.

For anyone who is interested, Miss Johnston has these dailies in her office and is willing to let students bascket them.

As far as criticizing the food served and the way it tastes, I have my own opinion. Of course some people won’t like them, and the Waldorf Agony.

This is not to say we are not improving. There are plans for improvement, Miss Johnston will be more than happy to listen to them and if they are of any value or significance they will be put into effect.

"4 Stags’" Defended

Dear Editor:

Since so few of us are really competent critics in anything, it pains me to see a person with an admitted lack of musical background pass such condemning judgment on the "Four Stags.”

I refer to last week’s article in “Letters To The Editor,” which by the way had no signature and I do not know who you are. I think we should let men’s magazines handle this kind of publicity in the union and possibly in the line.

What about wider distribution of The Easterner? There is a majority is always right.

(Signed) James E. Barrett

(Educators Knocked)

Recently, a prominent educator spoke at EWC. I am a PhD candidate. Granted, much of the crowd was made up of future teachers because of the lack of Idaho’s “educators.”

Monologuist Performs Tomorrow

A program of original character sketches will be presented at Eastern Thursday at 10 a.m. by Dorothy Crawford, monologuist, who has earned wide recognition as an outstanding exponent of the "one-woman theater."

Miss Crawford was originally scheduled to perform at Eastern on November 10, but cancelled her engagement because of airplane difficulties at San Francisco.

Many of Miss Crawford's characters are taken directly from life, such as "Bosa of San Francisco's Fishermen's Wharf," and her typical American family, the Carter Wilsons, based on her own large family of nieces and nephews.

New Sketches

New sketches this year include "House for Sale," a monodrama in which the owner, showing her house to a prospective buyer, flashes back to her pastries and party favors. "Hostess with the Mostest" for a "bridal shower" sponsor.

Geographers Attend 2-Day Meeting Here

Geography professors and students from four colleges met at Eastern last Friday and Saturday for a two-day conference.

Francis J. Schadegg, chairman of the EWCE geography department, said 60 persons attended, including staff members and students from Central Washington and Western Washington Colleges of Education, the University of Idaho as well as Eastern professors and students.

This is the eighth year of such intercollegiate geography staff-student conferences. Schadegg said, and this conference was the largest one ever held.

College staff members discussed the joint publication of a new atlas of Washington for junior high schools, a joint undergraduate field program for training geographers and exchanging information and ideas on various phases of geography education.

A field trip to Turnbull Wildlife refuge in Cheney was conducted by members of the EWCE Geography-Geology club for visiting students, Schadegg said, and a tour of geological formations in the Cheney-Spokane area was taken by both groups.

Netmen Split 2 On Road

Eastern netmen had to settle for an even split on their first road trip of the season, defeating the University of Idaho 6-1 on Friday and bowing to Washington State 6-1 in a rain-spoiled twin bill on Saturday.

Eastern seemed to have little trouble with the Vandals as only two of the nine singles kept them from a clean sweep.

Saturday’s match was a different story, however, as only one Savage player could muster a victory. That came in the number one singles when Mickey Soss defeated Dave Renguin 6-1, 6-2.

Both doubles matches were postponed because of rain.

Eastern will play three matches this week, all of them on the road. The Savages will play Central Thursday, Western Friday and Pacific Lutheran Saturday.

Relays Rained Out;
Whits Tomorrow

The Bill Martin relays, scheduled in Walla Walla last Saturday, were cancelled because of rain and a soggy track.

The EWC Savages and Whitman tied an informal pointless match, but no scores were kept.

Gary Fuller, EWC veteran hurdler, finished a good third in 22.7 in the 220-low hurdles and Sherm Stephan at the 220-yard dash in 27.4.

These times are not official because the meet was not considered official.

The Savages will meet Whitworth College of Spokane here at 1:30 tomorrow.

Zags Top EWC, 4-3

Eastern’s nine lost to Gonzaga, 4-3, in a Monday afternoon game at Eastern.

Rich Hilly, batting two-for-four for the day, drove in two of the Savages’ runs, to lead the home team’s batting. The Savages played errorless ball, while the Zags were charged with five miscasts.

Eastern split the Zags again on Friday in Spokane before going to Moscow for a doubleheader against the University of Idaho May 17 to close the baseball season.

Savages Rally Short

The Savages exploded for a six run rally but fell one short of tying the score.

Prime Smith and Frank Nelson each gets another shot at the Central game.

The second game was rained out.

Savages Split Two Games;
Beat ’Zags, Lose To CW

Eastern’s baseball team split two games in diamond action last week.

The Savages came from behind to squish Gonzaga University 7-4 Wednesday and lost a slugfest to Central Washington college, 10-9, Saturday.

Gonzaga got to starter Gary Roberts in the third inning when North Theatre bashed a three-run homer. Eastern got only one run in the bottom of the third and three more in the eighth to go ahead 4-3.

The Zags came back in the top of the ninth for three more big bop runners of pitcher Fred Neuman, in the last of the ninth, a walk, a double by Ezan Myers and an intentional pass to catcher Rich Hilly loaded the bases. Pitcher Trusha then served up a pitch to Lanny Willman who he socked for a triple and won the game for the Zags.

Saturday against Central, the EW squad got off to a poor start as Central hit starter Don Kolb in the first inning for three runs. The Wildcats had built up a 10-3 lead going into the ninth.

Army Exhibit Slated Here May 12-13

How the army is helping to solve the complex problem of providing an effective atom-age national defense will be displayed at an open house May 12-13.

Sponsored by the EWCE, representative of all military exhibits on the campus, including a junior high school, in Freeman, W. Va.

The exhibit emphasizes the caliber and character of personnel required to man the modern army.

Among weapons on display will be the army's new tank killer, the 84-10, a highly versatile, low-altitude, rocket-propelled, anti-tank missile; the army's new M-14 rifle and the new M-60 machine gun.

"The Mechanical Mule," the army's newest tactical vehicle, will also be shown. Primarily designed as a cargo carrier, the "Mule" has a rear-mounted air-conditioning unit and a four wheel drive and four wheel steering from three different positions.

Two of the electronic question and answer sections will present little known facts about the army.

Weapons predictions of the 1970's will be shown in one area of the exhibit, and a color motion picture will show strategic army corps forces in action during cold exercises.

Army information specialists will be on hand to answer questions.

Chorale Concert

Singers Praised

Under the direction of Dr. Wallace B. Fleming, Eastern's Collegiate Chorale presented its annual home concert last Wednesday evening in Shingwalt Auditorium.

A high degree of finish was clearly evident to the listener in both tone-quality and interpretation as the group sang the beautifully arranged "Counting Stars" from the famous "Mass in B Minor" by Bach, a group of Jewish numbers from Weender's "Shiro Chabashim" with Ron Jones, baritone, as cantor soloist, and the dramatically moving old Scottish ballad, "Edward," arranged by Lewis with Lillian Marks as soprano soloist and Fred Beut, bass.

For sheer rhythmic delight and unusualness, Toch's "Geographical Fugue," based on the use of a speaking chorus, gave an excellent example of four parts intermingling in the manner of the fugue and proved to be one of the audience's favorites.

The women's trio composed of Judy Tuch, first soprano; Bonnie Palmer, second soprano, and Sharon Dehml, alt, with Karen Fredericksen acting as accompanist, sang the selections from the popular Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Flower Drum Song" and concluded with an American folk song, "Do I Caught a Rabbit?"

Piano solos by Jane Morris, chorale accompanist, and David Go, a member of the Chorale, played with assurance and clarity "Song of the Hunter," "The Shepherds' Grelot," and "Introduction" from Schuman's "Carnival Suite." Ending on the famous "Chorus of Joy" from Ravel's ninth symphony, the Chorale concluded with a 20th-public appearance for the current season.

They will make two more appearances, one on May 17 in an all-British composers' concert and at commencement, June 5.
