Fairchild Visit is Planned Saturday

Phil Brownlee has made arrangements with Fairchild Air Force Base to allow all Eastern students to visit the summit of the base this Saturday, July 11. The tour will start at 9 a.m. and last all day. Arrangements are being made to feed all the Eastern students taking the tour.

All students interested in the tour should contact the Student Union immediately.

Geographers Will Attend Conference

Francis J. Schade and Charles S. Conolly, assistant professor of geography, will attend the Western Resources conference at the University of Colorado, Boulder, August 23-26.

The conference is sponsored by the University of Colorado, Colorado State University and the Colorado School of Mines.

The theme of the conference is water, and subjects to be covered include water resources and water policy, regional planning, some problems in the Pacific Northwest, regional projections of irrigated acreage and water requirements and problems of arid areas.

"After the conference I plan to go into western Nebraska," said Schade, "and around the Glen Canyon project. The project is similar to the Colorado River project. This is the last trip will be made for observation.

Also plan to go to the upper part of the Colorado River later in the summer," said Conolly. "We have been scheduled to visit geographers from Eastern with the bureau of reclamation."

A demonstration of the oral exam to be scheduled by the graduate study office.

Seven candidates will be invited by the graduate study office.

All students interested in the retailing class of Eastern should contact Dr. Stetson, director of retailing, for information.

World Waiting Election Correspondent Believes

"It is fortunate that we have come to an end of an administration and can look at what lies ahead," stated William H. Stronger in the first conclusion of the summer session held in the Island Hall lounge Thursday, June 20.

Stronger, the chief of the Christian Science Monitor, was asked to give a speech on Washington problems. Stronger said his speech was the result of having to work with the tool they needed to cause diplomacy in Washington. "As it was handled, it gave Russia the thing they didn't want in the first place."

After the President's Japan trip, Stronger said, 'The trip should never have been scheduled at the time of the signing of the American security pact. Just think how much easier it would have been for the President if the trip had been scheduled a month later when sentiment had settled down. It was only natural that the talk of detente and political will should turn to the coming conventions. Stronger picked Senator Kennedy to get the Democratic nomination, but not without a struggle. He predicted it would not come on the first ballot, but would be readily gained on the third or the fourth. Naturally he chose Vice President Nixon as the unanimous choice of the Republicans. Stronger made no election predictions.

Before an informal question and answer session, Stronger summed up his thoughts by saying, "America, in order to retain the leader in the free world, should keep up Western."

The topic of the session was "Democratic and Republican Party Policies in the United States." Stronger was introduced by Miss Allice Simondet in a reading workshop for teachers at the summer session held in the Seattle schools for 11 years. She has been in charge of teaching reading today is better than it has ever been. There isn't any one method of teaching reading that is sufficient for all children, she said, despite what critics have said.

The good teacher pays little attention to the names of methods and gives general directions where one child gets more praise than the other, health, weight, and physical factors, and an individual child's interest and normal curiosity.

Ken Hickey Elected Monroe Hall Head

Ken Hickey was elected Monroe hall president and Dave Cooper was elected house director. The nuns of the province had to decide which to do with the money collected in the community. Some suggestions of projects were made and a short discussion terminated the meeting.

Dr. Gene Kline, hall director, welcomed students and explained how plans in the first general meeting of the summer session held in the Seattle schools for 11 years. How About Health Protection for Aged?
By James H. Flynn
Just recently there appeared an editorial in the Spokane Review which condemned Gov. William F. Mathias of Michigan for suggesting that the elderly, with their preference for social security legislation along the lines of the Forand bill, should be excluded from the social security law. The editors of the article were then devoted to pointing out that Gov. Mathias has political ties with Walter Reuther, head of the American Federation of Labor, which is opposed to the whole concept of compulsory health care through the social security program, or any other federal agency. In view of this stand it might also be interesting to note that the editorial was written by the Republican Party and the AMA were opposed to most of the social legislation of the 1930's and in particular to the Social Security Act.

The fact is that medical care for these people will have to be provided in one form or another. Whether the people who will receive the help, just as social security is now, will have to meet requirements under the new guidelines and standards adopted by the board of education.

This means that students who have not worked the necessary time for one of these certificates by doing suitable line work have to meet requirements under the new guidelines and standards adopted by the board of education.

Students or teachers working to obtain a two-, three- or four-year certificate in agricultural education.

 Russians are not the pioneers, according to Dr. Spalding, a member of the faculty of the University of Illinois, who is working on the battle of the Little Big Horn for a new history. Dr. Spalding said that the battle was a turning point in the history of the United States.

Dr. Edgar Stewart Attends Institute

Dr. Edgar I. Stewart, EWCE professor of history, attended the Institute of American History held at Stanford University from June 23 to June 28. The subject of the conference was, "The Advanced Placement Program in History." The program is for advanced students in high school who are allowed to take certain courses and obtain college credit for the subject.

"There were people attending from all parts of the United States," Dr. Stewart said, "and many of these were from the Midwest, mainly from Illinois. They seem to be very interested in the program."

"I was the only one from the state of Washington as far as I could tell, at least from the college level."

"Nothing concrete was established," Dr. Stewart said. "There were mainly discussions on the subject."

"In San Francisco," Dr. Stewart said, "I saw William Kidd and Darrell Morse, who are working on their doctorates at the University of California at Berkeley. Both Kidd and Morse are on leave of absence from Eastern."
Korean Veterans
Given Instructions

Veterans attending the summer session this week were given suggestions regarding their pay forms by C. W. Quin- ley, Jr., registrar.

"If you are attending only the seven week session, Quin- ley said, "we recommend that you sign your pay form on Aug- ust 5 for the entire period of June 20 to August 5." Veterans may sign August 1 for the period of June 20 to July 31 and again 5 days later for the remainder of the session but in either case the check should arrive about Aug- ust 20, the Seattle VA office has notified Quinley.

Those attending the seven and two week session should sign pay forms on August 1 and again on August 19 at the conclusion of the post session. Two changes have been made in the veterans' office arrange- ments recently, Quinley re- ports. Mrs. Winnie McGrew has resigned and the office has been moved from 214 to 209, now in Showalter Hall.

Scott, Foresman Veed Is '32 Grad

First a user, then a booster, in the path which has led Dar- rel E. Peterson, EWCE '32, to the next-to-the-top spot in Scott, Foresman & Co. publish- ing firm. Peterson recently was elevated to the post of ex- ecutive vice president. He had been for some years vice pres- ident and general sales man- ager.

Peterson came to Cheney in 1927 and after two years took a two-year certificate and be- gan teaching at Naches. He returned to the principal's post and continued to attend EWCE work. For two years in a Scott school he joined Scott, Foresman & Co. in 1938 as the Spokane representative and his climb with the educational pub- lishers has been steady since. He is married to the former Katherine Milfar, who was also a student at Eastern.

Eastern Softball
Squad Seeks Games

Phil Brownlee has organized a summer softball team com- posed of Eastern students. The club has played three games so far against local com- petition. They split with Lake- land Village in two tight ball games and downed the Geiger Field nine.

Hut Van Tine hurled the wins for the college team. Brownlee is scouting around for more games.

Integration Views
To Be Presented

A native southerner's view- point on integration will be a feature of the first summer meeting of Delta Pi chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national fraternity for men in education. Francis J. Schadeeg, Eastern geography department head and charter president, said Dr. Henry L. Ure, visiting summer school faculty member from Florida Southern College would be the speaker. He will speak on the south's var- ious segments really feel about the segregation issue.

The dinner meeting will be held this evening (Wednesday) at 6:30 in the Louise Anderson dining hall on the EWCE cam- pus.
