China's Chang Calls For Patience In UN

"The United Nations Has Become a United Nations".

The United Nations has become a United Nations, said Dr. Chun-ming Chang, a member of the permanent mission of Nationalist China to the United Nations, before what he described as a "half-vast" audience in Showalter auditorium, February 28.

In his talk "is the United Nations Doing Its Job?", Chang described the problems and difficulties they have developed, and discussed the future of the U.N. system.

"There was a time," Chang said, when no one would criticise the U.N. system. But now, "a number of us have come to the conclusion that the United Nations was not doing its job properly."

One of the problems Chang discussed was the need for patience. He stressed that the U.N. system was not perfect and that work had to be done to improve it.

Chang also discussed the role of the United Nations in world affairs.

Martin Wins AW Election

Ellora Martin won the AWS presidency February 27, with 227 votes against 144 for Kaye Johnson.

Chang described the problems and difficulties they have developed, and discussed the future of the United Nations, the committee for which he is a member, during the fall quarter 1963.

"The Secretary General's Council has relinquished its control of the U.N.," he said.

"If we are ever to have a decent United Nations, they would have to be complete controls over which political effectiveness may be built.

Patience and persistence are what Chang calls for in regard to the present United Nations. If we expect too much, too soon, he said, we will be disappointed.

Organizers have volunteered their services and material and abstracts are distributed in each study area, and a format for future forums is prepared.

Success of the project will depend and draw upon the talent and skill of individual members. All graduate students are waiting for the success of the conclusions of the Master's program are invited to attend subsequent meetings, Hickey said.

All We Need Is An Image

Lee Raschke has put his finger on a mighty more spot in pointing out the discrepancies between a job description and the actual performance by an employee of the Associated Student of Eastern, Wash. state college. The employee was sure of what the job involved, and it took Raschke to inform the student of this fact.

What is alarming to The Easterner is that, rather than hiring someone who meets the requirements, the council is considering abandoning the position. The employee, now resigned, is displaying a woeful lack of information about his job and is busy answering questions that KKEW of trying to get the council to employ somebody to do their jobs. If it wasn't so pathetic a claim, it would be laughable.

Certainly a college with a campus as large as Eastern's could use somebody doing those things on campus. The Easterner does not need prepared publicity releases, but it does want to do a good job in reporting the news. Luckily, the council's prime public relations consultant has the privilege of meeting some of the most interesting people, connected with the school.

We have tried to raise a small voice against some of the inconceivable ideas to the students. We have given credit to those who work to make this college a good school to attend. We have had the pleasure of working with some of the nicest people: John and Mary Kull, Mike Young, the Associated Students of Eastern, and probably we wouldn't have met had we not composed to put on complete sets for the entire grade point.

Our Many Thanks....

This issue of The Easterner is the last of winter quarter and the last Easterner for the present editor. With spring quarter The Easterner will be directed by Mick Hayes. An editor usually develops opinions, and I'm sure we have watched over The Easterner have been the busiest and most hectic of our short college career. In the five quarters we have been editors, the newspaper has had the privilege of meeting some of the most interesting people, connected with the school.

Thursday Night at the ASC
By Don Dressel

Arriving about 15 minutes late last Thursday, I found I had missed one of the more humorous events of the quarter. As I groped for information, I found that it was only water that had perplexed the student officers. It seems that in our water saturated great Northwest it is not just the Washington Water Power company or the federal government that charges for the abundant liquid.

Our own restaurant at Eastern is charging the ludicrous price of 10 cents for a glass of water. This dime of course, buys also the paper cup and the ice, so you see that the price is very meager as compared to just plain old water. There is a fountain just outside the Harbor which dispenses water for no charge, but as the temperature of the water is about 70 degrees, it is seldom used. Oh well, there's cold beer downtown.

The next order of business was that of clarifying the duties of the student council publicity agent. The council seems displeased that all of the campus news, mirrored by the council, is not getting out to the public. Bob Stevens, our next ASC president, was the scopo of this talk, but with the closeness of his victory it was fairly easy to see that his spare time was well occupied. The council has lately apparently failed in the eyes of the council to bring the ASC happening to the campus.

The council was undecided as to what they would do about the past of publicity agent. Suggestions were numerous, ranging from cutting down the pay, or making it a journalism course, to making the Easterner send a reporter. Hell, I'm the reporter!

The answer to this problem will be a long time coming. In the first place, the council does not give a reporter or publicity agent too much material to work with. Perhaps if the council could show some deeds accomplished and could give forth words of wisdom for the campus, there would be much more for the weekly report. Right now it is getting so that even an interpretative Easter Seal drive is going to be a truly communical.

This column has tried but apparently failed in the eyes of kindly readers of spring. Perhaps next quarter the sun will thaw out our leaders and the council could show many renting opportunities. Of spring.

Public Relations Class To Sponsor Easter Seal Drive
By Don Dressel

The Public Relations class at Eastern, instructed by Miss Daphne Dodd, has been designated to bring the 1963 Easter Seal drive to the people of western Spokane county.

Ed Uhrig, chairman of the drive has stated, "This drive is going to be a truly communical affair." All Cheney merchants will participate in this drive. The drive will begin March 6 and continue through April 14, but the big day for the Eastern-Cheney community will be Saturday, March 9. This day will become Cheney Easter Seal day and a variety of projects will be on hand.

The main project will be a gigantic bake sale to be held at the new Safeway store. The goodies will be donated by local Cheney women's groups and will be sold by donation. As an extra bonus, there will be slips of paper with certain items that will entitle the buyer to free hockey tickets, baseball tickets, dinners, bowling passes and movie tickets. Virg's Enco service station will be another spot filled with excitement. Throughout the day at an unannounced time gas will go for five cents a gallon. If you're there at the right time you might get your car washed for a nickel. The M-N-M Drive-in will also have "specials" throughout the day.

KEWC will have live broadcasts from each of these places via live lines donated by the Cheney Telephone company. The Pix movie theater will run a five-minute film about the Easter Seal drive and have Easter Seal cans on hand for donations.

The whole day will have the air of a carnival, but keep in mind that it is the crippled children who will reap the benefits of this drive. The best thing that Eastern students can do is to go downtown next Saturday and let some of the campus money ring in the Easter Seal cans. Eastern can help make the slogan good. HELP MAKE CRUTCHES HAPPEN ONLY YOU CAN DO IT! FRIEDWOOD.

Smothers Brothers
Financial Success

Recent totals approxi- mately $1800 were returned from the Smothers Brothers two concerts performed here last Wednesday. It cost the All I-O-O to have the couple perform on campus.

With students paying an extra dollar, the cost of bringing professional entertainment to Eastern is greatly reduced and the campus has had appearances by Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong, Walter Chapman, Mann Trio, the Smothers Brothers and the scheduling of a name band for the Military ball.

The possibility of bringing another group to Eastern is also being considered. This will be decided when the activities vice-president knows the financial feasibility of obtaining another group.

How do we thank such a man as this?

The railroad hat is deceptive. Bill Schupbach is a lifetime Standard Oiler, retired. His grandfather, father and uncle were Standard Oilers before him.

Before retiring, Bill was a refinery foreman. His company retirement plan gives him security, and time for model railroading, but his big enthusiasm is still Standard Oil Company.

Bill keeps close to us, and we to him. He is invited to our picnics and parties, receives our publications, and is still one of the "Boys" at the refinery. He knows that he belongs.

It isn't the spoken thanks that do it; but your lasting interest in a person and not a statistic, those are the things that live in his spirit.

We have thousands of such fine men and women on our retirement payroll. If you know some of them, you know that they, too, are animated Standard Oilers.

Planning ahead to serve you better

Eastern To Host MUN Regional

A model, Model United Nations will be held at Eastern the day after finals.

As part of the final preparations for the coming 13th session of the MUN, 31 schools from Montana, Washington, Idaho and Oregon have been invited to send some 50 delegates to attend the regional session which will be held all day March 16th in the Ball Lounge.

Four committees will spend the day discussing resolutions that will be in the MUN program at San Jose State. Such things as the question of nuclear disarmament, admission of the People's Republic of China to the UN, and the question of the UN emergency forces in the Congo will be discussed by the four committees.

Activities will begin at 8 a.m. with registration and a coffee hour and will end at 7 p.m. with a banquet and a brief address by the Secretary General of the 13th session.

While preparations are being made for the regional session, Eastern's delegates are carrying out a recruiting drive to expand the size of next year's program.

At this, vice chairman of Eastern's delegation, said that students who are interested in the program should try to participate in the spring quarter activities to get as much experience as possible.

Interested students should contact Mr. Thomas Bonsor, assistant professor of history and economics in room 310 B at Showalter.

A special effort to attend the regional session should be made by students who are interested in the program.

MUN Needs Large Delegation For '64

Model United Nations officers are on a talent search.

Eastern is planning a greatly expanded delegation next year to take advantage of the regional location of the 14th session, which will be held at Whitworth.

Jennell Halverson, secretary of the M.U.N., said that students who are interested in next year's program should try to participate in the spring quarter activities to gain as much experience as possible.

While recruiting is occupying some of the delegations time, most of the efforts are going into preparations for the 13th session to be held at San Jose State in April.

The 16 members who will compose Eastern's delegation will be chosen at the beginning of spring quarter.

Students who are interested in next year's program should contact Mr. Thomas Bonsor, assistant professor of history and economics in room 310 B at Showalter.
