The E dentist

Grads Urged To Attend Homecoming

Mancini And Orchestra To Highlight Activities

"We are planning the most exciting and enjoyable Homecoming in the history of Eastern on October 12, 1963," said Billie Noremeyer, Student Homecoming Chairman. Activities for the week have been set, and final planning is now under way, for the early October event. Many new features are scheduled for this Homecoming, which has the theme "Star Bound!"

Henry Mancini, and his 40-piece orchestra, will be presented in concert at the field house on October 16. The field house has had a new audio system installed for this event. Three classes are to be honored this year. They are 1913, 1933 and 1953. Many reservations have already been received from the members of these classes throughout the country.

The coronation of the Homecoming Queen will be Friday night, October 11, at the Homecoming Show. A minor midnight rally will follow.

The parade will be held Saturday morning and a newly planned lecture series is also scheduled for Saturday. Also featured on Saturday is a barbecue. A new baseball field is currently being constructed by the baseball class under the direction of Dr. Lloyd W. Vandenberg. It is located within the Moore Hall and the Industrial Arts Building, and will be a permanent addition to the campus.

Tours of the new buildings, including the Hall of Science, the Tawanka Food Center, and the new men's dormitory, are scheduled Saturday.

The Homecoming Dance, held Saturday night at 9, will be at the Deventer Hotel. The music will be provided by the Gary Hall Band. Billie Noremeyer and The Shadows, a six-piece dance band from Portland.

This year, both parade floats and stationary floats will be built on the campus. The judging of these campus decorations will be on October 18. All clubs will be given space on the lawn by Gary Hall to construct their decorations. Tickets can be purchased from John Lanthorn, Director of Alumni, Larry Snyder, Student Secretary, and in the Book Store.

(More on schedule of events, page 25)

Registrar Expects 2,850 Fall Quarter

Approximately 1,000 new freshmen and transfer students are expected to register Sep­tember 13 for fall quarter according to Per-rin C. Smith, Registrar.

About 2,800 students are expected to enroll at Eastern this fall as compared to approximately 2,500 last fall.

Freshmen and transfer students will register by the new number system for the first time this fall. As soon as the student's 855 deposit has been received by the Dean of Students, they will receive their registration number.

Upperclassmen and graduate students will register September 29 alphabetically as they have previously.

A. S. Secretary Is Summer Boss Of Student Gov't

During the summer quarter, Janet Gleason holds a tight reign on student government. For the past two terms she has acted as head of the Associated Student Government.

Having served as AS Secretary last year, Janet has become acquainted with the various duties of the office. This past experience enables her to act in the capacity of all others.

Some of her duties include determining the achievements worthy of awards, attending meetings, and planning the trip for the NASA group.

The executive council usually appoints the officers who are to serve in the fall for this job. Since Janet had had this job of student government head last year she knew what to expect when she was appointed.

Larry Snyder, activities vice president, is giving Janet some help in preparing posters advertising coming events.

Janet Gleason

Volume 16, Number 33

EASTERN WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, CHENey, WASHINGTON

Wednesday, July 24, 1963

Alumni Come Back

Larry Snyder, 1963-64 AS activities vice president, explains the advantage of buying the new combination Homecoming ticket to Don Lee, Moses Lake grade school principal and 1949 Eastern graduate. The ticket, which costs $2.75, entitles the purchaser to buses, barbecue, football games, and other Homecoming activities.

PLU President To Speak At Summer Commencement

The president of Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma, Dr. Robert A. L. Mortvedt, will speak at summer quarter commencement exercises at Eastern Washington State College August 1.

Dr. Mortvedt will speak on "The Miracle of the Mind." Ceremonies will be held outdoors on Woodward Field on the EWSC campus in Cheney starting at 8 p.m.

Dr. Mortvedt, son of a Lutheran pastor, is a graduate of St. Olaf College and has advanced degrees from Harvard University. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, he has also studied in England and the Scandinavian countries.

He has been on the faculties of Wartburg College, St. Olaf, Stephens College and was dean of the college of liberal arts at the University of Kansas City from 1943 to 1946, and was vice president from 1948 to 1953. From 1953 to 1958 he was president of Bethany College.

Dr. Mortvedt served as executive director of the Board of Christian Higher Education of the Augustana Lutheran Church in 1958-59, and assumed a similar position with the United Lutheran Church in America until July of last year when he became president.

He is the author of the book "1,001 Talks About Literature" and many published articles. He is listed in "Who's Who in America" and has received honorary degrees from FLU, Augustana College and Wagner College. He received a Centennial Award from Augustana in 1960 and in 1962, was honored as a Distinguished Alumnus of St. Olaf.

Three Nights Of "Absurd Theater" Scheduled at EWSC

"Theater of the Absurd" will be presented July 21, 25 and 26 in the Science building auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

The EWSC drama department and the East Side Company from Chicago will present two plays each evening. A deliberately bizarre situation and nonsensical dialogue is the message, says Ann Burr, author of one of the plays.

"Mrs. Burr" has written "The Answer." The Chicago East Side Company actors in the play are Lorenzo Ribocchi, Allegra Ylvis and Orville Hodmat.

Eastern dramatists Rod Thompson, Jon Berg and Jan ice Cowell will star in "The Lesson" By Eugene Ionesco. This play will be directed by David Burr.

The plays will be presented tonight, Thursday and Friday night free of charge to the public.

Trustees For State Colleges To Discuss Master's Program

The Board of Trustees of EWSC met last night in the Empire Room of the Deventer Hotel, Spokane. The joint board of the three colleges will meet on July 27 in Bellingham. Among items to be considered is the thinking of the three institutions on the initiation of the MA degree programs. Another item that will be discussed is the staffing formula to be used for faculty entitlement by the five higher institutions.

Workshop, Conference In Session

A conference on the Caribbean and South America will begin Monday, July 22, at Eastern Washington State College. Robert L. Young, a Stanford University research assistant, will conduct the conference which will study the social and economic problems of Latin America, with special reference to the penetration of communist ideas and the role of the United States through the Alliance for Progress. Conference meetings will be held each afternoon for one week from 2 to 4:30 p.m. in the EWSC Hall of Science Auditorium. Sessions are open to the public.
Summer Session for 1964 is already in the planning stage according to J. D. Smalley, Director of Institutional Research.

"With excellent faculty cooperation, the questionaire was filled out by 1000 of the 1700 students enrolled in this summer's seven-week session. The information from the questionaire will be compiled, analyzed, and ready for use in the September 1st Mr. Smalley stated.

He also said that with the enrollment of more advanced students, the need for additional facilities is expected.

The following summer session will provide course offerings in various fields such as business, education, and humanities.

Dr. Darrell P. Morse, long a favorite instructor with EWSC students, has accepted a teaching position at San Fernando State College at Los Angeles, California for the coming year. Although he is glad to be returning to his native state, Dr. Morse said that he has many good friends among both students and faculty with whom he regrets leaving.

Summer Quarter Success Contributed To Guest Faculty, Workshops, Conferences

Features of the 63 summer session at Eastern contributed to its success are: an outstanding visiting faculty, an increase in students seeking the Master of Education degree, and a series of workshops and conferences which are being well received, Dr. J. M. Chatburn said.

According to Dr. Chatburn, the summer session is primarily designed to meet the needs of the student seeking his fifth year or the Master of Education degree. Additional emphasis may be given to the program with the future inclusion of the master degree in science as well as creative arts.

Supplementing the master's degree are workshops and conferences selected in December, so that events create an atmosphere with students and faculty during the summer session.

To further include the summer program, Dr. Chatburn advocates an extensive cultural exchange program, involving the exchange of members from various foreign colleges and universities.

To insure continuous success in future summer sessions, students may make a contribution by offering constructive criticism concerning course offers to the respective division chairman. This action should be taken soon as that suggestions may be incorporated into the planning of the '64 summer session.

Leaving Eastern

Don S. Patterson, President, and Darryl M. Moore, Dean of Students, of Eastern Washington State College, attended ROTC training at Fort Lewis, Washington. Approximately 1400 cadets from 43 institutions are in the middle weeks of instruction which began June 22. A total of 66 educators arrived at the ROTC camp July 16 as guests of the Army. For two days, they followed the cadets through a busy series of field demonstrations and practical work. Among the activities witnessed were the firing of weapons, physical training tests, field fortifications, bayonet drill, and paroling.

Educators and cadets from the same school sit next to the Army commandant, Father Seventh, in the field Army club kitchen. That evening, the educational leaders, some of them married, got together at the camp, their wives were guests of the commanding general, Lieutenant General of the US Army, at a reception and dinner.

The group included representatives of Eastern Washington State College, the University of Idaho, Idaho State University, University of Utah, University of California, University of North Dakota, and South Dakota School of Mines and Technology.

The Looking Glass

Watchful Waiting

by Judith Huettan

It has often been calculated by mathematicians that we spend eight hours asleep each day, eight hours working, and eight hours relaxing. On certain days, I'd like to add eight hours of waiting for friends to show up. That's an average of 360 hours per year, or 12 per cent of the time. That extra four per cent must be the time he doesn't show up at all.

It's a habit of mine to assume, when waiting for someone, that I'm probably the one to blame. Somehow I have made a horrid mistake and am standing on the wrong street corner on the wrong day and have arrived an hour too early or too late.

Soon, a point of near despair is reached when I start to wonder if it's July or June, or if this is the right city, or am I really me?

At this stage, one must be careful not to lose control of one's wits. "Ah, good. I can tell that nobody's around," I say to myself as a figure approaches. On closer view, it is not a man at all, but a woman of about 75 wearing a blue blouse.

Only by a streak of luck did I keep from waving. More time passes, and I decide that there is no question about it: the person is definitely late and needs to be punished in a stern manner that will 'fix' her lesson, but good. I will not be subjected to anger.

Perhaps I could leave an angry sarcastic note. But no, he would never see it.

Maybe a phone call to his home would embarrass him. But no—it is far too depressing to think he's still there.

Hand on—who's coming? Well, at last!

He had to go to the bank and drop his mother off at a tea on the way over, and...

The Looking Glass

Watchful Waiting

by Judith Huettan

It has often been calculated by mathematicians that we spend eight hours asleep each day, eight hours working, and eight hours relaxing. On certain days, I'd like to add eight hours of waiting for friends to show up. That's an average of 360 hours per year, or 12 per cent of the time. That extra four per cent must be the time he doesn't show up at all.

It's a habit of mine to assume, when waiting for someone, that I'm probably the one to blame. Somehow I have made a horrid mistake and am standing on the wrong street corner on the wrong day and have arrived an hour too early or too late.

Soon, a point of near despair is reached when I start to wonder if it's July or June, or if this is the right city, or am I really me?

At this stage, one must be careful not to lose control of one's wits. "Ah, good. I can tell that nobody's around," I say to myself as a figure approaches. On closer view, it is not a man at all, but a woman of about 75 wearing a blue blouse.

Only by a streak of luck did I keep from waving. More time passes, and I decide that there is no question about it: the person is definitely late and needs to be punished in a stern manner that will 'fix' her lesson, but good. I will not be subjected to anger.

Perhaps I could leave an angry sarcastic note. But no, he would never see it.

Maybe a phone call to his home would embarrass him. But no—it is far too depressing to think he's still there.

Hand on—who's coming? Well, at last!

He had to go to the bank and drop his mother off at a tea on the way over, and...

The Looking Glass

Watchful Waiting

by Judith Huettan

It has often been calculated by mathematicians that we spend eight hours asleep each day, eight hours working, and eight hours relaxing. On certain days, I'd like to add eight hours of waiting for friends to show up. That's an average of 360 hours per year, or 12 per cent of the time. That extra four per cent must be the time he doesn't show up at all.

It's a habit of mine to assume, when waiting for someone, that I'm probably the one to blame. Somehow I have made a horrid mistake and am standing on the wrong street corner on the wrong day and have arrived an hour too early or too late.

Soon, a point of near despair is reached when I start to wonder if it's July or June, or if this is the right city, or am I really me?

At this stage, one must be careful not to lose control of one's wits. "Ah, good. I can tell that nobody's around," I say to myself as a figure approaches. On closer view, it is not a man at all, but a woman of about 75 wearing a blue blouse.

Only by a streak of luck did I keep from waving. More time passes, and I decide that there is no question about it: the person is definitely late and needs to be punished in a stern manner that will 'fix' her lesson, but good. I will not be subjected to anger.

Perhaps I could leave an angry sarcastic note. But no, he would never see it.

Maybe a phone call to his home would embarrass him. But no—it is far too depressing to think he's still there.

Hand on—who's coming? Well, at last!

He had to go to the bank and drop his mother off at a tea on the way over, and...

Dorm, Dining Hall Nears Completion

With the opening of the new food center and men's dorm will come the closing of Hudson and Garry halls and L. A. dining hall.

The food center, the Twana, cost approximately $11,415,000 and has a dining capacity of 2,200.

Possible uses for the L. A. dining hall will be large group activities and parlors for women's housing.

The 81,750,000 men's dorm has a capacity of 440, with 11 floors of living space, an outside view from each room, lounges, study rooms, and two elevators and an inside stairway.

Advantages in a round dorm were pointed out by Mr. Mar Siebert, Eastern's director of physical plant. The advantages include the convenience of the service area, which makes it more economical; there are no long food lines, which permits only limited flow of distance and prevents disturbing others.

The name of the dorm and the opening time are not yet known.

Eastern Graduate Students Score High On Nat'l Exam.

"Ninety-seven EWSC graduate students who wrote Graduate Examination Examinations on June 22 this year proved that they rate highly compared with national field, head of the Graduate Department said. "This reaffirms the conclusion of eight previous years that Eastern is drawing an unusually high academic group to its graduate program."

The average Eastern graduate student scored in the 71st centile on the national scale; 20 per cent of those taking the test fell below, and 80 per cent scored above the national mid-point. No score was as low as the 15th centile on the national scale.

Of the six students or 37 per cent scored above the 85th centile. Twenty-three, or 34 per cent, scored within the upper five centiles on the national scale.

In scores on the test of mental abilities, the average graduate student's score was in the 59th centile on the national score; 47 per cent fell below, 53 per cent scored above the national mid-point.

The professional preparation in education given at Eastern appears beyond doubt to be of a superior grade. Citi-Iers, therefore, should be proud to know that the college is doing an excellent job of teacher preparation," Dr. Raymond Whitley said.

Don D. Rappe

Central Life Assurance Company

All--Summer Grads

Caps and gowns will be picked up week of July 29

Announcements are in 18 cents each

STUDENT UNION BOOK STORE

REGATTAS

Nautical and nice.... a jauntily rope-trimmed oxford...
REGATTA

1. Life Insurance
2. Savings
3. Retirement
4. Investment through Life Insurance

Call me — for your personal

Be sure to compare before you buy.
Phone—P 7-3232 Office

REGATTAS

SUB Book Store

By BALL-BANU
Educators Initiated Into International Fraternity

Twelve educators were initiated into membership in the Eastern Washington State College Delta Delta Kappa, international fraternity for men in education, at a dinner meeting in the EWSC Student Union Student Union Building, Wednesday, July 24.

The inductees were from Spokane. They include: Joseph W. Callin, Miss Florence Fielding, Robert N. Griffin, Edward F. Jenkins, Jr., Graham E. Johnson, Richard V. Hein- man, Richard H. Heaton, Eugene L. Leber, Richard L. Odell, Donald H. Sherry, and Durrell K. Very.

Other inductees include Charles E. King, Eunice Yuanow, Fred B. Broyles, Rosalia; Kenneth M. Davis, Sunnie; John W. Fathbacher, Stevenson; B. Gene- hose, Omak; Kent D. Math- son, Medical Lake; Dick A. Robinson, Kennewick; Martin D. N. Tervort, Thelma L. With- bina and William L. Wilkerson, all of Cheney, and Richard N. Williams, Bothell.

John Christensen, executive secretary of the Spokane Edu- cation Association will speak on “Controversy and Progress” at the National Education Association Convention.

Edwin Navone Displays Charcoal Drawings in SUB

A selection of black and white charcoal drawings on exhibit in the SUB will be one of several exhibits to be cut off during the summer school section. The drawings are the work of Edward Navone, visiting art instructor at Eastern, who has used the charcoal medium to demonstrate “draftsmanship” in his art.

Navone said he used charcoal on all his works, which range in size from 30 by 24 inches to 4 by 5 inches. The charcoal drawings were done on 18 by 24-inch sheets of paper and 2 by 3-inch strips of paper, which he used to show the effects of light and dark on different objects.

He also drew with a 3 by 2-inch piece of paper, which he said he used to show the effects of light and dark on different objects. The charcoal drawings were done on 18 by 24-inch sheets of paper and 2 by 3-inch strips of paper, which he used to show the effects of light and dark on different objects.

Northwest Artists Will Exhibit Work

A study of the lives and productions of 25 Northwest artists will be available soon through the art facilities of Eastern Washington State College. Assistant Professor Rob- ert Hallaran said this week that the exhibit will be comprised of both slides and slides. The exhibit will show individual artists at work, the finished art works of each and a personal tape interview.

Hallaran, who conducted the research during a twenty- week sabbatical leave, said that more than 900 slides and 7500 feet of taped interviews were produced which will be available as lecture material for rental to schools, museums, and other interested groups.

Orientation to Begin September 15 At Showalter Hall

Orientation for freshmen and transfer students will be held the 15th in September with the purpose of orienting them with the campus, its procedures and traditions.

Sunday the 15th at 2 p.m., a general meeting will be held in the Showalter Hall auditorium for the new students while the parents are being given a tour of the Science building. The President's Address will follow after that and at 8:15 the President's Address will be held in Showalter Audito- rium.

Monday will begin the orien- tation meetings with campus tours. At 8:15 that night a tour will be shown in Show- alter auditorium preceded by the Dean's Convocation at 7:30 p.m.

Mixers will be held on the tennis courts Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Freshmen registration will be held Monday from 7:30 to 4:00 and from 4:30 to 9:00. Also on Friday the upperclass men will register.

The campus will be closed to all but residents and the campus will be closed to all but residents.

Fall Quarter Opens at EWSC Sept. 23

Eastern Washington State College classes for 1963-64 will start Sept. 23, but faculty and many students will return to the campus a week earlier.

Pre-registration sessions will be held in the mornings of Sept. 18 and 19, with the afternoons free to counsel students.

Freshmen and other new students will be on campus starting Sept. 18, for a week of orientation which will in- clude individual meetings with counselors before registration Sept. 19.

Returning students will reg- ister Sept. 20 for classes starting the following Monday:

Freshmen will register Sept. 19 for classes starting Sept. 23.

37,500 Books Sold To EWSC Students

Eastern Washington State College students bought 37,500 books last year at a cost of $135,000, an average of $4 per book.

Fred Heimann, EWSC stu- dent union bookstore manager, said the most expensive book was $12, the cheapest were a number of paperback books which sold for 45 cents.

While the cost of college text books is rising, Heimann said, the increase is offset by many titles now being issued in paperback.

The EWSC bookstore also sold more than $32,000 in note- books, paper, pens and pencils and other incidental items for a total business of more than $35,000 for the year.

PLAY OPENS WEDNESDAY—Joy Berg, on floor, has her hair pulled by Rod Thompson, the professor, as Janice Cowell, the maid, tries to restrain him. The scene is from “The Lesson,” one of two one-act plays to be presented at Eastern Washing- ton State College in three performances starting Wednesday (July 24) evening in the Hall of Sciences Auditorium.

FRESHMEN ORIENTATION—Joy Berg, on floor, has her hair pulled by Rod Thompson, the professor, as Janice Cowell, the maid, tries to restrain him. The scene is from “The Lesson,” one of two one-act plays to be presented at Eastern Washing- ton State College in three performances starting Wednesday (July 24) evening in the Hall of Sciences Auditorium.

Edward Navone is supplying the finishing touches to a recent sketch. In the background is one of the drawings currently on display in the Cove in the Student Union Building.