It is my pleasure to be one of the many welcoming you to Eastern. During the short career of a student editor, many issues are encountered which require difficult messages to be conveyed to a particular interest group. None are more difficult than a "hello first year." I should be able to inform you of a multitude of invaluable details which are absolutely essential to acquiring a complete college education. Learn of art, poetry, and music. Don't desire only vocational preparation. The acquisition of knowledge must be accompanied by an understanding and appreciation and understanding of what knowledge is for.

No one can impress upon you the importance of building your own individual character. This is why you are here. And make no mistake, the challenge you face is real.

Eastern Begins Plans For Master Of Arts And Science Degrees

Dr. Raymond P. Whitlefield, director of graduate study at EWSC, said that substantial effort will go into the preparation of quality graduate programs before fall. He said that the EWSC has been granting master degrees for 37 years, he said, and will continue to do so in the new academic year. Master degrees are ready.

"Preparation proceeds over a period of years with long-term planning essential for the building of adequate staff, library resources, buildings and other facilities," Dr. Whitlefield said. With a year-round enrollment of more than 2,900 students, the college teaching staff numbers approximately 250 full-time members, with approximately 120 half-time members. The college has the task of establishing master's degrees programs on campus.

After the purposes and feasibility of new programs are clearly established within the institution, the experts in the academic disciplines from outside the college are committed to ensure the standards are comparable to excellence with those applied in established graduate schools, Dr. Whitlefield said.

This step protects the reputation of the college and ensures satisfactory graduate students that degrees earned will be of recognized quality.

Because careful procedures for approval of such programs will be followed we expect any new master's degree programs approved to be strong from the first year on.

The public demand for increased opportunities and the expansion of knowledge dictate the master of arts and science programs as well as other advanced degree study will be the emphasis of the college. This is due to the increase in college faculties in the decades to come. Dr. Whitlefield said.
Artist Series to Feature Five Major Attractions

All performances will be in Showalter Auditorium and will start at 8:15 p.m. The 35 young performers from Greece, aged 10 to 16, will leave their native land for the first time for their 1963-64 tour of the United States and Canada.

Dazzling costumes worn by the girls range from simple but bright peasant dresses to elaborate ceremonial robes. The boys appear in clothes of the mountain farmer, the tailor, the sailor and in the traditional garb of the Evzone of the King's bodyguard—red fez, white starched white ruffled shirt and turned-up pant and pom sleeves.

For us in all moods, dances that have been handed down from generation to generation, and music on traditional instruments are all part of their program.

Mozart's comic opera, "Così Fan Tutte" will be presented by the Canadian Opera Company Nov. 14.

Canada's foremost professional operatic repertory company for more than 15 years, the Canadian Opera Company has won public and critical acclaim for its annual season of operas in Toronto and for its performances across Canada and the United States. "Women Are Like That!" is the English version of the comic opera that tells the story of two young gallants who are dismayed at their success in love when they disguise themselves. There are numerous complications, but the opera ends happily.

Jamaica Lamb, 31, a 3-year-old Belizean violinist, will be the attraction here.

Since he won the coveted Queen Elizabeth of Belgium competition in 1952, Lamb has distinguished himself here and abroad as a violin virtuoso of the first rank. He has been honored many times in his native Bolivia and one of his highest honors was the series of commemorative stamps issued in his honor in 1960.

Fabiola Silvina Stravinsky, son of the noted composer, Igor Stravinsky, will be presented in a concert Feb. 14.

Widely recognized as one of the leading interpreters of Mozart and Scarlatti, he is also the foremost exponent of the piano music of his father.

Stravinsky is also well known as a teacher, lecturer and composer. Another outstanding pianist, Leonard Pennario, will be the final presentation in the EWSC series, with a recital scheduled April 27.

A native of Buffalo, N. Y., Pennario made his debut at the age of 8 in a home town department store. His first professional concert was with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra when he was 15 years old. While only 19, and still in the Army, he played with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

Since then, he has won critical acclaim throughout the world. His recordings appear consistently on the best-seller lists.

Upperclassmen Eligible for New Loan Fund

Students needing financial assistance may now apply to the Spokane Retired Teachers Loan Fund.

College juniors and seniors at EWSC and WSU who are preparing themselves for the teaching profession are eligible. Applicants will be screened on the basis of need, character and scholarship. Preference will be given to students from Spokane and vicinity. Students may receive up to $500 during a school year. Loans will bear no interest until two years after the recipient has obtained his degree. Thereafter, interest will be charged at five percent.

This fund has recently been made available from donations and bequests to the Association. Students may receive further information and application blanks by writing to P. M. Jacoy, Retired Teachers Loan Fund, West 208 Garland Avenue, Spokane 14, Washington.

Danforth Grants Are Now Available

Applications for Danforth Graduate Fellowships for careers in college teaching are now available, Daryl Hagie, Dean of Students has announced.

The fellowships, offered by Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, are open to male college seniors or recent graduates preparing for a career of teaching, as college assistant professors or administrative work at a college level.

Winners will be eligible for up to $500, with an annual maximum of $1000 for single men and $500 for married men plus dependency allowances for up to three children, and tuition and fees. Students without financial needs are also invited to apply.

Applicants should see Dean Daryl H AGE as soon as possible.
Louise Anderson Welcomes New Oregon Housemother

Mrs. Florence McKenzie, new housemother at Louise Anderson hall, describes her job as "my first wonderful experience" working with girls.

A resident of Welches, Oregon, a small resort town on the slopes of Mt. Hood, Mrs. McKenzie had been a secretary all of her working life. This summer, while attending a hunter's conference at Oregon State university, she met Eastern's Dean of Women, Mrs. Virginia Druvas, who persuaded her to become a housemother at EWSC.

"My family thought I was very brave and also rather smart to take the job," said the new housemother. A widow, Mrs. McKenzie has two grown children and two grandchildren. Since they are now on their own, she felt, as she termed it, "My horizons were not broad enough."

So far, Mrs. McKenzie finds her job a pleasure and a challenge. "I think Eastern is just fabulous and the girls coming into the dorm are wonderful," she said.

Commenting on the beauty and friendliness on Eastern's campus, Mrs. McKenzie said, "I'll stay as long as they ask me back."

Eastern Receives National Defense Student Loan Funds

Eastern has been allotted $132,370 in federal funds for National Defense Student Loans for the 1963-64 college year.

Dr. Daniel Hagie, EWSC dean of students, said that in addition to the federal allocation, the college board of trustees has approved a college contribution to the fund of one-ninth the federal allocation. This amounts to $12,573, bringing the total NDSL fund at the college to $139,174.

Last year, EWSC loaned $134,500 Dr. Hagie said. Loans were made to 259 students for an average of $518.53 each.

Drama Department to Present "The View From the Bridge"

The play, a modern tragedy in Greek form, will feature chorus speeches between scenes. Directed by David Burr, it will be the first of four productions presented during the school year.

Try-outs will be held Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 at 7:30 p.m. in Showalter auditorium. All students, freshmen included, with interest in dramatics are urged to attend. No experience is necessary and a large cast is needed.

Spokane Hootenanny Will Feature Real Toad Group

Folk music enthusiasts, rejoice! Friday, October 4, at 8:00 p.m., a hootenanny in the grand tradition comes to Spokane.

Folk performers from all over Spokane and surrounding college communities will appear before a mass gathering at the Northtown Shopping Center.

Yearbook Needs Staff Members

The Knoebelck, EWSC yearbook, needs several new staff members to work on the 1964 publication, according to Jeanne Kandler, editor.

She said she would prefer students who have had some experience on high school yearbooks.

Savages Drop Opening Squeaker to Linfield

by Mike McAtee

The collegiate coaching debut of Dave Holmes, of Eastern Washington State College, was marred by defeat last Saturday night as the Savages were toppled by the Linfield Wildcats 7 to 0.

The Oregon eleven, a perennial west coast powerhouse, was forced to go all out to eke out the narrow decision over the previously untested Savage squad. A rockbound defense, spearheaded by end, Bob Judni, and a trio of fine defensive backs, Larry Liberty, Willie Jackson, and freshman Dennis Nelson, kept the Savages in contention throughout the game. The defense, which understandably is far ahead of the offense at this stage of the campaign, showed mid-season form throughout the game.

The final offensive statistics, which showed Linfield holding a 234 to 12 yard advantage did not accurately represent the game action, as the Eastern defensive unit time and again made up for offensive lapses. Three key interceptions by Liberty, Jackson, and Dennis Nelson of the Savages stopped Wildcat drives before they actually could get started.

The Eastern passing attack was unable to get off the ground. Veteran quarterback Lee Grichuhin completed only four passes in ten attempts and was repeatedly dropped for losses attempting to pass, as the Wildcat defenders spent most of the evening in the Savage backfield.

The only offensive bright spot this week was the return of shifty halfback Mel Stanton, of Spokane, who is just recovering from a pulled muscle.

Extension Courses Feature Many Education Courses

The first of 13 evening extension courses, most of them for teachers, offered by Eastern Washington State College in Spokane during the 1963-64 school year, started September 12.

A workshop in the physical sciences for primary grades will start Sept. 19. Taught by Charles Carpenter, it will be held at Garfield Elementary School for 10 Monday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. Also starting the same day will be a course in library science, dealing specifically in reference work for children and young people. Meeting at Lewis and Clark from 7 to 10 p.m., the course will be taught by Thalia Geisler.

Correspondence Has Sixty-Six Courses

Sixty-six correspondence courses are being offered by Eastern Washington State College during the 1963-64 year. Raymond M. Giles, director of extension, said the courses are in such widely diversified fields as art, business, economics, education, English, geography, history, home economics, political science, social studies and psychology.

Thirty-three regular EWSC faculty members will teach the courses.

A new catalog describing the classes is ready for distribution. Giles said.

Eastern Begins New Major Program In Social Work

A major program in social work is one of the new programs offered at Eastern Washington State College this fall.

Alfred J. Prince, a new member of the EWSC faculty, will be in charge of the program. With bachelor and master degrees from the University of Idaho, Prince has a professional degree, master of social work, from Our Lady of the Lake College, San Antonio, Texas, and is a doctoral candidate at Washington State University.

The EWSC program is one of only three in the state, and application for accreditation has been made to the Council on Social Work Education, New York.

"Social work offers unusual opportunities to young people who have natural aptitudes for working constructively with people," Prince said.

"Job opportunities in social work are excellent," he said. "There is a shortage of qualified social workers and graduate schools are not now able nor will they be for some time to meet the demand for trained personnel.

"A bachelor of arts degree with a major in social work qualifies graduates for many of these opportunities. Of course, advancement will depend upon demonstrated ability and additional professional educational training."

The four-year program is broad, culled in nature and emphasizes the study of the social and behavioral sciences as a basis for understanding man and society, Prince said. All courses in the social work curriculum will be taught by professionally qualified social workers.

The program is aimed at three categories of students—those who plan to pursue graduate professional education in social work; those who wish to qualify for many social welfare positions; and those who wish to qualify as helping professions such as nursing, physical therapy, theology, education, law and medicine, and as preparation for civic leadership in the social services.

When accredited, EWSC will become a member of the Council on Social Work Education, meaning that the undergraduate program has met the requirements of the Council.

Students who complete the EWSC program will have met all academic requirements for admission to any graduate school of social work. Prince said, as well as being qualified for many social welfare positions which at the present time do not require graduate training. Included in the curriculum are agency visitsations and practical field experience and observation in selected social work agencies in the Spokane area. Part of the program will include an internship of about four hours a week for one quarter.

Reece Kelly, 1963-64 Associated Students president, is a senior honor student majoring in social studies. Reece is an Air Force veteran and has a cute, seldom-seen wife (we think) named Darlene. The president is from Stanford, Montana.

Jim Nelsen is this year's Executive Vice President. He and his wife, Sandy, have a son Scott. Jim is also president of Eastern's business fraternity and is a member of the advanced corps of ROTC cadets. He is from Spokane.

Bob Clark is the man who manipulates the Associated Students' purse strings. As AS Treasurer, he is not without experience. He handled the AMS funds last year. "Bobby" is a three-year football letterman where he played quarterback. The team will have to do without Robert this year as his new job and new wife "Mo" (Maureen Sullivan) seem to be taking all his time. Bob is from Seattle.

Larry Snyder is the Activities Vice President. A past president of Bachelors' Club, where he received much of his activities experience, he is responsible for almost as many "functions" off campus as on. "Snidley" was raised in Lewiston, Idaho, but now claims Spokane as home.

Margo Seidenmann will handle the other officers' "dirty work" as Associated Students Secretary. Margo is a honor student majoring in political science. A former Spur, she is from Kellogg, Idaho.
