Eastern To Back Many Charities

Chest Week

One of the most fun-filled weeks on Eastern's calendar will be coming up soon—Campus Chest week, which will kick-off with the AS sponsored Campus Chest talent show, January 27, at 8:15 p. m.

During the week, a "Miss Campus Chest" will be elected from our student body to preside over the traditional ceremonies. This contest is a new innovation, and there will be no dorm sponsored candidates. A general ballot will be made up, and the voting will take place tomorrow, January 26 in the SUB.

The "really big" show this year will take on an "Our Town" type theme, with modern set and lighting effects used for the abstract, "bare stage" Showalter performance. Dave Acree, general chairman for the show, predicted.

Plans, as of now, include Bob Mooney as master of ceremonies, to add a little "swing" to what is turning out to be a very sophisticated affair. Also swinging—and we mean swinging—will be the Mssrs. Schults, Pierce and Chissus, who plan to crash the show's legitimate ballet number.

Soprano Gloria Schlenker will be accompanied by Bill Watson and Kyle Pugh as she sings up her usual storm. Kay Roberts (not a soprano), whose vocal of "Hard Hearted Hanna" delighted this year's Homecoming show crowds, will make a return appearance, and is tentatively scheduled for a round of "Birth of the Blues."

The men's quartet (all four of 'em) and the Larry Lael trio (all two) and an acrobatic act are scheduled for the Friday event. Sound good?

What better sounds can you find than Eastern's pop choir and the "Easterners," a dance band which is well on its way to being unequalled in the Northwest. They'll all be at the show.

Admission to the talent show will be 25 cents a person, and an additional 35 cents will admit you to Saturday's (January 28) movie and mixer—25 cents for the dance only. "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys" will be shown at the SUB.

When these meager donations have been made, you'll find that you've painlessly contributed to some of the worthiest charities in this area—the stated purpose of the campus Chest week. This drive is conducted annually to replace the thousands of groups who canvassed our campus before a consolidated drive was organized.

Funds will be distributed in this way: World University Service, 30%; Lakeland Village, 30%; Cancer fund, 10%; Tuberculosis, 10%; and the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro students, 20%.

These are the highlights you'll be looking forward to during "Campus Chest Week," starting January 27. The week-long drive will come to a close with the traditional "passing of the tape," by the Spurs and Intercollegiate Knights, to collect funds during the half-time of the Eastern-Whitworth game, Friday, February 3.

DAVID LEMPSIS poses with some of his more recent paintings. Many of his works are now being featured on the third floor of Showalter.

Fall Quarter EWCE Grad, Lempsis, Gives Senior Art Show

By Bob Stevens

The Art Show in the third floor galleries of Showalter Hall, features the watercolors and commercial art work of Dave Lempsis. It is his Senior art show.

"Dave Lempsis elaborates an aesthetic in organic reciprocity of forms through the medium of line, form and color."

This is the statement made by Mr. Robert Hanrahan upon reviewing Mr. Lempsis' work.

"As an art student, Lempsis has been influenced by the abstract biomorphic school of painting. Starting with nature, he develops his painting idea in semi-abstract form, in sensuous surfaces, uniting his vision by means of sympathetic structural elements, dynamic rhythms and a physical feeling for paint," continued Mr. Hanrahan.

Dave received his B. A. from Eastern, fall quarter, 1960, with a major in Art. He is a graduate of Lewis and Clark high school. He spent part of 1958 traveling and studying in Mexico, where, at Mexico City College, he studied painting and World Trade. At present he is a free-lance commercial artist in Spokane.

"His use of lines in painting is almost calligraphic in feeling, a kind of aesthetic handwriting in brilliant hues," Hanrahan added.

Revolt Stirs Campus

by foreign correspondent
Ken McDonald

Whitworth Col. Jan. 19—A band of "rebels," identified by their arm bands and hats have directed a full scale revolt against the associated students of Whitworth College's governing body, on the basis of dissatisfaction with the executives of that body, dissatisfaction with their procedure on student policies, and a question of the legal status of the ASWC.

This dissatisfaction erupted into a spirited rebellion when it was learned that the "new" constitution (adopted by the students last year, and under which the present ASWC was elected) was never officially approved by the faculty. In order to be valid, all actions concerning student government must be approved by the faculty.

The present ASWC, elected under the "new" constitution, has just recently conducted another election (to fill the vacated V. P. post of the ASWC) in which the procedure and executive control was questioned by many Whitworth students.

The problem now seems to be: Which constitution, if any, are the Whitworth students operating under? Is the present ASWC a legal governing body? Do the Whitworth students really want the "new" constitution and their present ASWC? Reported pressure by the ASWC has focused further attention on the use, or misuse, of power by the ASWC.

The rebels, according to their central committee, wish to "point out certain things in student government that need action." To support their movement, representatives of the rebels are gathering signatures and have turned in a tentative constitution to the faculty for consideration.

An Honors Program For EWC Superior Students

REQUIREMENTS STIFF BUT CHALLENGE REWARDING

Feeling ambitious? Ambitious enough to try for "Graduated with Honors" on your diploma? An honors program for the EWC superior student was proposed at the winter quarter faculty in-service sessions held Thursday, January 12. Here are the main outlines of that proposal.

Committee members Joseph Chatburn, Kenneth Halwas, Kenneth Kennedy, Glen Maier, James McKeehan and Donald Pierce, headed by Louis Garfious, submitted their recommendations for an honors program which is still undergoing scrutiny and modification. This superior student committee has outlined requirements for entrance into the program (it can be entered at any class level) as follows:

"Entering freshmen shall be selected for entrance into the Superior student program through a screening process consisting of six steps: (1) Recommendation by the high school, (2) Placement in the top decile in the Grade Point Prediction of the Washington Pre-College Differential Prediction Battery, (3) Adequate Composite English score, (4) Conference with the students, (5) Invitation to enter the Superior student program, and (6) Acceptance by the student.

Students who did not participate in the freshman program may enter the lower division superior student program at the beginning of the sophomore year upon application, screening, and acceptance.

The upper division honors program begins at the junior level, after the student has passed the lower division comprehensive examination which is given at the end of the end of the sophomore year. A departmental honors program also occurs at the beginning of the junior year, the requirements for admittance to be developed by each department with the cooperation of the superior student-honors committee.

Entrance into the superior student (lower level) and the honors program (junior and senior years), is designed to be as flexible as possible in order to adjust to the optimum number of able students. A student may, after completing the lower division superior student program, participate in the upper division general honors program, but he need not have participated in the lower division program to enter a departmental honors program.

The three basic divisions, then, of the honors system are the lower division superior student program, the upper division general honors program, and the upper division departmental honors programs.

A reading knowledge of a foreign language will be required for Graduation with Honors (both general and departmental), and an acceptable senior thesis, written under the supervision of and evaluated by those responsible for the administration of the respective programs, will also be completed before graduation. Special honors advisers will advise students in both programs.

An adequate system of grading of honors students, and requirements for the general and departmental honors programs, are still being studied. The freshman enrolled in the superior student program will take any two of these three areas: Humanities (12), Social Sciences (12), or Physical sciences and mathematics (12). Twenty-four or more credits in required or elective courses will complete the year's work.

Sophomore requirements include 12 hours of literature, 12 of history, and 12 philosophy. Twenty-four or more credits in required or elective courses will also be carried—the area not taken in the freshman year, plus one of the sophomore areas.

Students may withdraw from the superior student, general honors, or departmental honors programs and return to the regular college curriculum at any time upon request, and may be dropped from the programs for failure to maintain required standards.

A growing emphasis upon the "individual study" courses, and the possible addition of colloquiasms to EWC schedules for honor students, are seen, and at last, it appears, Eastern students will be able to accept a real academic challenge.

The program for Eastern has shown a great deal of thought on the part of its formulators. Though comparison with other schools is not always beneficial, EWC's proposed system fares well against if (continued on page 5)

NOTICE

Fall quarter 1961 student teaching applications, as well as applications for the September experience, must be in to the student teaching office, MH 104, no later than April 7.

Registration Is Satisfactory

The once much discussed change of registration procedure has now been tested. The registrar's office, and students too, found it very satisfactory.

Mr. Quinley, registrar, noted that some students, on the first day of registration, were able to complete the procedure in 15 or 20 minutes. Several new sections in various departments were opened and made more of the desired classes available, he added.

The P. E. line was extremely long at times, but "Something will be tried to alleviate that problem," he mentioned.

He went on to say, "All in all, we were basically very pleased with the new procedure. With possible refinements, it will continue."

There is nothing yet contrived by man by which so much happiness is produced as by a good tavern or inn.—Johnson.

COGITO ERGO SUM

We have a new library on campus, The Paul F. Hooper Memorial Library. Paul has assembled and catalogued the largest collection of student government material in the United States. For the effort and time spent assembling this library Garth Wheeler moved, at last Thursday's council, that it be named in Paul's honor. The motion passed unanimously. It is located in the student center and materials may be checked out from the AS secretary.

It looks as though Whitworth is having constitutional troubles. At least they are interested in their student government. A salute to the "rebels."

Eastern may have a foreign student on campus next year to observe our student government. Finance committee appropriated the funds and council approved this USNSA sponsored program.

Jublie Records have released another comedy album, this one by Rusty Warren. Rusty I'm sure could have the WCTU in stitches, that is if they would listen to it. After a brief introduction and the song, "I Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate," Rusty gets off on that favorite of American topics. That's right, SEX. She devotes the remainder of side one to a dialogue of the American husband seducing his American wife. Side two is filled with various little anecdotes and a rare version of, as she call it, "barroom ballad." Frankie and Johnnie. At first impression she appears to be slamming the American husband, but a deeper analysis reveals a subtle slamming of the American wife. All in all a good party record, and I heartily recommended it to all who enjoy that kind of entertainment.

Well what do you know? At least a couple of British publications agree with me on Cuba. According to the Tribune, "If the State Department (US) thinks it can eliminate Castro by failing to recognize him, they will have as much success as they have had with mainland China." And the Economist: "Like an elephant bitten by a flea, Mr. Eisenhower has responded to the latest provocation from Havana by putting his foot down in what looks like the wrong place."

About this time, I believe, it is appropriate to extend a special thank you to President Patterson and Dean Hagie. Freedom of the student press is a granted right of any university administration, and we are indeed fortunate in having Dr. Patterson and Dean Hagie. Both of these men have gone out on the proverbial limb for the Easterner. I only hope I have deserved it.

Associated Student Officer elections are coming up in about three weeks. Are they merely going to be popularity contests or are we going to continue in the direction started last year, where some real issues were at stake,

Students who want to look at high school and home town papers: we will each Friday put them in a box in the SUB reading room.

Endorsement of the Point Fourth Youth Corps was passed by council and Garth Wheeler (acting chair) directed Paul Hooper to send letters to Washington senators, representatives, USNSA, the white house, and the editorial page of the Spokesman, informing them of our action.

Council declared last week's ASC representative at large election illegal. The re-vote will be tomorrow in th union. This time you cast three votes instead of just one.

Sounding Board

Dear Editor

Ken McDonald has written two articles on the problem of Civil Defense. In his first article, "No More Cold War," he would have us abandon the present. Civil Defense measures and turn our efforts and money to the development of international understanding.

This is laudable, for, as he put it, "Lets face it; for if we are involved in a nuclear war, there will be no escape! . . . These people aren't foolish enough to start a suicidal war. So why should we concentrate our efforts on a defense which we know now is useless and unnecessary?"

Yet in his second article, "United We Stand . . ." Ken has come up with an "endure and return type of defense. This is on the premise that the nation, who is able to endure and return the enemy's blow, will have the greatest chance of winning.

Now this implies that Ken thinks that there is a chance to survive a nuclear war, a war he formerly called suicidal. What changed his mind?

"Endure and Return." is a plan devised in 1951 by Philip Wylie, who was then advisor to the Civil Defense Administration, set up shortly after World War II by President Truman. He later served in this capacity under Eisenhower.

Yet, in 1960, nine years later, this same Wylie, fortified with greater knowledge, expounded upon the impotence of any defensive measures.

It is hard to be anything but fatalistic when considering the possibility of a nuclear war. Wylie saw this, as did Eisenhower and the former head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Maxwell Taylor. It was also seen by Albert Schweitzer, Professor Brown of CIT, and Willard Libby, spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission to name a few. Yet annually the government allocates appropriate finances to maintain this billion dollar business of defense. It seems we must take some action no matter how futile. In this respect we closely resemble the proverbial chicken-with-his-head-cut-off.

What then should we do? I say we have no choice in the matter. When a little nation such as Israel has within its power the destruction of the world, we can no longer ignore the only other plan. The plan we had for centuries. The 10-point plan Moses lugged down the side of Mount Sinai.

Kennedy

Friday was inauguration dany and Mr. Kennedy inherits a troubled nation, in troubled times, in a troubled world. Here is a glimpse of the man and some of his major plans.

The Plan

The top priority problem is probably business. With the continuation of the recession and increased unemployment Kennedy's economic task force suggests a stepping up of unemployment benefits and increased government spending (3 to 5 billions). If unemployment continues to rise, now at 6.5 percent of the labor force, and reaches the 7.5 percent mark, reducing of individual income taxes 3 to 4 percentage points is suggested. This would mean an additional 5.7 billions dollars for consumers. With increased government spending and chopping of income taxes, about 10 billion dollars can be added to the spendable income.

Educational

In education Kennedy suggests federal grants to public schools of $30 per pupil with extra payments of $20 per pupil in large citites and low income communities. The total, about 1.5 billions, could be used for school construction and increased teachers' salary. Colleges are to receive half a billion dollars a year in loans and grants for construction, and 350 million in loans for building domritories.

Distressed

The task force on distressed areas wants federal grants to help support children of unemployed workers. A "food stamp plan" is proposed not only for surplus foods but other food-stuffs as well. Also asked is support of unemployed workers who have exhausted their unemployment benefits. Extended coverage, to 39 weeks in all states, is asked with an increase in benefit checks.

Medical Care

Medical care is wanted for women age 62 and men age 65 and survivors of insured workers. Payments for medical care would be worked out between the government and professional groups, but the choice of doctors would be guaranteed. Cost will be about a billion dollars a year of ¼ of 1 percent for employer and employee. Care for the needy will not be covered but will be paid through federal grants. This program also calls for 270 million a year for medical-school construction, operating costs and direct aid to students.

The Man

Kennedy is a political craftsman, undoubtedly the ablest one this country has. "The Boston brand of politics in which he was schooled is a kind of institute of advanced training for political manipulation." Unlike President Eisenhower, Kennedy likes politics. To him a president must be a politician.

He is not afraid to battle but approaches it with a calm level-headedness. His face is still unlined, and unlike many other men who fight their way to the top, he has not taken on grave and ponderous ways. He is most often, flexible, fast moving, resourceful and wily. Politics is the art of the possible.

Mr. Kennedy's convictions are no less solid because he presents them without emotion, and his coolness and self possession do not reflect a neutralism at the core. He has his own style and is not about to change it to please a popular image of the strong president.

These are, in this writer's opinion, the keys to being a great president. Will Kennedy use them? R. W.

Beauty

By Edd Stollery

She was a beautiful girl. She had just finished enrolling in school and was getting to know her classes, too.

Have you ever seen a truly beautiful woman? Sparkling eyes that project a warm personality . . . a personality that radiates from her like friendship. A personality and warmth and beauty that transcends language barriers, that makes a person known in any country in the world.

Then, one night, she was tossed out of bed, out of her room on the school campus, and was the center of abject crowd violence. Have you ever seen an ugly crowd, screaming for someone's blood? This was the crowd that forced her eviction.

This young student, 18 years old, was joined by a friend, aged 19, and they tried to comfort each other. Victims of an ancient war—faced with an angry mob yelling their lungs out, throwing rocks and eggs . . . need I go on?

What we just witnessed was no fiction. It happened. And it happened in America. To fellow college students.

Should we allow our fellow students across the nation to be subjected to such inhumane tactics? I doubt it. I rather think that we'd welcome the students with open arms and open hearts.

To Hamilton Holmes and Charlene Hunter, our Heros of the Week . . . may your tomorrows be as bright as ours.

Especially because you're Negroes.

Anyone interested in being Editor of The Easterner next year? Applications are now being taken in 204 of the SUB. Experience is desired, but not mandatory. ASFC Decisions

During the associated student finance committee meeting on January 16, a motion was passed which allocated $50. expense money to the committee on Legislative Activity for the coming Legislative session.

The idea of pegboards being placed around the union for displays, in order to remove the inconvenience from the now present display, is being considered by the committee.

It is the general opinion of the committee that all expenses of a foreign student, sponsored by the school, will be paid for, although sources of income for the cause were not mentioned.

With this lovely spring weather, it seems that some of the students are leaving their studies to nurse their spring fever. Beware!

Sharron Eaton probably isn't enjoying the spring weather as much as she might. An appendectomy has rather cramped her style. Get well quick, Sharron.

The A — R jam session went over with quite a bang, as far as the mixer was concerned, but it would have been nice to have seen more instruments there. You can't all be so modest that you wouldn't like to get out and make a little noise on a horn, guitar or whatever. Congratulations to Brenda McAlpine and Bob Varankart on their engagement.

It seems that everyone had a nice time at the Sno-Ball even though there wasn't a flake of snow in sight.

KOFFEE KORNER

Laos, a nation miniature in both area (comparable to Idaho) and population (nearly one half that of Washington State) has just completed its sixth year of absolute independence. This small pro-western nation, concealed in the mountains and almost completely isolated, is now an area of great concern to the world. Torn by revolution, this little portion of the world is now teetering between the West and Communist bloc.

Professor Thomas Bonsor and Paul Hooper will present brief summaries on the situation in Laos at the Koffee Korner next Tuesday. Following the summaries, the patrons of the Korner will discuss the problem and the role the United States may play in it.

EWC's NSA committee has been highly pleased with the excellent turn-out received at recent Koffee Korner, and hope the members will continue to increase.

Remember, free coffee, Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the Terrace room of the SUB.

Jam Session

Held in the Bali Lounge, January 18, from 7-9 p. m. was the first "Jam Session" sponsored by A & R.

Combined talent of the Vi-Kings and Stompers, along with various other talents, made it a great success.

During a brief intermission, Ron Geis, president of Ski Club, introduced the candidates for Snowball King and Queen, after which music and dancing resumed.

To top off the "Jam Session" a drum duel was presented by Doug Fish from the Vi-Kings and Jerry Robinson of the Stompers.

Hoopsters Take Pair ONE EASY, ONE CLOSE

Good news were the words for the EWC basketball team last weekend as the hoopsters won a pair of games, knocking off Seattle Pacific easily on Friday at Seattle 75-56, and traveling back to Ellensburg to defeat the Wildcats from Central Washington 67-59 in a close one on Saturday.

Eastern jumped off to an early lead against the Falcons and was never threatened during the evening in the walk-away contest. Eastern was helped out by the red-hot hands of Dave Danielson and Gary Roberts as the two hit 9 out of 10 shots in the first half. Eastern hit its biggest lead shortly before intermission as they pulled away to a 41-21 lead.

In the second half the Seattle team applied a full court press and shaved the lead to 12 points, but the press soon proved ineffectual and the Savages began to roll again to win going away. Perhaps the decisive factor in the game was the zone defense employed by the Savages. Seattle Pacific was forced to shoot from outside all evening and in most instances had to hurry their shots as they connected on only 20 field goals while the Savages garnered 31.

Once again on Saturday night the Savage's defense proved too much for their opposition.

Central jumped off to an early 8-4 lead, but Eastern came bouncing back to gain the lead at 12-10. Eastern was able to hold a slim lead throughout the remainder of the first half on some hot shooting by Roberts, Danielson and Harold York and were able to pull away by 10 points at the halfway point.

The Savages started out cold in the second half and Central took every advantage as they pulled to within two points at 47-45 and again at 49-47 with seven minutes remaining. However, at this point Eastern started connecting on one-and-one free throw advantages and the Wildcats began to fall behind. In those last seven minutes, Eastern connected on 11 out of 12 free throws to bury any chance of victory for Central as Eastern walked off the floor with a final eight point advantage.

Danielson picked up 16 rebounds and 17 points to lead both departments for the evening.

EWC Swim Team Squeaks Past CWC

Things couldn't have been too much closer for the EWC swim team as they squeaked past Central Washington 48-47 in the Cheney pool last Saturday afternoon. Eastern trailed 47-41 going into the final event but emerged victorious in the 400 free style relay to capture seven points and the meet. The win evens the Savage's record at two wins and a pair of defeats.

Eastern once again dominated the sprints, but faltered in the butterfly, breaststroke, in dividual medley, and the backstroke.

Eastern's winning relay team swam a 3:59 for the event. The time is the best thus recorded this year for the conference, and is topped only by a 3:58.6 turned in last weekend by the Idaho swimmers for the Cheney pool.

Gym Team Starts Big

The EWC gymnastics team started out their season in a big way as they swept both ends of a double dual meet at Cheney last Saturday afternoon. The gymnasts defeated Washington State University 75½-67½, and also toppled the University of British Columbia 76½-66½.

The Savages sporting their strongest team in many years upset the highly favored Cougar mat-team paced by team captain Jack Benson. Benson, the only returning letterman on this year's team hauled down four wins in a brilliant individual performance. Among his victories were the rope climb, horizontal bar, still rings and flying rings. Benson turned in a fine 4.9 second clocking in the rope climb, which should place him well up in the Northwest rankings. Les Raschko, another Savage member from last year's team nailed down a first in the rebounding tumbling event.

George Gannon of UBC was the other individual star of the meet as he captured three firsts, but Savage depth and Benson proved too much for his team.

THE OPTIMIST

This article is being written on the bus Saturday evening, January 21. The EWC Savage basketball team has just won their fourth consecutive game, their third in conference play, and their second straight weekend sweep, as they upset the Central Washington College Wildcats 67-59.

This was the game the Savages really needed, as they had dropped their first conference encounter on their home court to Whitworth College's Pirates. Just before the game, coach Red Reese commented that "since we lost one on our home court, we have to pick up a victory somewhere on the road," and win on the road is exactly what the Savages did.

On Friday night, the Savages were red-hot as they walked away from a surprised Seattle Pacific five. Gary Roberts had the hottest pair of hands for the Savages as he hit five out of five attempts from the field in the first half and one out of two in the second for an amazing .857 shooting percentage for the evening.

This writer was quite impressed on Friday evening by the cheering section when the Savages were entertained by the Seattle Pacific Falcons. Almost the entire student body of 1200 students was on hand for the game and they were all clad in either a white blouse or white dress shirt. It was truly a spectacle to behold, and the cheering was almost as good as that of the Eastern student body.

Looking into the future, the next two weeks could well hold the destiny of the Savage team. Eastern once again ventures to the coast where they will be hosted by Pacific Lutheran University on Friday and Western Washington on Saturday and then come back to Cheney to trade encounters with Whitworth the following week. At the present time Whitworth and Western are battling it out for the league lead with the Savages a close third. Pacific Lutheran, defending conference champion, after winning their first nine straight games this year, have been playing without the services of Norm Dahl, their leading scorer, and consequently have lost three out of four in conference play, but Dahl is expected to be back in action next weekend to battle the Savages.

Thus far this season the Savages' shooting has been far above average for a college team as they have been hitting at nearly 39% for the season. Ted Paterson is leading the squad with 42% closely followed by several other Savages. Eastern is also high up the ladder in free throw percentage connecting on three-fourths of their attempts for a nifty 75%. Dave Danielson is far out in front for Savage rebounders as he has pulled down 161 rebounds in the 16 games for an average of slightly over 10 per game.

A special hint for anyone staying in hotels with folding beds. Stay clear away from them, they will cause nothing but trouble, take it from the basketball team.

Incidentally, if one were to look at comparative scores he would find that Eastern was 41 points better than Whitworth this past week, as Eastern won by a total of 27 points over the same two teams that the Whits were losing to by 14. We'll see how accurate these statistics are in two weeks.

Play Tryouts

pate in one of the first performances of a drama which is already making headlines and will undoubtedly become one of the classics of our generation. If you'd like to know the title, and what you're in for, see anyone who is connected with Eastern's drama department.

Tryouts for Stevens' productions are very informal. Prior experience in acting or crew work is unnecessary, though desirable, and selections for the eight men's parts and nine women's will be based mainly upon reading done in a group.

On Stage

The tentative performance date is set at April 5, and rehearsals will run from 3-5 in the afternoons, Monday through Friday. It is hoped that the play can be repeated as the first production during the summer school schedule, so that the audience will not be so limited as in the past.

Anyone interested in working on set designing, lighting or make-up work, will find that this play is the chance of a lifetime. Come over to Showalter this afternoon and get "filled in." See you before Friday.

Honors Program

it is not superior to, the programs of larger schools.

Sydney G. Hacker, mathematics professor and division head and director of the honors program at Washington State University, spoke at this year's EWC faculty orientation. In the American Journal of Pharmaceutical Education (Vol. 24, No. 3, 1960), he said this:

"It is not an easy matter to start an Honors Program in any university. It is almost impossible to start one on a university-wide basis. Usually programs begin very modestly and never get beyond the College of Sciences and Arts. It is almost unheard of to include the professional schools within a common framework of honors work. Formulating any honors program is not to be undertaken lightly."

In addressing Eastern faculty members, Hacker commented, "We reward all types of fancy and shallow things in this life," and went on to state the value of an honors program to the student, an area in which honors should rightfully be placed.

Eastern's faculty, and the members of the superior student committee, have expressed interest in student opinion upon the EWC honors program. It is evident that the benefits of the program to the faculty members will be, if not negligible, intangible. The program is for the students who have the ambition and incentive, as well as the intelligence, to accept this step toward a worthwhile goal.

What are your opinions, or questions about, Eastern's proposed honors program? Do you feel that there will be sufficient motivation for students to warrant this program? This last speculation rests, to a large extent, upon the student; for without your encouragement of others, and your acceptance of the program yourselves, there can be nothing but a large body of complacent and, let's face it, inferior students, skimming along in a school which offers very little challenge to the individual to develop himself fully. Eastern—your school, and you, just don't need any more of this.

This article will only begin to answer some of the more important questions upon the honors program. Anything you'd like to ask, or say, on the matter—address it to Shan Eggers, associate editor of the Easterner.

IK's, Spurs, Work Together In Service

February 3 is the date set for the Intercollegiate Knights banquet in Spokane. The Knights, along with their special guests, will pay respect to Rhoda Paulson, Intercollegiate Knight Sweetheart.

The IK book exchange, put on for the benefit of the students, is now over. "We, the members of Intercollegiate Knights, would like to thank all the people who participated in this exchange," said an IK spokesman.

It was felt by the club that, for students in the lower division classes who wish to sell their books, it would have been better if they had brought them earlier.

Next quarter the book exchange will operate again, but with something new.

The Spurs, sister organization to the IK, will work with the Knights in hopes that it will make the exchange bigger and better than before.

USCF Programs 'Responsibility' Series

United Student Christian Foundation has a series of Thursday night programs planned on "Freedom and Responsibility." The first of the series will occur Tomorrow evening, January 26th.

Topic for tomorrow's meeting will be "Separation of Church and State in the United States." The recent election has produced a great deal of interest in the principle and belief in separation of church and state.

Just what does this principle mean? Historically, how has it developed? How is it possible for this principal to be threatened?

The Rev. William E. Goding, director of the Baptist student center of Washington State University, will be the speaker. The group meets at 6 on Thursday evening in the Tahiti room.

Prediction Tests Coming

Washington pre-college differential prediction tests will be given Saturday, February 4, in Hargreaves Library. Dr. Maier, director, of general academic services, stated that there are quite a number of students on campus who have not taken these tests.

He added, "If students who have not yet taken these tests, do not take them now, their grades will be withheld at the end of winter quarter." Students who entered Eastern's fall quarter and who did not take the tests prior to that time, have been notified that the tests must be taken. Other students who have not yet taken them must do so on their own initiative.

The tests will start at 9 a. m., and will be over by 3:30 p. m. The $5 testing fee must be paid on Saturday, February 4.

"If there are any questions as to whether a student must take this test, which is a required test," Dr. Maier urges, "come in and see me in Showalter No. 209."

Kitty Hawk To Ike In 20th Century Movies

On February 1st, 15th and March 1st, at 12 noon, EW students have an opportunity to see some very good documentary films from 20th Century. Those who are frequently mesmerized by the modern age cyclops may have had the good fortune to tune in on the Prudential Company's TV show at 6:30 p. m. Sundays.

These films cover every important event and person from Kitty Hawk to Ike.

Films shown in the Isle-Land are free to the students as the student union provides the film and also extends an invitation for all to come.

Showing these films was suggested by Mr. Tom Bonsor of the Social Studies faculty as a supplementary to classroom work. Those who are familiar with this series are aware of the benefits to be gained. Those who are not should make an attempt to see the films so that they might profit too.

The hour of 12 noon was chosen with the commuters in mind. They can bring their lunches to the film, and enjoy a pleasant and profitable hour while eating. The first film was shown Jan. 4th, with only six persons in attendance. That evening, after Isle-O, there were over 100 who attend the evening showing.

On alternating Wednesdays, other films of this nature will be shown, making a steady source of beneficial entertainment available for those who wish to take advantage of it.

Mr. Don Williams, assistant in student personnel services, is in charge of the programming. John Droz, IMC, is in charge of the projector.

All those who are able are urged to attend and support this lunch hour activity. After all, it is free, and who in the world wants to pass up a free movie—besides—you might learn something with which to impress a Prof.
